Daily British Whig

"We are very much afraid that our contemporary never heard tell of the well at the bottom of which truth is supposed to repose."—Daily News.

We may expect enlightenment when our contemporary has completed his explorations, and is well and sensible enough to tell us all about them. It is only an occasional man with an enlarged head who knows enough to get into a well. Cool spot, we imagine, with the heat at 90° in the shade.

Protectionists don't know what to think of the late elections in Vermont and Maine. They note, as most significant, the fact that manufacturing towns in both states have gone Democratic, but they will not admit that the vote can be taken as a declaration against the high tariff to which the Republican party is pledged to stand. Such, however, would be the conclusion were the boot upon the other foot.

According to the last census it appears that there are in the United States 717,157 persons of Canadian birth; in other words Canada supplies the American republic with one-twentieth of her foreign population. When the Tories were in opposition they wept and scolded because the country was not kept for the Canadians, and because some attempt was not made to coax our people from "the other side." Well, since 1878 the "patriots" have been in office and the so-called "expatriation" goes on. This is not what a good many people expected from the good Sir John.

Hon. Mr. Chapleau, chief of the Chinese commission, when in British Columbia, says he saw a salmon landed weighing 78 lbs., and measuring six feet in length. And about the same time the secretary of the commission, Mr. N. F. Davin, was down in one of the Victoria opium joints, watching "a beautiful young woman as she fixed her pipe with a practiced hand and inhaled the smoke." Nicholas Flood says the commission did a lot of work, that fully five months of it were crowded into two, and it cannot be denied that the distinguished men enjoyed themselves largely at the country's expense. The official report won't contain a record of all they and saw.

The Kingston News should not mention the word "veracity." It calls up visions of the past, that for instance when it denied daily for a week that it did not steal a column of telegraphic specials from the WHIG and was then cornered into admitting that it did steal it. The following are the words of the self-convicted fibber and thief:

News, April 3, 1883.—The WHIG accuses us of copying its telegraph report of tariff changes. * * * The WHIG's accusation is without foundation.

News, April 5.—"When the WHIG says that we stole its telegram and economised by the theft it utters a wilful falsehood."

News, April 6.—"By referring to page 13 column 7, of the Mail of Saturday, there will be found the list in the form in which we published it."

News, April 9.—The WHIG's article of Saturday is avowedly intended to prove that the News did not take its list of tariff changes from the Mail: now, who said it did?

News, April 9.—"WE CUT THE LIST FROM THE WHIG!"

ELOQUENT MR. GLADSTONE.

Mr. Gladstone is repeating in Scotland his triumphal march of five years ago. He passed Bettock, Anandale, at which Mr J. Carruthers was stopping, on his way to Edinburg, and our friend says he never saw such a demonstration of affection on the part of the people. When the train stopped they rushed enthusiastically towards the car compartment in which sat the great Liberal leader, attended by his wife, and they paid him such homage as few men at the present day merit or receive. He was pale and wearied, and as Mr. Carruthers shook him by the hand, and, as a Canadian, expressed his sympathy with the cause which Mr. Gladstone espoused, the grand old man smiled and bowed and was pleased with the people's enthusiasm. The Liberals in Scotland talk incessantly of Gladstone. Mr. Carruthers says he is first in their regard, and they will not allow themselves to think of his retirement, though reminded of his advanced age and naturally declining physical power. He is not inclined to take his ease while the country calls upon him to act, but it is not so long since, at an annual and eventful gathering in Hawarden, he remarked: "Mr. Johnson has been so kind as to mention me, I would offer my best thanks for that and many other acts of friendship on this and other occasions. But I would have felt still more grateful to him if, instead of suggesting that I should go on working until I dropped (laughter) he had suggested the hope that I might enjoy a little repose in my old age like other people. That is becoming a rather serious question for me, because after all whatever the bounty of Providence in point of health and strength, and to me it has certainly been very remarkable—as compared with the lives of others in the same way of life—yet time is an imperious master, and he will leave his mark upon you, say and do what you will, and to the law of decline and decay all must submit. The marks of it, though I know I have them comparatively mildly, are still gathering upon me." Touching and impressive language!

TALK ABOUT SURPLUSES.

"While Mr. Blake, at the Kingston meeting denounced the Federal Government for having a surplus, Mr. Ross gloried in the fact that the Ontario Government had a surplus."

Mr. Blake was not understood to "denounce" the dominion government because it had a surplus, as the above extract from a Tory paper would seem to indicate. Noting the fact that a surplus had accumulated of several millions he remarked that regarding this the average Conservative did not now hold the opinion which he formerly did. He said he found a number of persons who thought a surplus was a good thing, but their leaders did not think it was a good thing during the period in which they were out of office. In February, 1875, Sir Richard Cartwright, then Finance Minister, brought down a budget, which was designed to raise half a million more dollars than the government expected to expend. Sir Chas. Tupper attacked the proposition fiercely and said the government had no right to a surplus. If such existed he said the policy of Great Britain should be the policy of the Canadian government and the taxes of the people should be lightened. That, said Mr. Blake, was Sir Charles' opinion of a small, narrow, and reasonable surplus. When the Tories got into power instead of preventing surpluses they allowed such to roll up to the extent of several millions and the taxes were increased. "Here," said the Liberal leader, "we have contrasted promises and pledges and actual experiences; what do you think of them?" And such is the language which the Tory journalists call denunciatory! Awful, isn't it.

Then the Minister of Education is said to have "gloried in the fact that the Ontario government had a surplus." The phonographic report of that speech does not contain such a phrase. Mr. Ross only mentioned, in passing, the surplus once, and he observed that out of it loans at low interest were being made to farmers who desired to improve their farms by tile draining. The Ontario government cannot reduce the taxes on the people as Sir Charles Tupper says a government with a surplus ought to do, but it does the next best thing, it spends of its savings in public improvements, and its policy, as Mr. Ross pointed out at the public meeting, has the sympathy and support of the large majority.

Dear Sir—Dropping into a neighbor's who takes the News I read the following:

"Mr. Blake's knowledge of biblical history is very inaccurate. During his remarks at the pow-wow on Friday he said: 'There is no Moses to-day; we have no Moses to command the sun to stand still.' Did he really not know that it was Joshua who commanded the sun to stand still."

Now, if there is such unpardonable ignorance on the part of the great Edward on one side and the News on the other, not to know the world revolves around the sun, I shall vote or rather exercise my franchise no more. Let us have an independent candidate who is conversant not only with biblical history but astronomy.—Yours disgustedly,

MARINE INTELLIGENCE.

What is Occupying the Attention of People Interested in Vessels.

The steamer Prince Arthur has been taken off her regular route between Clayton and Montreal.

The schr. Polly M. Rogers is in port with 22,625 bush. corn for the Montreal Transportation Company.

The yacht Annie Laurie has been sold by John Greenway, of Syracuse, to Cape Vincent parties for $5,000.

The tug H. A. Calvin, taking Irwin's timber from Belleville to Quebec, has nine drams in tow. The towing costs $170 per dram.

The steamer Hastings has returned from Toronto where she had a successful season. She will be engaged in wrecking for the balance of the season.

The steamer St. Lawrence, while proceeding to Clayton last evening at 9 o'clock, ran aground near the Thousand Island Park. She is out two feet. The str. Hastings has left to pull the vessel off. The steamer is not hurt, and she is taking in no water.

The schr. W. R. Taylor has sunk in fourteen feet of water, loaded with steel rails for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Heron Bay, Lake Superior. The captain abandoned her to the underwriters. The Taylor had evidently reached her destination, as other vessels from this port have unloaded at Heron Bay. She is 322 tons burden, was built in 1877, and registered in Picton.

THE CRANNONS' CRIMES.

Five Children of One Family Serving Terms in Different Prisons.

Several years ago the first of the Crannon children, an intelligent lad, was brought before the police magistrate and sentenced to the Reformatory at Penetanguishene for five years. On the expiration of his sentence he returned to this city and a few months later was given a five years' term in the penitentiary, which he is now serving. Some six years ago the second boy came into notice, and after several trials was finally sent to the Reformatory for five years. Serving it out he returned here about a year ago, and soon fell in the clutches of the law for being guilty of an unnatural crime, and is now serving a term in the Central Prison for that.

The third child, a girl, is now in the Mercer Reformatory for general bad conduct, and to-day the fourth child, also a girl, was given a term of 24 months to endure in the Mercer for immoral conduct and vagrancy.

A fifth child, a boy of seven or eight years, was also charged this morning with the theft of $2 from his mother. He said a lad named Flett had again stolen it from him, and the case was enlarged until Wednesday. The probabilities are that he will go to the Reformatory.

Thus all the members of an illustrious family are provided for with the exception of a youngster just able to prattle, who uses the vilest and most profane language, and is rapidly blossoming into a prison flower. It is improbable that another similar record can be found in Canada. They are all under twenty years of age.—Brantford Expositor.

MOST DESTRUCTIVE FLOODS.

Lot of Damage Done—The Dams Are Giving Away Right and Left.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Sept. 11—The most disastrous flood ever known is upon us. The river has risen over 20 feet and is still rising a foot per hour. Three railroad bridges are in great danger. A waggon bridge is expected to go. All of the upper dams on Duncan Creek, which pass through the city, are out. A portion of the flood from that course reached here at 1 p.m. yesterday and swept every bridge, five in number, out of the city limits, with a large number of buildings, including Kebel's planing mills, Cumies' feed store, Stiles' and Bailey's livery stables, also Stumm & Weiner's agricultural buildings. The loss in the city is estimated at a hundred thousand. The worst is still to come, as a dam 14 miles north has passed out, releasing seven.

A SPECIMEN CASE.

The Terrible Misery Arising from Early Marriages in this Young Country.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Domestic life in the country is not all clover and new mown hay, as some people imagine. One of the great evils is found in early marriages, that is the marriage of girls who are mere children in age and infants in all that enables a girl to chose for herself a husband for life. Domestic alliances in the country along the banks of the Ottawa River are formed not uncommonly by girls of 14 and 15 years of age. Such was the case with Laure Rabbis, a young French girl, living near Rockland, Ont., who was induced by her lover to marry him at the age of 14. He was 18. This was seven years ago. Since then the young couple have led an infernal life, and it was not altogether the husband's fault, for the girl had a "fractious" temper, as the neighbors termed it. When angry at him she would rise from the table upsetting all the dishes into her husband's lap. Finally, about a week ago, she went to her father's, a farmer, and the two concluded it would be wise to separate. They are now 21 and 25 years old respectively. There are three children. Each party, accompanied by their respective adherents, went to Cumberland village and laid their case before a bench of magistrates, Dr. Ferguson chairman. After hearing their stories the magistrates at once saw that they had no power to do what they were asked—decree a separation between the two so the parties returned home. The wife is still with her father and the husband works on his farm, cursing himself for having been such a fool as to marry the child. And every one will agree that he was a fool.

WAGES OF SIN.

"My God, What Will My Children Do?"—What About the Depositors?

New Brunswick, N.J., Sept 10.—The following account is given of President Runyon's suicide: At 9:45 he drove to the bank, accompanied by his two daughters. "Good-bye," said Julia, the eldest, as Runyon descended, "I hope all will be well." "If you do not see me before night," he responded, "tell mamma that I will stick to the bank." Twenty minutes later he sent Chief Fitzgerald, who was in charge of the bank, for a copy of the New York Times in which the story was told of his complicity in the bank's downfall. Securing the paper he went into the room occupied by the organizing directors and began to read. A deathly pallor spread over his face and he exclaimed, "My God, what will my children do?" Passing a handkerchief over his brow he threw the paper into the lap of Director Stoddard, and, excusing himself, went to the toilet room. A few minutes later the sound of a fall was heard, the directors rushed to the closet and discovered the body of Runyon on the floor with blood oozing from a gaping wound in his throat. Determined on suicide, he had also cut his wrists deeply, the blood spouting against the wall and ceiling. Thousands of people outside were horrified.

ENDEAVORING TO SELL.

Bunting Anxious to Dispose of an Unprofitable Organ—Business in Ottawa.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—It seems that Mr. Bunting is anxious to get the unprofitable News off his hands, and with this object in view is moving heaven and earth to make it appear that a section of the Reform party want an independent organ, and that his News could be made to pay as such. One of Bunting's agents approached a well-known Reformer and personal friend of Mr. McKenzie here a few days ago and hinted that the latter should take stock in the new enterprise, repeating the falsehood that the Globe had become the property of the Pacific Railway Co. Finding himself laughed at Mr. Bunting's agent endeavored to treat the whole affair as a joke, but this little incident serves to throw some light upon the recent manœuverings of the bribery gang.

Bill was lifted out of the waggon and then dashed to the road. His leg was broken in two places. His brother was slightly injured. About 40 buildings were wrecked in Clear Lake.

LATE CHEESE MARKETS.

Utica, Sept. 6.—The transactions of the day were as follows: Two lots, 201 boxes, at 9½c.; 56 lots, 5,553 boxes, at 9¾c.; 11 lots, 1,180 boxes, at 9⅞c.; 23 lots, 2,076 boxes, at 10c.; 2 lots, 358 at private terms. Sales, 11,247 boxes; commissions 1,158 boxes; total, 12,405 boxes. Ruling price, 9¾c. Transactions for the corresponding day for two years past were about 8,000 boxes each. Last year the ruling price was 10c.; the year before it was 11c. There is said to be considerable cheese lying in Canadian factories that was bought some time ago, but has not been shipped.

Little Falls, Sept. 6.—8,478 boxes went at 9½ to 10c.; 1,020 boxes of farm dairy sold at 9 to 10c., the bulk going at 9¾. 60 packages of butter sold at 24 to 25c., most of it being creamery.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The demand for cheese continues slow and uncertain, but as the freight engagements by the Bristol steamer are 20,000 boxes it is probable that some business will be done. On the whole the market is in a very unsatisfactory condition. Beerbohm quoted Liverpool at 1s. We quote fine to finest July 9c. to 9½c., and August 9½ to 10c.

With Durkee's Salad Dressing there is no waste or disappointment. You are certain to produce a good salad. It costs less than home made, and is, besides, a superb table sauce.
