Allison Contesses

James Allison, the young man who was found guilty of murdering Mrs. Orr at Berlin last fall, has signed the following written confession, which was published in Saturday's dailys:

"I want this to be at once made public. I told it to the authoities some time time ago. I never at any time made improper proposals to Mrs. Orr, I had made up my mind to get even with the Orrs for things they said and did to me. That morning I got mad because they would not let me go to Niagara Falls. After breakfast I left my loaded gun in the woodshed. I did some chores. Mrs. Orr was milking about twenty feet from the woodshed. I went into it and fired at her through the door. She fell off her seat, and never moved again. An axe lay near her. I took it and struck her on the head with it. I had the grave in the swamp ready some days before, but it was to far off, so in a hurry, I made the grave in the corn patch, and dragged her to it by the hand and buried her. I hid the gun and raked up the tracks with the fork, after I got back from Barrie's.

"This is the truth, so help me God."

(Signed) "JAMES ALLISON.

"Berlin Jail, Jan. 7th, 1898"

The above confession was made voluntarily, no pressure whatever having been brought to bear upon him.

The Endeavorer in Church Life

The great majority of our Endeavor host belong to the church, and they should make their influence felt by their devotion to its work, by their regular attendance upon the Sabbath services, and mid week prayermeeting, by their attendance in the Sunday school, and by their contributions to all the church schemes, their growth in spiritual knowledge, and their Christian activity should go together with equal step. They should seek to be examples of zeal and consistency, firmly attached to their own congregation, always in their place, and therefore a source of encouragement to their pastor and of strength to their church. How many Christians are of no value whatever because they are unreliable! One never knows where to find them, anything new carries them away like sear leaves. Be not like to them.

HELPS IN OUR CHURCH LIFE

The Communion of the Lord's Supper is an occasion of great moment, and to be a worthy partaker one must approach to the Lord's table intelligently. An exceedingly helpful aid to this has been issued by F. H. Revell & Co., Toronto, under the title "The Lord's Table," from the pen of that spiritual writer Andrew Murray. This will give food for thought, and will guide the young disiples to a proper understanding of ordnance which is so often misunderstood and abused. We are the servants of God, a truth which we do not sufficiently appreciate, and we are mightily influenced by the examples of good men. "Example is better than speech," and so the life of a great man stirs us like a trumpet, and next to our Lord stands the great Apostle of the Gentiles, on his life a beautiful series of discourses has been published under the title of "Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ," by F. B. Meyer of London. It is published by F. H. Revell of Toronto. This is a book for a young christian to study and it is a rich feast of the most prescious truth.

WHAT SHOULD WE SEEK IN THE NEW YEAR

A good understanding of the Word of God, of the Holy Ghost and likeness to Christ.

Last week a Jubilee christening took place at the home of Mr. Wm. Atcheson. Seven of his grand children were baptized. Six out of the seven were born in the Jubilee year and one on Jubilee day, June 22. The happy parents have named her "Regina." Three of the seven couple were married in Jubilee year in the same week. There were fifty guests present including the children. A seven story fruit cake, one for each babe, decorated the table. The Atcheson family have certainly done their part toward commemorating our Majesty's Jubilee. —Dundalk Herald.

The article on Arthur Henry Hallam by Mr. Gladstone, in the New Year's number of The Companion, is one of the most facinating literary papers ever written by the great English Statesman. It carries one back to a past full of charm. The remainder of this number abounds in interest. There is the beginning of a new serial story by C. A. Stephens, a good story of a reporter's interview with the late Emperor Dom Pedro of Brazil, several other short stories of exceptional merit, and the usual rare selection of miscellany.

On Friday afternoon Dr. Orton of Desboro was found dead in his bead. He slept above his drug store and not having been seen around in the forenoon, a farmer went up into his room only to find the Dr. lying on the bed dead. By his side was a solution of chloral, a narcotic poison, and as he was in the habit of taking this drug to produce sleep after a prolonged debauch, the cause of death was quite evident. Dr. Stewart was telephoned for and on an examination of the poisonous solution, he found that Orton had carelessly taken an overdose and never wakened. Dr. Cameron of Owen Sound, coroner for Grey was telephoned to, but on hearing the explanation from Dr. Stewart and knowing Orton's habits, he considered an inquest was not necessary. Strong drink has now claimed another victim. Dr. Orton's relatives were telegraphed for. The dead man was a member of the Orange society. His remains were brought to Chesley on Monday and sent to Guelph. He was very popular in Desboro and vicinity.—Chesley Enterprise
