THE LAST OF THE CONSPIRATORS.

MRS. SURRATT, ATZEROT, HARROLD, AND PAYNE, EXECUTED!

A few minutes after one o'clock the outer prison door was opened, and Mrs. Surratt was supported on her way to the gallows by two military officers. Next followed Atzerot, Harrold, and Payne, accompanied by a guard, and their respective ministers of the Gospel. Front seats were provided for them on the platform in the following order: Mrs. Surratt, Payne, Harrold, and Atzerot. The officers entrusted with the execution and the ministers occupied intermediate positions.

Major-General Hartzuff, who has been from the commencement in charge of the prisoners, came forward and read the order from the War Department, already published, approving the sentences, and ordering the penalty of death to be inflicted. A heavy guard was stationed on the walls surrounding the ground; soldiers below were formed in two sides of a square. Several hundred civilians were present, spectators of the solemn scene. One of the priests attendant on Mrs. Surratt repeated a short prayer, to which Payne, who was seated next to her, attentively listened. The minister who had been ministering to Payne expressed in the name of the latter his sincere thanks to Gen. Hartzuff, and the officers and soldiers who had charge of him, for their personal kindness. They had not uttered an unkind word nor given an unkind look or gesture, but seemed to compassionate his misfortune. The minister then uttered a short prayer, asking for Payne the forgiveness of all sins, and a passage from this unhappy world into the joys and blessings of Heaven.

The condemned were then required to rise from their seats, when the chairs were removed. They were now all on the drops; their hands were fastened behind them, and their legs bandaged both above and below the knees, and white caps drawn over their heads.

Atzerot, while being prepared for the execution, exclaimed, "Gentlemen, farewell! Take care! and good-bye, gentlemen now before me." One of the clergymen standing near exclaimed, "May we all meet in the other world!"

As soon as the noose was placed round each neck, Mrs. Surratt's being the last one adjusted, the section of the platform on which they had been standing, suddenly fell, and left the culprits hanging several feet from the ground. Mrs. Surratt and Payne scarcely moved a muscle.

The scaffold was constructed with two traps or drops, each one for two of the conspirators. From a beam above hung four ropes of different lengths, according to the stature of the criminals, the longest being for Payne. The drops had a fall of five feet. About two rods from the scaffold were four new-made graves, and near them rough pine board coffins. As the hour of execution approached, the number of guards on the walls were increased until they stood in close order, elbow to elbow. At a little past 1 o'clock, the regiment was drawn up inside the yard, forming two sides of a square. Mrs. Surratt was on the scaffold next to the penitentiary; then came Payne, Harrold, and Atzerot. A clergyman attended each on the scaffold. All were hung in manacles, save Mrs. Surratt. Four officers performed the execution.

Payne was strangled to death, but the necks of all the others were broken. The bodies hung till two o'clock, when they were cut down.

S. & O. Barlow still continue to show at their Store, Kent Street, the most elegant lot of new Mantles and Jackets ever brought to Lindsay, as well as beautiful Bonnets, Hats and Dress Goods in great variety. They have also Hoop Skirts from the best makers, Parasols, Feathers, Flowers, &c. Gentlemens' Cloths and Tweeds always on hand. They have also some very fine Cotton Tweeds made of the genuine article and warranted to wear well—to which they would call particular attention.

CHOLERA PANIC IN EUROPE.

The cholera is on its travels—that fierce and pitiless plague, which has its residence in the East, but sallies forth at periodical intervals to desolate West, North and South. From time to time we hear of the visitation in distant places—deaths by wholesale in Central Asia, deaths in Southern Russia, regiments disbanded by death on Indian marches, and rivers choked with corpses in the islands of the Eastern Ocean. The last Red Sea news brought word that Mecca and Medina are this year vast lazaar houses of cholera-smitten victims, the pilgrims perishing all along the road to the shrines from Jedda and the southern ports, and Sheiks who had come to kiss the Kaaba turning back in horror, with their trains, to succumb in tents and houses where they had shut themselves up. Already Egypt has been reached, and the fellahs there are perishing by thousands; so much so that the Italian and French harbors are shut against vessels from Alexandria. Marseilles has kept all the mail boats in quarantine ever since two moribund passengers were landed in the Jalliette; and at last we ourselves have been obliged to confront a peril that cannot be disregarded. The newspapers and letters which went out of the general post office on Tuesday last were sent in boxes instead of bags, to prevent infections being carried out of Egypt by the mail passing through the country. That, indeed, is not a precaution on our own behalf, but it will also be observed with regard to the overland despatches coming homeward. All the instances we enumerate, and others which might be cited, prove that the cholera is on its periodical march; and, without ascribing to the same source the outbreaks in North Russia, Poland and Prussia, it is at the least possible that the year may be signalized by the invasion of that enemy which patriotism and courage cannot keep out of our islands.—London Telegraph, June 22nd.

CLOUDED HEADS.—The fashion of wearing a dish cloth upon the hat is again in vogue with the exquisites, being varied a trifle with many by the substitution of a lady's veil. The count is said to be a safeguard against sun stroke or any other shock liable to sensitive natures.—Hamilton Times.
