Mr. RYMAL IN THE HOUSE.

The following passage-at-arms took place between Mr. Rymal, the joker, and Mr. Powell, the dandy, on Dorion's Election Bill, in which Mr. Rymal, as usual, outdid his opponent in argument:

Mr. Rymal said he had always supported any measure like the present. He saw no reason why, if the present bill be a good one, or an improvement on our present election law, its passage should be postponed. He believed there was a proverb which said, "Omitting to do good was committing evil," and further, he thought the Scripture stated, of him that did evil that good might come from it, that his damnation was just. (Renewed laughter.) This was a doom he sought to avoid. (Laughter.) But he feared some members might get it without seeking it. (Loud laughter.) He believed the present bill was an improvement on the present election law. This had been the opinion of the President of the Council; the Liberal party, last year, and many Conservatives. He would vote on this as on all other measures according to his convictions of right, and if the Government should be thereby embarrassed, he should not say much. (Renewed merriment.) As to the members of the Liberal party who had changed their minds on the subject, he would only say, "Ephraim is joined to his idols; let him alone." (Boisterous merriment.)

Mr. Powell said the hon. gentleman might be pure; he might have been begotten of election purity; but God help the electors who have sent him here. (Loud laughter.) He (Mr. Powell) was opposed to this bill on principle. The House ought to pause before going further in the direction of disfranchising the property of the country. An order of elector had been admitted to the franchise, within a few years, which had not contributed to that purity of election which the Opposition professed so much to desire. He believed the best security for the future would be to preserve the safeguards we now possessed. (Hear, hear.)—He believed the present election law was better than what the bill would give us. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Rymal said the hon. member had spoken in a sneering manner of his constituents sending him to Parliament. He need not pray to God for his (Mr. Rymal's) constituents, for they cared as little for the member for Carlton as he for them. (Laughter.) He need not think of coming here to lecture the House—this Chesterfield of Parliament!—this Beau Brummel of the neck-tie!—tailor made man. (Roars of laughter.)

SPANGLER REMEMBERS HIS LAST DRINK AND DON'T KNOW WHEN HE'LL GET ANOTHER.

(From the Washington Chronicle.)

A letter has been received from Spangler by a gentlemen of this city, which was written while on his way to the Dry Tortugas. It is in pencil, and reads as follows:

On Board Steamer Florida, bound to the Island of Dry Tortugas, Fla.

Friend—Still thinking of old times, and wishing I was seated in your saloon, drinking a nice glass of hot whiskey, instead of in this hot and sunny clime. The last drink I had was in your house, and you may put it down as a settled fact, that it will be the last for six long years to come, and may be forever, before I get another. You must not forget me now in my sunny home. When joy shall swell your heart, and the welkin is made to ring with the light and cheerful voices of yourself and my former companions, stop for a moment to cast a lingering but bright thought upon him who was life, all life amidst you; wish him a companion of your festival, and I will feel happy in my exile—banished and in a burning clime—Dry Tortugas, 1,300 miles from you. Extend your hospitality to the gentleman who brings this to you. Good bye. Sometimes think of me and my companions, though they are unknown to you personally.—Edward Spangler.

CHOLERA.

This fearful pestilence is marching westward with rapid strides. Already it has reached Italy, Malta and Marseilles, and has made its appearance at Gibraltar and other parts of Spain. There is every reason to fear that the scourge will visit England, and eventually find its way across the Atlantic. Throughout the large towns of England, Ireland, and Scotland, every precaution is being taken with reference to sanitary regulations. "It behooves the Canadian people—for it is not likely should it cross the Atlantic that they shall escape its ravages—to set their houses in order so far as regards the cleaning away all accumulations of animal and vegetable refuse, filth, &c., which ought to be removed from the vicinity of dwelling houses, and either buried in the earth, or placed in an airy and exposed situation, so that the foul emanations may be so diluted by being diffused in the atmosphere as to become harmless."

Death of a Centenarian.—On the 29th ult., Ange Liqué Royer, widow of Mr. Pierre Royer, died at her residence, Richmond st., St. John's Suburbs, at the advanced age of 113 years, eight months and ten days. Deceased leaves 226 living descendants.—Quebec News.

Mr. Gladstone's opponent, Mr. Hardy, was elected by two constituencies,—Oxford University and Leominster. In Dumbartonshire, the Liberal and Conservative candidates polled an equal number of votes, thus necessitating the holding of a new election. Scotland returned only nine Conservatives, or less than one-sixth of her whole representation.

Don't Cough and Cry so, Children.—Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers will relieve you in ten minutes after use, cure your sore throat and hoarseness, give tone and compass to your voice, and leave you in perfect singing order. Procure a box without delay, put a handful in your pocket, and then bid farewell to coughs, colds, &c. For sale at all medicine dealers at 25 cents a box.

Cotton in Illinois.—It is estimated that Illinois alone will produce five hundred thousand bales of Cotton next year, and we understand that the Government of the United States have given instructions to their General in command of the Army in the South to have all the seed saved that is possible, for planting in that and other western States, but should their expectations not be fulfilled it is gratifying to know that we have a sovereign remedy for coughs, colds, cramps in the stomach, cholic, cholera morbus, and all complaints of the like nature, in the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," sold by all Medicine Dealers, 25 cts per bottle.

GLORIOUS NEWS.

The Dutch Flag Revived

NOW IS THE TIME

For Speculation!

NOTWITHSTANDING the hard times there must be monied men enough left in the country who are willing to invest their capital to advantage, and to those the undersigned addresses himself when he informs them that he is determined to return to the old country, and therefore wishes to dispose of his following valuable property should it be at a sacrifice:—

One two story brick, and one frame house, standing on one lot, and one two story large frame house on another lot adjoining; all well finished, with every accommodation, and pleasantly situated on Market Street, directly opposite the new Market house. Also, one two story frame building (Shop and dwelling) on Kent Street, at present occupied by himself, a good garden and barn attached, with every convenience for a business man.

And in view of his determination, the subscriber has commenced to sell off his entire stock of SHOP GOODS at cost price—everything cheap—and to prove this the public are respectfully requested to walk up to the west end and take a view of his sample window, where he has on exhibition specimens of goods with prices marked in plain figures, so that every one may satisfy themselves upon the merits of the article. A strict cash business is done, so please bring the cash with you.

Until further notice the subscriber will continue to carry on the Watchmaking business as heretofore, to which he has added the beautiful art of Engraving. Inscriptions upon Rings, Watches, Doorplates, Coffinplates, Forks, Spoons, Signets, Newspaper Cuts, or Business Card Stamps, will be executed to order in superior style.
