An Explanation

Hanover, Ont., Nov. 19, 1914

Editor Advance,

Dear Sir:—In a recent issue of many of the local newspapers, I notice an article written by Mr. H. H. Miller, Liberal Ex-M. P. for South Grey, purporting to give a list of contributions to the Patriotic Fund, etc., by Hanover manufacturers. Although the name of The Ball Furniture Co., Ltd., of Hanover, was second on the list, the said firm having subscribed $100.00, their name and contribution does not appear. Why—Mr. Miller knows best. In a later issue Mr. Miller attempted to make a correction, but in many of the newspapers his article did not correct, partly because it consisted of only a few lines, the meaning of which was not clear and I am satisfied it did not arrest the attention of most readers of the paper, and partly because it was so indefinite that the reader could not discern whether the contribution was an open-hearted, voluntary contribution, or whether it had to be abstracted from the donors by pressure. The Ball Furniture Co., Ltd., has a business connection over the Dominion of Canada, reaching from ocean to ocean, and until the publication of this article, their patriotism, I am sure, was never questioned. But when this list of contributions was published and their name did not appear as a contributor, a grave doubt was raised in the minds of those who knew them, as to their loyalty. Our men, who represent us and whose business it is to sell our goods, have been questioned by almost every dealer, whom they solicited for orders, as to why the name of their firm did not appear in the list. Not having been home in the meantime they were not in a position to put us right in the mind of the dealer. As these are days when "Made in Canada" is the slogan and the motive in publishing the Hanover list was undoubtedly to set Hanover right in the eyes of the business community, and further, as every member of the Ball Furniture Co. is of direct British descent, and British in the highest sense of the word, we felt that, in justice to ourselves and in justice to our business, we should not be mis-represented either in the business or political world. We do not parade our loyalty before the public unnecessarily but at the same time, we do not wish to have a wrong impression created in the minds of our Canadian fellow-citizens. Nor is it right that our business and political reputation should be injured, which it has been, the largest stock holder and manager of the firm being the Dominion Member for South Grey. Mr. Miller, who was chairman of the Patriotic meeting, held in the town of Hanover, not secretary nor yet treasurer, was only one of a publicity committee and was not particularly appointed reporter, but I presume took upon himself this duty and therefore should have reported correctly or not at all. And if the report is not correct, he, and he alone is responsible. Any attempt at correction cannot now place us where we ought to be, as little attention is paid to after explanations and even this letter may fail to reach many of your readers. It seems rather strange that the Ball Furniture Co's. name was the only one omitted.

Trusting you will give this explanation a place in your valued paper simply because many of your readers may have read the original and kindly requesting any local papers which copied the former article, to copy this and oblige, I am.

Yours sincerely,
R. J. BALL, M.P.,
South Grey, Ont.
(Mgr. Ball Furniture Co.)
