Fenian Movements.

The Detroit Post of Tuesday says:—"The Fenians of this city still keep up a reticence, which taken in connection with the well-known activity of the Brotherhood, is interpreted to mean that something unusual is in preparation. It is also remarkable that there is less heard now about dissensions among the members than at any time since the movement on Ridgeway. The drilling goes on meantime, and there are fewer arms, especially those of good quality, to be seen in the second-hand stores, than before the opening of navigation. On Saturday a stranger is said to have called at a store in which arms are sold, and offered to negotiate for the purchase of any number of good muskets between 100 and 500, to be delivered in a few days. He did not get the promise of any, however, for the reason that the dealer has, within two weeks, disposed of every article of the kind in his store, and was unable to obtain more within the time specified by the stranger. During the last week a few significant facts, noticeable to the close observer, transpired in this city. One of these is the absence of a large number of strangers who have been sojourning here for weeks, prior to the sailing of the Lake Superior boats, and another is a fact that some of these boats have taken up large numbers of men within a few days. A visit to one of the largest of these boats discovered the decks covered with young and middle-aged men. They were truly in light-marching order. They all had on comfortable clothing, but little or no baggage was observable. Some wore military belts, and the numbers were about equally divided between French and Irish. In answer to an inquiry, they pretended to be going on the way to Marquette, but evidently preferred rather to talk than to be talked to. The conversation between the French part of the travellers went on uninterruptedly while our reporter was present, but the English speaking part maintained a guard upon their lips. "As the men lay in groups upon the deck, the scene forcibly reminded one of the stirring events of the late war, when "the boys" went off by hundreds. It was also remarkable that no Detroit faces, so far as they could be recognized, were to be seen among the "miners." It is inferred from this that the Detroit Circle act as guides or underground agents for the large number of adventurers which the present excitement calls forth from more distant parts of the Union, and all of whom must pass through this city, in order to reach the present supposed place of rendezvous.

It is now very certain that the Fenians do not intend to make a demonstration on Canada at this point. Every good citizen will rejoice at the fact, if such it be, for with the determined vigilance of the United States Government to suppress fillibustering within its reach, a light Fenian commissariat, a watchful militia ready to receive the invaders, and a reserve sure to fail unless the main body succeed, or, in other words, no reserve at all, there is no doubt but that an attempt to capture Canada under such circumstances, would be sure to result in disastrous defeat to the Fenians.

The watchword of the Fenians is undoubtedly "Red River." All their late conduct points to a movement in that direction. At Buffalo, where there was so much stir a few weeks since, all is quiet. The same is true of the Vermont and Northern New York border, while the newspapers universally speak of bodies of men arming, drilling, and taking their departure quietly for parts unknown. That the large number of men who have passed through this city northwards within a few days has some connection with these statements, is almost undeniable.

The situation of affairs at the St. Mary's Canal, excites great interest in the minds of the Fenians here, and some went so far last week as to declare, that if the United States Government allowed the Canadian Red River transports to pass peaceably, the canal should be destroyed; an idle threat, but one which showed the strength of their feeling on the subject."

The Fenians and Red River.

CHICAGO, May 12.—The St. Paul Press publishes a letter from Duluth which says:—

"A large body of armed Fenians had arrived at the latter place, en route to Red River to aid Riel. Each man was armed with a breachloading rifle, pistol and knife.

Their first strike will be to capture Fort Francis on Rainy Lake, which will be garrisoned by a few men, while the main force will harass and dispute the passage of the British troops through the rivers, swamps, and mountains from Fort William to Red River.

At a proper time they will march down and join Riel's forces. One party has already started overland by the Vermillion road. Another will soon follow, and a third is preparing to go to the same destination via St. Louis and Vermillion rivers.

Another party is reported at Superior River, which will march directly west to Red River. The forces at Duluth are said to be commanded by a distinguished Confederate officer, who fought Gen. Banks in his Louisiana campaign.

The men are nearly all ex-soldiers; many French Canadians accompany them, and they have secured the services of several Indians and half-breed guides, and one or two employees of the Hudson Bay Company, who are perfectly familiar with the country to be operated in."

CHICAGO, May 13.—The report telegraphed yesterday relative to the concentration of Fenians at Duluth is confirmed by newspapers published at that point.

The St. Paul Press has news of the mustering of Fenians in various parts of Minnesota, and one party is now en route to Red River overland.

There is now at St. Paul a Fenian force of about 300, awaiting arrangements for transportation and subsistence before commencing the march to Red River.

They will probably proceed by the usual mail route, but may possibly go to Fort William to oppose the landing of the Canadian expedition.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Executive Committee of the Fenian Brotherhood has been in Session all day. It is positively asserted that troops and officers have left this city within the past few days for the border.

THREE THOUSAND lbs. of tobacco were forwarded on Saturday to Toronto for the soldiers of the Red River Expedition.

BRITISH.

IT is stated that there are in England and Scotland 233 convents, containing at the lowest estimate 6000 ladies.

THE carriage drive and promenade, opened at Liverpool, is three miles long, and its construction has cost £60,000.

A BRADFORD gentleman named Mr. Henry William Ripley has given £10,000 to found a convalescent home in his native town.

FROM twelve to thirteen thousand persons, mostly of the working class, visited Westminster Abbey on Easter Monday. Admission was free.

AMMUNITION and arms have recently been seized at Newcastle and Manchester, supposed to be intended for distribution among the Fenian Brotherhood.

EARL MOUNT-EDGCUMBE, on Wednesday laid the foundation-stone of a new wing of the Bournemouth National Sanitarium for consumption and disease of the chest.

THE Wicklow Harbour Commissioners, having obtained a loan of £6000 from Government for the improvement of the harbour, have decided upon constructing a steam-packet pier.

A FEW days ago, a salmon weighing 23 lbs. was caught in the Thames just below Gravesend. This is an additional and indisputable evidence of the good effects of the purification of the Thames.

A MATCH at cricket lately took place at Brixton between eleven pensioners with one arm against eleven pensioners with one leg. The game was decided in favor of the one-legged men by 28 runs.

LONGEVITY OF THE BRITISH NAVY.—It would seem that the army and navy are very healthy professions. Out of 876 general officers of the British and Indian army who were alive on the first of January last, eight had seen 70 years of active service. There are, we take it, but very few professions in which one man in every hundred sees 70 years of work without retiring. But the army is in this respect behind the navy. Out of 397 admirals who were alive at the same date, no fewer than 25, or nearly 9 per cent., have served before the year 1800.

MAKING A NEW NOSE FOR A MAN.—The case of Mr. O'Connor, of King's County, whose nose was cut off some weeks ago by a band of ruffians, exciting attention even in a land of outrages by its exceptional atrocity. The sequel of the story, however, is very different from the beginning. Mr. O'Connor's mutilation has led to one of the greatest surgical feats ever accomplished. A new nose, fashioned out of his own flesh, has been fitted upon him with admirable success. An incision was made at the forehead, and a portion of the living flesh skilfully drawn down, fashioned into the proper form whilst still warm and plastic, and fitted to the stump of the mutilated feature, the skin being artistically drawn over the scar. Mr. O'Connor will be but slightly disfigured. His friends say that the new nose looks better than the old one.

A BUFFALO merchant writes from Kansas city, warning persons not to emigrate to that State. He says employment is scarce and labour of all kinds is done at a much less figure than in any of the Eastern States.

LAST week, a young lady in Jeffersonville, N. Y., took a dose of corrosive sublimate because she was separated from her lover, who was obnoxious to her parents. As the poison was sufficient in quantity to kill fifty persons, all efforts were in vain to save her.

YOUNG ladies should not go to parties alone in a carriage. A young lady in New York coming from a party a few evenings ago found a man seated in a carriage, who immediately demanded her jewels and valuables or he would stab her. She of course handed over everying, and the man jumped out of the carriage and ran for his life, and that was, of course, the last that was heard of him.

THE production of the Western lead mines is falling off. Not many years ago these mines nearly supplied the whole country. Now the West alone consumes for various manufacturing purposes fifteen thousand tons, while it produces scarcely eleven thousand. The whole amount consumed last year in the United States was more than fifty thousand tons, seventy-five per cent. of which was imported.

MISS CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG visited the Utica State Lunatic Asylum a few days ago, and asked leave to sing to the more violent patients. The unfortunate inmates were deeply affected, examining her from head to foot, turned her round and round, and asked to see the little boot with which she beat time, and finally the women insisted on kissing her, to all of which Miss Kellogg amiably submitted.

DISASTROUS FLOODS AND LOSS OF LIFE IN QUEENSLAND.—Disastrous floods have occurred in North Queensland. At Clermont, on the Peak Downs, seven persons were drowned, and property to the amount of £10,000 destroyed. A stream nearly five feet deep ran through the township, and the affrighted inhabitants had to rush to the trees and housetops for shelter. Besides the loss of life which occurred in the township, five persons at Peak Downs Station, and four children at Lilyvale were drowned. At Bowen, North Queensland, a heavy cyclone occurred, doing a great deal of damage to the town, and causing the death of one man.
