FARM AND FIRESIDE.

[CONDUCTED BY A PRACTICAL AGRICULTURIST.]

The Bachelor's Last Hours.

Not a laugh was heard, not a joyous note,
As our friend to the bridal we hurried;
Not a wit discharged his farewell joke,
As the bachelor went to be married.

We married him quickly to save his fright,
Our heads from the sad sight turning;
And we sighed as we stood by the lamp's dim light,
To think him not more discerning.

To think that a bachelor free and bright,
And shy of the sex as we found him,
Should there at the altar, at dead of night
Be caught in the snares that bound him.

Few and short were the words we said,
Though of cake and wine partaking;
We escorted him home from the scene of dread,
While his knees were awfully shaking.

Slowly and sadly we marched him adown
From the top to the lowermost storey;
And we have never heard from nor seen the poor man
Whom we left alone in his glory.

Some Hints for December Work.

From the current number of the American Agriculturist we take the subjoined hints for early winter work. The hints regarding ice and ice-houses bear out all we have said regarding the propriety of securing a supply of this now necessary article in every well-regulated household:—

Ice Ponds.—Every house and dairy, however small the latter may be, should have a supply of ice. If there is no pond, a small stream may be dammed and the water backed up, to make a pond. A considerable supply may be procured by making of boards a large box a foot deep, similar to a mortar bed, and claying the joints. If this is filled with water, in cold weather, an exposure of two or three days will be sufficient to make a cake of ice, which may be put in this shape with little trouble.

A Large Block of Ice has been made in the house itself, by making a frame of boards in the center, and gradually filling it up, so that the water freezes solidly each night. Additions in height are made to the frame as required, and the sawdust is packed around it. In this way a solid block of ice, 10 feet each way, weighing over 30 tons, has been made during the winter by means of a hose from a pump. Such a block of ice wastes very little in the summer.

The Leisure of Winter. While there is always something to do about a farm, the winter season offers considerable leisure for the farmer. For the best use of this time, nothing can be more profitable than to procure and use a small select library of books of an instructive kind. To read for amusement only, is not recommended, because information of a valuable kind can be procured in such a form as to be interesting and agreeable.

Management of Manure. The barn-yard is the field for winter work. Much may be done here by skillful management. Manure, so long as it remains frozen, remains unchanged, and the preparation of the manure in the best manner for use in the spring makes no progress. Make a central heap in the yard, and by means of a few planks and a wheelbarrow move the manure from the stable each day to this heap. If the heap is built up square, and made four feet high, it will keep warm in the coldest weather, and while warm it will ferment and rot.

Turning Manure. A large heap may be turned by beginning at each end and throwing off the manure to a distance of about three feet; gradually move it from each end, until there are two heaps. After the manure has remained in this way for a few weeks, replace the two heaps, making one heap again, thus turning the manure very thoroughly twice. In turning, the manure should be shaken thoroughly apart, and all the lumps broken. Two loads of manure so treated do as much immediate good, as will three of coarse lumpy stuff.

Horses. No animal should be permitted to fall off in condition at this season. It is difficult to restore an animal when all the food and vitality are required to resist the cold and the hardships of a stormy winter. Horses that are not at work still require good and sufficient food and warm shelter. Exposure to a storm may throw the whole system out of order and do mischief that months of effort may not repair. Prevention is the better plan. Good hay, with a few ears of corn, and an occasional warm bran mash, will keep horses in condition, but good, daily grooming must never be forgotten.

The Dairy.—Dairy animals are worthy of the best care. A good cow returns her value every year in milk and butter, and in some localities the manure almost, if not quite, pays for her feed. The richer the feed, the better the manure. At any rate, a cow is one of the most productive of our farm animals, and the better she is the more profitable. Only good cows should be kept; as a barren tree should be rooted out of an orchard, so should a poor cow be discarded from the dairy. Every dairyman or farmer may improve his herd.

Thoroughbred Animals are not for the working farmer; they are not so profitable as grades. There are thousands of grade cows which will surpass an average thoroughbred in yield of milk and butter. The farmer's plan is to procure and keep, or use, the best bull he can find, raise the heifer calves, and select the best of these to breed from pure-bred males again. But only a strictly pure-bred bull, of the best kind, and from an excellent cow, should be used. A vast improvement must be made in our dairy cows before the most profit can be made from them. The same is true of sheep and pigs.

Sheep. Let no sheep go into winter quarters infested with ticks. If no other method is possible, go over the sheep one by one, on a warm day, and kill every tick with a pair of scissors. If a boy is given a cent a dozen for all the ticks he can find on a score of sheep, he will earn a dollar or two in a day from almost any farmer's flock. If ticks are killed, the trouble and expense will be amply repaid in the better condition of the lambs by and by. Breeders are generally more careful in this respect.

Fattening Sheep. Sheep that are being fattened for market and for the sake of manure, need to be fed with regularity. A variation of half an hour in their foddering time makes them fretful and uneasy, and this causes loss of flesh and fat. If well littered, the manure may be left to collect in the shed until spring; the solid packing of the manure will prevent undue heating.

Sundry Matters. A pair of cards and a brush should be in every cow stable, and cleanliness should be carefully observed. A thorough carding and brushing will not only increase the quantity of the milk, but will add to its purity. Young calves should be freed from vermin by applying a mixture of linseed oil and kerosene to the parts infested. Water troughs should be emptied and turned over at night, to prevent them from being frozen up. Tools will be safer when kept in a selected place than when lying about. Those not now in use will be much improved by soaking the wood with crude petroleum, and covering the metal parts with a covering of tallow; or what is better, the mixture of rosin and lard. If accounts have not been kept, nor any daily record of farm work, the proper books should be procured, and at the beginning of 1880 a commencement made. It is worth the trouble to know just how one stands with himself and the world.

Butter-Making Begins at the Stable.

The best butter-maker in the world will fail to get first quality butter if the cows are milked in a dirty stable, says a farmer in the American Agriculturist. It is not long ago that a New Jersey farmer asked me how he could best market his butter, which he said was exceedingly good. He enlarged upon his high grade Alderneys, and the quality of his pastures and water. Afterwards I went out to see a cow I wanted to buy, and he sat down at milking time to let me judge of her flow. I certainly never saw a dirtier pail of milk. Specks of dirt, dust, dandruff, hairs, etc., peppered the top, and swashed about on the bottom as the pail was emptied. He got only 18 or 20 cents for his butter, and I think it was worth no more. Does not this filth flavor the milk, the cream, the butter? Most assuredly it does. This is only obvious filth; the invisible and more potent volatile exhalations from the manure and the urine-saturated floors, and all the mal-odorous surroundings of most cow stables, usually have a still greater influence. When milk is once contaminated, nothing can be done which will entirely do away with the effect. Part of the evil may be removed by thorough airing of the milk as it is cooled before setting. Shallow setting no doubt favors the removal of these odors, and aeration during churning has an important effect. But, here as in many other things, the fountain-head is the spot at which reform should be commenced.

General Farm Notes.

A NOTE OF WARNING.—The farmers in this as well as in other sections of the country who are in the habit of running machinery on their farms, unprotected, will do well to make a note of the following: A hired man on the farm of Robert Craig, Toronto township, had his leg broken by being caught in the tumbling shaft of some machinery which was not protected according to law. He claimed damages from Mr. Craig, but was refused, and a suit was entered. It was tried in Toronto last week and a verdict for the plaintiff of $1,000 was given, which, with costs, will amount to sufficient to impress upon the mind of every farmer using machinery on the farm, the necessity of seeing that it is properly protected.

THE VALUE OF ASHES.—It is full time that Canadian farmers waked up to the loss they are suffering by the exportation of ashes to the United States, says the Globe, and our cotemporary's remark may be read in connection with the article on this subject in THE POST last week. Wood ashes, leached or unleached, are worth for manure just as much to the Canadian farmer as to the American farmer, and can be bought more cheaply by the Canadian. Some day, when hardwood ashes get a little scarcer, and our fields are a little more depleted of the potash, there will be a great outcry for ashes, and none to be had. Ashes put upon land do not waste. The money represented by their value is just as surely safe in the land as in the bank. There is scarcely any kind of fertilizer which shows such lasting results. Nine-tenths of the meadow land would cut another ton to the acre in return for a liberal dressing of ashes, and the ashes would continue to be heard from for fifteen or twenty years. Let the Americans use their own ashes. There is room in Canada for all that can be made here.

What all Men Should Know.

TO RELIEVE A COUGH. The troublesome cough caused by an accumulation of phlegm in the throat, especially in the morning, experienced mostly by persons affected with Chronic Catarrh, can be relieved almost instantly by taking a teaspoonful of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, which has the advantage of being harmless to the stomach and at the same time improving the appetite. 1056-2.

A Conundrum Propounded.

Why will the "small boy" persist in eating green apples? The reader may as well give it up at once, since our original parents were guilty of the "little indiscretion." Physicians say the season in which early or unripe fruit is first introduced is the one they are most severely taxed in cases of colic, diarrhœa, dysentery, &c. Young and old are guilty, but boys and girls are the surest victims and the greatest sufferers. There is no peace, comfort or safety in the family unless its head provides a proper and efficient remedy. SCOTT & BOWNE'S PALATABLE CASTOR OIL is a certain remedy and is easy to take. Price 25c. —1058-4.

A Positive Fact.

Nervousness is the sense of feebleness, or the lack of stability of the nervous system, as distinguished from the rest of the body. It is preeminently a disease, and more widely spread through the northern and eastern part of the United States and the Dominion of Canada than any other part of the world. We will not stop to say why this is the case, but we do emphatically say the Victoria Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites will be found an invaluable medicine for all parties afflicted with Nervousness, Dyspepsia, Consumption, Defective Nutrition, General Debility, or weakness of the whole system. One of the first effects is an increase of the nervous of vital energy, followed by a feeling of unusual comfort and strength. For sale by all dealers.—1056-2.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all nervous complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French, or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. SHERAR, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N.Y.—1053-13.

When the Doctors don't Disagree.

The Doctors usually let a novelty in medicine or any change in existing remedies work its way to recognition through a long period of neglect or antagonism, but with unprecedented unanimity they have accepted and prescribe SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL WITH THE HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME AND SODA, and universally declare it to be in consumption, wasting disorders of children, and all scrofulous affections, the finest remedy known. It is also perfectly agreeable to the taste.—1053-4.

Hagyard's Yellow Oil

Is one of the surest remedies in the world for the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Spinal and Bronchial Complaints, Deafness, Ear-Ache, Cramps, Sprains, Bruises, Galls, Stiff Joints, Swelled Hands, Sore Nipples, Stiff Neck, Chilblains, Tetter, Frost Bites, Chapped Hands, Wounds, Cuts, Sore Throat, Stings of Insects, Shortness of Breath, or any diseases that are painful or sore. We have no hesitation in recommending it for any of the above complaints, and believe it the quickest and most perfect combination known to remove pain from almost any cause, and can be used either internally or externally. For particulars see wrapper accompanying each bottle. For sale by all dealers, price 25cts.—1056-2.

Experience has Amply Proved,

And the fiat of the medical faculty authenticates the statement that quinine is the most reliable specific for malarial fevers, and a tonic and nervine of signal efficacy. In its usual form the bitterness of its flavor constitutes an objection to it with many persons, but when swallowed in the agreeable combination known as "Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine," the most delicate palate is not offended by it. In the above standard preparation pure sherry wine and choice aromatic ingredients not only impart to it a pleasant taste, but increases its remedial properties. The "Quinine Wine" is a sovereign remedy for bilious, remittent and intermittent fever if taken between the attacks and used with persistence and regularity, and an invigorant of surpassing merit. It endows the debilitated with fresh vigor, conquers dyspepsia, reforms an irregular habit of body, and restores quietude and tone to an enfeebled nervous system. It is by complete digestion and assimilation that the blood is enriched. This preparation, by giving a prompt and effectual impetus to the two processes named, is the means of renewing the vitality of which so many unfortunate persons feel the want. Restored appetite and tranquil repose are speedy consequences of its use. It contains nothing but salutary ingredients and may be used without apprehension by persons of delicate constitutions. The article is widely and deservedly popular, and has no affinity with those trashy preparations which sometimes obtain a brief notoriety by audacious puffery. Buyers should be particular to ask for the "Quinine Wine prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto." Sold by medicine dealers everywhere. 1050-8.

Read this Twice.
