Better Seed Train

The train was placed on a siding at the station and was open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., and in it was to be seen in operation the most approved power and seed-cleaning machines and talks were given in demonstrating. A limited quantity of grain was cleaned for those farmers who brought any. Information was also given as to the sources of pure grain, while samples of selected varieties of farm crops were shown.

A VALUABLE BOOK

The Advance has received a copy of a book containing 200 pages, edited by our confrere, Mr. A. W. Wright, proprietor of the Mount Forest Confederate, and, we presume, printed in his office. The work is quite pretentious, profusely illustrated and covers a period of sixty years of local history, including the surrounding townships of Minto, West Luther, Arthur, Normanby, Egremont and Proton. The book is dedicated to the founders of Mount Forest and the pioneers of these townships. It also contains a roll of honor of those who fought and died in the great war. The book is a most valuable contribution to the history of the town and townships mentioned and will no doubt receive the encouragement it deserves.

SUMMER EXAMINATION TIME TABLE ISSUED.

The Department of Education has issued the time table for departmental examinations throughout the province this year, first of which begins on Monday, June 18th, and the last on Tuesday, July 3. Following is the schedule:—

High school Entrance June 25, 26 and 27.

Lower School——June 22, 25, 26, 27 and 28.

A peculiar accident occurred at the farm of Mr. A. B. Rowe, Green Point, near Picton. A horse put its head over the partition into the adjoining stall, evidently reaching for something with its tongue. The other horse made a grab at the intruder, catching the tongue between its teeth. When the other horse jerked its head back into its own stall the tongue stayed with the attacking horse. Dr. Ray Clapp attended the injured animal but was doubtful as to saving its life, and advised destroying it. The horse was valued at $200.

No sooner do young fellows learn to paddle their own canoe than they want two in it.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

There is nothing that touches the heart of humanity as much as the sight of crippled children. There is always a willingness to do what is possible to lighten the burden of their affliction and to brighten their lives. This is a commendable spirit as it gives evidence of man's regard for those who are not so fortunate as he is himself. There is also behind it the feeling that every child should have a chance in this world.

It is unfortunate that, to the majority of people, a crippled child is one who is deformed physically or who has lost part of a limb. These make up only part of the group. The child who has a damaged heart or whose organs are deficient in any way, is just as much a cripple as is the child whose bones are twisted.

It is right and just that suitable and extra attention should be provided for these crippled children. Because of their handicap they need special care and guidance in their education.

While this is true, our chief concern should be to prevent any child from becoming crippled and, as a result, handicapped in life's venture. It is a fact that the condition of many of these children could have been prevented by care and proper treatment at the right time.

Many damaged hearts result from diseased tonsils and teeth which are not properly and promptly treated. Much permanent damage results from such diseases as scarlet fever and measles.

If we wish to protect our Canadian children, then it is our responsibility to support the work of health departments and health organizations which seek to prevent the conditions that cripple children; which bring to the attention of parents the need for early and proper treatment; and which seek to spread knowledge concerning prevention.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

Mr. Jos. White, of the South Line has had wonderful success with lambs This year he had 12 lambs from five sheep. Last year he had 11 from five sheep.
