EUGENIA

When I hear the robins calling,
When I see the tulips nod,
When I hear the children's laughter
I've a consciousness of God.
When the winter's snows are fading
And the sun glows warm and bright,
It seems a sort of token
Of another kindly light.

Widow and Widowers' Special

A short time ago I promised to put on a special for the people of Flesherton alone, and upon giving it considerable thought happened to think of a verse in the Good Book which says that it is not good for man to live alone, and I thought if it was not good for man why it would also apply to the ladies, so I am going to offer a little encouragement to these two classes of people in our village in the matrimony line by offering free to the first widow or widower residing in Flesherton getting married before Aug. 1, 1927, a fine Leather Rocker. ....

This offer is only good until Aug. 1st, which I think will be plenty of time for experienced hands to put a deal of this kind through, and should both parties reside in Flesherton, I will donate one chair to each party.
