The Tragedy at Sloan's.

'Do I understand, Mrs. Sloan, said the magistrate, that you make a charge of attempted infanticide against your husband?' 'Well, not exactly that,' replied Mrs. Sloan. 'You see, I—'

'One minute—permit me to explain,' exclaimed Mr. Sloan, 'Your honor, the situation is this. We have one baby a year and a half old, and then we also have twins just two months old, Little cherubs, both of them. Their mother's turnup nose, perhaps, but my eyes and my amiable expression.

'His hair, too, your honor,' said Mrs. Sloan, 'his hair—red!'

'Before we were married, may it please the Court,' said Mr. Sloan, 'she was often alluding to it as auburn. But no matter. She went yesterday to a woman-suffrage convention, and I stayed at home with the children—three of them, your honor! I have only two arms. I tried to carry the odd one pig-a-back, but it was no use, he would slip down and bump his nose on the floor. Imagine the situation. It was hard. I was nearly wild. Only two nursing bottles, and the third baby yelling like a Crow Indian, while the twins were feeding.' 'Couldn't he suck his thumb?' asked the magistrate.

'Mrs. Sloan won't let him She closed the gate of joy, so to speak, against her own offspring! Absolutely prohibited the child from sucking its own thumb! Nero, in his worst days, never went that far, I imagine.'

The historians forget to record it if he did,' said the justice.

'Precisely. Well, I got along as well as I could, when in comes a boy with a note from Mrs. Sloan, saying that Mrs. Gibbs, the vice president of the convention, wanted her baby out of the way, while she was conferring with the select committee on ways and means, so in comes the sergeant-at-arms with Mrs. Gibbs' baby for me to take care of. That made four. Your honor, if Mrs. Gibbs' baby grows up and becomes a missionary, he can preach to the heathen in Africa without leaving home. He has a voice like a fog horn. So he turned in and cried, and the other babies cried for sympathy.'

'It was hard,' said the magistrate.

'Hard! Well, I'm an accommodating man, so I put one twin in one cradle and rocked it with my right foot, and I put the other in another cradle and rocked it with my left foot; then I sat Gibbs' baby on one knee and Johnny on the other, and by a peculiar action of my legs kept all four in motion at once. You understand? Well, sir, just as calmness began to prevail, in comes the sergeant-at-arms again with the secretary's baby. He said Mrs. Sloan had sent it while the secretary wrote up her minutes, and wouldn't I look after it for awhile?'

'Was it asleep?'

'Well, no. Now I don't want to exaggerate, your honor. I am under oath, and I shall try to state the facts mildly. But I am sadly mistaken if you couldn't blow a church organ with the secretary's baby's left lung! It whooped and hallooed in such a manner as to alarm me. Then Gibbs' baby joined in and they gave a duet. Pretty soon our three tuned up for a chorus and—well, suppose a whole orphan asylum should have a spasm of stomach ache, and you can form an idea of the racket.'

'Couldn't you quiet them by singing to them?'

'No, sir; you couldn't have heard a bass drum in that room.'

'I gave the family Bible to one twin, and put Webster's Unabridged Dictionary on the lap of the other, merely to play with. I thought I'd go down stairs and get some milk for the whole crowd. I did. When I came up, as I had only two nursing bottles, I emptied a bottle of hair renovator; which Mrs. Sloan uses—'

'I don't!' exclaimed Mrs. Sloan.

'And a castor-oil bottle. I put the milk in and in an old paregoric bottle, punched holes through the corks and handed them round. When I came to the twins, they had the Bible and dictionary lying right on their bosoms, and they were blue in the face; too heavy, your honor! So I had to pick them up and souse them a couple of times in the bath tub to bring them to; and when I got back into the room with them I found Gibbs' baby in spasms from the taste of the hair restorer and the secretary's baby had swallowed the cork, and the other child looked as if the castor oil bottle somehow had not agreed with it. A minute later in came Mrs. Sloan and the secretary and Mrs. Gibbs, and they hustled me out. I don't know what happened after that, but I believe it was old Gibbs put Mrs. Sloan up to charging me with murder.'

'The case is dismissed,' said the justice and the Sloans withdrew. Mrs Sloan has hired a nurse.

TAKING experience as the test there can be no question about the superior quality of the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. From the first year of its manufacture the demand for it has steadily grown. Even in the years which were marked by our business depression, there was no pause in the increase of the sale of it. In the dull years of 1876-'77 and '78, the sales of it were vastly greater than in the prosperous year 1872.

WARREN LELAND,

whom everybody knows as the successful manager of the Largest Hotel Enterprises

of America, says that while a passenger from New York on board a ship going around Cape Horn, in the early days of emigration to California, he learned that one of the officers of the vessel had cured himself, during the voyage, of an obstinate disease by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Since then Mr. LELAND has recommended AYER'S SARSAPARILLA in many similar cases, and he has never yet heard of its failure to effect a radical cure.

Some years ago one of Mr. LELAND'S farm laborers bruised his leg. Owing to the bad state of his blood, an ugly scrofulous swelling or lump appeared on the injured limb. Horrible itching of the skin, with burning and darting pains through the lump, made life almost intolerable. The leg became enormously enlarged, and running ulcers formed, discharging great quantities of extremely offensive matter. No treatment was of any avail until the man, by Mr. LELAND'S direction, was supplied with AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which allayed the pain and irritation, healed the sores, removed the swelling, and completely restored the limb to use.

Mr. LELAND has personally used for Rheumatism, with entire success; and, after careful observation, declares that, in his belief, there is no medicine in the world equal to it for the cure of Liver Disorders, Gout, the effects of high living, Salt Rheum, Sores, Eruptions, and all the various forms of blood diseases.

We have Mr. LELAND'S permission to invite all who may desire further evidence in regard to the extraordinary curative powers of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to see him personally either at his mammoth Ocean Hotel, Long Branch, or at the popular Leland Hotel, Broadway, 27th and 28th Streets, New York.

Mr. LELAND'S extensive knowledge of the good done by this unequalled eradicator of blood poisons enables him to give inquirers much valuable information.
