MR. GLADSTONE HOPEFUL.

HE THINKS ITS IRISH POLICY WILL BREAK THE GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Harrington Roughly Assaults the Police Witnesses in the Inquest at Mitchelstown—A Socialistic Priest from St. Louis Who Should be Sent Home.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Speaking to a deputation at Hawarden to-day, Mr. Gladstone said that although the Liberals sustained a smashing defeat at the last election the present year was full of signs that the judgment of the nation when again pronounced would be far different. The Irish question continued to cast into a deep shade every other question. It was to the interest of all parties to have the question settled. It would be an unfeigned joy to him if the Tories relieved the Liberals of the task of solving the problem by presenting to Ireland the measure of justice which she is entitled to receive. Such an event would cast upon him the delightful duty of assisting the Tories to attain a righteous and necessary end. [Cheers.] He did not believe that the end would be long delayed. Little progress would be possible in English and Scotch affairs until the Irish question was brought to a happy consummation. It was said that he had caused the block in the last session of Parliament. The fact was that he had not made a single proposal during the whole session. It was not by him or his friends that the progress of affairs had been stopped. It was because the Government found it necessary to occupy the time of Parliament with miserable and mischievous retrogressive proposals. [Cheers.]

Referring to the Liberal Unionists, he said he would not find fault with their conscientious opposition. At the same time their whole conduct was animated by animosity and hostility to Ireland, and they did everything in their power to deprive the Liberal party of all influence and vitality. It was a deplorable position for a gentleman professing Liberalism. [Cheers]. Sympathy with them was the dominant sentiment in his mind. There had always been weak-kneed Liberals. The present cave was not the first one which Liberals had formed. The freedom of judgment which prevailed in the Liberal party made it liable to that calamity. Time would show that those who had left the party were egregiously wrong. It was a misnomer to call these men Liberal-Unionists. There was no unionism in them. Theirs was a policy which tended to destroy the union. It was equally difficult to describe them as Liberals while they supported a government of coercion—not coercion to repress crime but coercion to suppress freedom of speech, public assembly and even the freedom of the press.

He had recently seen indications of police interference with public meetings in London. This resulted from the proceedings of the last session of Parliament. [Cries of "Hear, hear."] The Liberals had warned the people of England that the cause of Ireland was their cause. He had then no idea that the warning would be so soon verified. If the reports were true that the police had called at midnight at the houses of persons who intended to speak at a London meeting, demanding to know the objects and program of that meeting, it was a gross outrage. Such action was contrary to the whole spirit of liberty and violently at variance with the traditions of England. From a mere party point of view he might say let the Government go on. The more offensive their proceedings the sooner would they bring about the great object of his life. His constant prayer was for a speedy and satisfactory settlement of the Irish question. [Cheers.] In conclusion, he said he would defer giving fuller expression to his views regarding Ireland until the opening of the autumn campaign at the conference at Nottingham.

Battled by Harrington.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—During the inquest to-day into the case of the victims who were shot by the police at Mitchelstown, Mr. Harrington caused a scene by declaring that the police who had testified had committed perjury.

Head Constable Browning declared that he valued the lives of the police more than he did the lives of the rioters.

Quarrying Murder.

Eight men who were arrested for connection with the killing of Constable Whelahan, at the time of the encounter between moonlighters and police at Tyrone Station's house, were brought into the Police Court at Limerick yesterday, and after several hours' hearing the prisoners were committed for trial at the next assizes.

MR. BAKER LACKS MAGNETISM.

Dr. Joseph Parker Speaks His Fatherly of Beecher at Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The Academy of Music in Brooklyn was literally packed this evening with a brilliant and fashionable audience which had come to listen to an eulogy on Henry Ward Beecher delivered by the Rev. Joseph Parker, the celebrated English divine. At 8 o'clock promptly Dr. Parker appeared on the stage, accompanied by Dr. Hall, who thereupon took the chair, and in a few brief remarks introduced the speaker of the evening. Dr. Parker impressed everyone present with his cultured delivery and his ability as an exceedingly able elocutionist, but some of the audience considered him without that magnetism which characterized their lately deceased pastor.

THE CHOLERA.

Two More Deaths Among the Alsatia's Passengers, but No New Cases.

New York, Oct. 4.—Two more deaths from cholera occurred among the passengers of the steamship Alsatia at Swinburne Island this morning, and two more will die before night. No new cases are reported.

The steamship Alsatia, which brought the cholera-stricken passengers, to-day came up from quarantine to her Brooklyn pier.

Sarah Jewett's Hapless State.

New York, Oct. 4.—The New York Sun says: Miss Sarah Jewett, formerly the leading lady of the Union Square Theatre, applied yesterday to the Actors' Fund Charity for money to buy the necessaries of life. Miss Jewett was the bright particular star of the cast in "The Two Orphans," "Rose Michel" and other well-known plays. Miss Jewett's creations were continually successful. There was never a breath of scandal whispered against her name. It is said that opium is at the bottom of all her trouble.

THE R.R.V. RAILWAY.

It is Believed that the Project Will Fail for Lack of Funds.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 1.—It is now believed that the Red River Railroad project will fail for want of funds. A dispatch was received here to-day from Kingston, Ont., stating that the only locomotive so far built for the new line had been sold to a New Brunswick railroad company because the Manitoba Government were unable to pay for it and the contractors declined to shoulder the responsibility.

Bright's Friendship for Ireland.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Mr. John Bright has written a letter in which he says:

"I have never been more a friend of Ireland than now, when objecting to hand that unfortunate country over to the rule of revolutionary rebel conspirators. Justice to Ireland requires not only that the laws shall be just, but they shall be obeyed. It is my sympathy with the Irish people which forces me to offer a strong opposition to Gladstone and Parnell. The latter is not changed. The former, five years ago, condemned and denounced him, but now he comes forward as his apologist and defender."

The Samoan King Abducted.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The latest news from Samoa is that the Germans took King Malietoa on board a gunboat for the purpose of exiling him, on account of his failure to prevent his people from robbing German plantations. King Malietoa had previously written to the British and American consuls expressing dis appointment at the absence of their support.
