"See, Dear, this Instruction Roll shows how to pick out the melody notes and accent them. Now listen to me do it."
Anyone can play the Gulbransen without effort. It is the one player-piano which has been developed to assist true musical interpretation. If you doubt that you could learn to play a player-piano so it could not be distinguished from hand playing, we invite you to try the Gulbransen only ten minutes.

Get Rid of Dying Trees.

Two men with a crosscut saw can bring down a tree in better shape than one man with an ax, although an ax is good, but slow. In many communities where wood is plentiful a company of men run a power saw. This is an easier and much more efficient method than the handsaw way.

So sharpen your trusty ax and lay it at the foot of some dying tree. Put it out of its misery and at the same time make yourself some extra fuel for the kitchen stove and firepiace.—Exchange.

Lake County Fair

That Satisfied Smile
It's Broadest at Harvest Time
Poets rhyme about the 'smiling country in the month of May.' But we'd rather see that same country at harvest time, when the smiles are on the faces of the farmers after their well-earned crops have come in.
It's the same in every business at 'harvest'—the time when a man gathers in the returns on his hard work.
Our patrons, using to the full our many facilities and personal service, reap better returns on their investments of time, work and money.

COAL COAL COAL
The Interstate Commerce Commission has semi-officially announced that freight rates cannot be lowered before February 1st, 1922.
Coal consumers all over the country have delayed placing orders expecting a reduction in freight rates and in consequence thereof there will be a rush for fuel that will be difficult to handle. Don't make the mistake of putting off buying your winter supply of fuel until the mines get swamped with appeals for coal and the railroads are congested with traffic.
