The fact that anyone can have a set put in his home on approval to find out, shows that the Rogers dealer has faith in this wonderful new Radio invention.

If there is no Rogers dealer in your community, write the Q.R.S. Music Company Canada, Limited, Toronto, but don't buy ANY Radio until you first hear the Rogers, which is supplied on easy terms.

MEN AND WOMEN OF TO-DAY

From War to Peace.

Many of you will be interested to learn that Mr. Grindell Matthews, whose "Death Ray" created a sensation in two continents a year or so ago, has turned his attention to more peaceful pursuits.

One of his latest ideas is what is called a Leniniaphone, an instrument by means of which music can be produced by the action of beams of light falling on the apparatus. He is also working on a device by which a boat can be steered by beams.

His Experience.

Good stories of the sea come naturally to Earl Beatty, and one of his best concerns a certain officer of the King's Navy who had for many years suffered from chronic sore throat.

At last, while on leave in London, he determined to see a specialist about it, and accordingly paid a visit to Harley Street.

The doctor he consulted, being a great believer in simple remedies, asked him if he had ever tried salt-water gargling.

"Well," was the reply, "I've been torpedoed six times."

The Bell.

Mr. Stanley Baldwin's affection for English things is shown by this story, which he told at a private gathering recently.

Standing on a hill near Florence, he heard a bell ringing—"Such a bell as was never on land and sea, a bell whose every vibration forced an echo in my innermost heart. It was the most beautiful bell I ever heard."

His hostess then told him that it was an English bell, bought by an Italian from the owner of a very ancient English abbey.

Quaintly Named.

Many clerics can, from personal experience, tell of strange names bestowed upon infants at their baptism. But few, I venture to think, could equal the following instance, told by the Bishop of Sodor and Man.

A mother who was on the look-out for a name for her child, saw on a door of a building the word "Nosmo." It attracted her and she decided to adopt it.

Some few days later, passing the same building, she saw the name "King" on another door. She thought the two would sound well together, so the boy was baptised "Nosmo King Smith."

On her way home from the church where the christening ceremony had taken place, she again passed the building. The two doors on which she had seen the names were now closed together, and what she read was not "Nosmo King" but "No Smoking."

Seeing is Believing.

Lord Desborough, who has recently formulated a scheme for controlling the Thames floods, is the only man alive who has twice swum across the rapids of the Niagara river immediately below the Falls.

The story of how he came to repeat the hazardous feat is well worth repeating.

He was about to return to England after successfully accomplishing his first swim, when an American professed his incredulity.

"No man could swim the rapids below the Falls from bank to bank; the thing's impossible," he said bluntly.

Lord Desborough shrugged his shoulders. "Then I had better go back and swim them again," he retorted, "just to convince you."

And he did!

The Legacy.

There is no bequest a man can make to his family that is more to be desired than his good name. This world will never become so mechanized as to lose sight of the merit or demerit of human beings taken one by one. Half the meaning of patriotic celebration, biographic study or heraldic lore, when these mean anything at all, is the inspiration of a message from the past to the living present; and any parent has succeeded in this world when he transmits to his offspring an honorable reputation built up by years of clean, fair dealing.

When the assets of a business are estimated, beyond the value of the buildings made with hands is the intangible but real structure built with minds that would not descend to any kind of crooked practice and, through adversity or prosperity, have kept the faith with every one. Any business company in our generation cares for its historic tradition; there is something the matter if the officers pretend to be so busy now that they have no time to remember anything that happened yesterday.

What applies in the ethical tradition of commerce is true of a family succession. The world thinks little of a man who endlessly prates of what his forbears did ever so long ago and seems to think their service justifies him in expecting a deference now which in his own person, on his own account, he never did anything to earn. If he is proud of what is transmitted to him to enlarge and improve—and not simply to have and to hold—let him show it by playing a man's part in a world which sorely needs what every man and woman, whole or crippled, strong or enfeebled, can do. Let him not boast of dollars that have come into his hands which he did nothing to earn, but let him spend himself as well as his funds on the day's toil in a man't world, remembering always that conscience and character are the better part of any paternal legacy.

What Youth is Thinking.

Christ was put first by 400 out of 600 Japanese schoolboys who were asked by the Y.M.C.A., "What three great men have exerted the greatest influence in the world?" Buddha was named by only 249 in the country of Buddhism, and Confucius by 185. Napoleon, the Japanese Emperor Meiji Tanno, Kaiser Wilhelm II, and Thomas Edison came next.

The Y.M.C.A. is conducting a world-wide inquiry to find what youth is thinking Answers now to hand from Japan, South Africa and New Zealand show that the thoughts of youth are sometimes wrong.

A New Zealand boy, asked whether God had any favorite nation, answered: "England—because it says so in the Bible." Another answered: "Yes, the white race," and gave the same Scriptural authority.

King George, the Prince of Wales, and Mr. Henry Ford are, in the opinion of most New Zealand boys, the most important men in the world. Others of British nationality include Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Jellicoe, and Mr. Rudyard Kipling.

Sport is the chief subject of conversation among New Zealand youth, but they admitted that "women and girls" were also discussed. The question, "How do boys treat foreigners?" brought forth some thought-provoking replies. "With little respect," was one. "Treat them rough," was another. A third was, "We look on the Chinaman with scorn, and other people with curiosity."

A boy (who showed no intention elsewhere of being humorous) answered the query as to what else besides war might develop qualities which come out of war: "Football and marriage."

Japanese youths, with curious generosity, placed the white race, in answer to a question, as superior both to the yellow and the black.

To Banff in the Rockies.

O! World of almost-singing stone,
Of peacock blue and gold,
The hues that paradise may own
But mountains cannot hold,
My heart knows well the bright distress
That to your peaks must come
To bear this lyric loveliness
Yet stand forever dumb.

My heart knows well, for it has heard
A song it cannot sing
An song the brooks have, word for word,
And birds upon the wing,
While I, who would so love to voice
Just one of beauty's days,
Must watch the bursting trees rejoice
And find no tongue to praise.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

This Was the Condition of a P.E.I. Woman Before Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"My illness began," says Mrs. M. J. Ahern, R. R. No. 2, Alberton, P.E.I. "when my husband went overseas and I was left with the care of a farm and stock, with no help but that of a young boy. My health broke down and for the first time in my life I became utterly discouraged. I lost my appetite, had no strength, and was ready to have a crying spell any moment of the day, as the work loomed up ahead of me. A friend happened to speak one day of the good Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done her and urged me to try them. I had not energy enough, or perhaps confidence enough, to try them, but she would not be denied and sent me three boxes, and by the time I had taken them I knew they were helping me and was anxious for more. I continued taking the pills for nearly six months and by that time I had safely passed a critical period in my life, and regained my usual good health. To all overworked, nerve-racked women—and there are a great many of them—I still say, and at all times, take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I know you will regain your energy."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood easily overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood, and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear and good health returns. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

On a Clothesline.

Two girls were talking over the wire. Both were discussing what they should wear at the party. In the midst of this important conversation, a masculine voice interrupted, asking humbly for a number. One of the girls became indignant and scornfully asked: "What line do you think you are on, anyhow?"

"Well," said the man, "I am not sure but judging from what I have heard, I should say I was on a clothesline."

Eleven Saved.

The saved came from the surf like men new born,
Crawling and staggering, their clothes in strips,
Their eyes agape with fear, their bodies torn,
With blood and sea-weed dark about their lips.

But when they reached the inn they wrung their coats,
Grinned each at other for their sad array;
And coughed and spat the water from their throats,
As though they spat the adventure clean away.

—Ruth Manning-Sanders.

MOTHERS WHO HAVE USED BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Always Strongly Recommend Them to Other Mothers.

Once a mother has used Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones she will use nothing else — actual experience teaches her that there is no other medicine to equal them for any of the minor ailments from which her baby or little ones suffer. Having found the value of the Tablets in her own home, she is always anxious that other mothers should share her knowledge. That is why Mrs. Creighton White, North Noel Road, N.S., writes the following: —"I have a baby seventeen months old and have given him nothing but Baby's Own Tablets ever since he was a week old. I know of no other medicine to equal them, and it is certainly a pleasure to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative that regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the sickly baby well and happy again. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Africa Land of Music.

More even than it is a land of flamboyant flowers and riotous color, Africa is a land of music, says Rebecca Hourwich in Collier's. Music is everywhere, and you cannot escape it. Every native has some musical instrument, bought perhaps from slender wages, but more likely fashioned out of any material close at hand—from 100-gallon oil containers to sundried calabashes.

Not even the missionaries can dampen this penchant for joyous noise. On the contrary, indeed, the natives and their music tend to liven up the missionaries. At one mission I watched a rotund little father perched precariously on a rickety stool, conducting the daily hymns. A roomful of Christianized blacks shuffled and swayed an dsent forth hymns that fairly rocked the little structure.

Source of Income.

"No, sir;" said Dr. Jalap. "I wouldn't have that apple tree cut for money."

"But you never get any fruit from it," argued Brown; "the boys steal all the apples before they are half ripe."

"That's just it," replied the doctor, with a quiet smile; "the tree stands me in a good thousand dollars every year."

Transfiguration.

Cold blue the night,
Steel blue the moon;
My breath was white
As moth cocoon.
A night so chill
My careful tread
Creaked—and was still
Creaked—and was dead.
Then, window-glow,
Through festooned frost,
Above, below,
Half seen, half lost
In forest lake,
In lake and fern,
In fern and brake,
A tendril's turn
Revealed your hand
And then your face
In fairyland
Of frozen lace.

The Reason.

Tommy—"Mamma, didn't you say last week you wanted the carving-knife and the chopper sharpened?"

Mrs. Brown—"Indeed I did. Bless his little heart! How thoughtful you are!"

"Well, I'll take them around to the cutler's for you."

"How sweet of you to offer to do such things for your mamma, dear. I'll wrap them up."

"No, don't wrap them up. I want them to show. There's a boy out there waiting to fight me; but I fancy when he sees me coming he'll go home."

Case of Necessity.

"So you've joined the Salvation Army! Well, well."

"Yep, I drew this trombone on a raffle and the neighbors wouldn't let me practice at home."

Colds Are Not Necessary Evils

Observance of One Fundamental Rule of Health Protects Against Them

Whether one catches cold easily is largely a question of physical condition. If the general vitality is low, resistance to disease is weak and at such a time a cold is easy to contract and difficult to check.

Constipation is frequently the cause of such a state of health, with its attendant listlessness, biliousness, headaches and a general lack of vitality. Poisons from the waste matter that remains behind after improper, irregular bowel elimination are picked up by the blood and carried to every part of the body. They weaken your resistance to disease.

Thousands of people who have suffered from self-poisoning in this way have found that Nujol, the internal lubricant makes bowel elimination sure and easy.

Nujol softens the waste matter and permits thorough and regular elimination without overtaxing the intestinal muscles. Nujol can be taken for any length of time with no ill effects.

If you take cold easily, ask your druggist for Nujol to-day—and remember, look for the name "Nujol" in red on both bottle and package.
