EDITORIAL NOTES.

The trial of the prisoners charged with the Baltic outrage, which was in progress during most of last week, goes to show what inhuman brutes some men can make of themselves when they take law into their own hands. They have been sent up for trial, and it is hoped a just reward will be meted out to them providing guilt is established. The act alleged to have taken place on that boat was worthy of pirates.

Mr. J.J. Dearn, a candidate for the Newfoundland Assembly, has a magnificent command of language, as witnessed by the following. He recently remarked that the reason the people of St John's allowed the Telegram to exist was because "they looked upon the editor as a foolish, idiotic, imbecile, harmless, witless, thick witted, blockish, silly, senseless, irrational, muddy headed, unenlightened, prejudiced, purblind, narrow minded, crotchety, conceited, mulish, bestitted, infatuated, hypocritical, cadaverous, half fledged, unwashed, God-forsaken, hungry-looking, soft-brained, woolly-headed, knock-kneed, long eared, squint eyed, lantern jawed, slab sided, ill natured, puerile, insignificant, suppy, vicious, efeminate, sheepish, mellow, utterly depraved and miserably wretched nincompoop, and so let him slide."

The terrible catastrophe which befel Quebec on Thursday evening last is another exemplification of the remarkable indifference of humanity to danger in some instances. In this case it is all the more wonderful from the fact that two similar catastrophes have occurred in that identical spot during the past fifty years. There is food for deep thought and moralizing in this case. Two similar warnings had been given, many lives had before been lost in the same manner, yet the people still continued to live under the shadow of death with the fond hope (if they hoped at all) that a disaster would not overtake them in their day and generation. Familarity bred contempt in their case, but alas the fate came upon them, and ten million tons of rock wiped out the lives of two and a half score, while more than the same number live in agony to bewail their folly. It is pitiful to think of the awful indifference which man can pay to deadly danger. No more terrible proof of this can be found than in the fate of these dwellers under the shadow of Cape Diamond.

The Witness Prize Competition

The winners of the Montreal Witness "Dominion Prize Competition" have just been announced. The competition, concerning which we notice some writers request that it should be made annual, or at least repeated, was a capital device for stimulating patriotism and native literature at the same time. Tales and sketches were asked for from all school children, illustrative of pioneer life in Canada. The Northern Messenger, a small paper published at the same office, was offered as a prize for the best tale in every school in the Dominion. A prize of greater value, Macaulay's history in five volumes, was sent to the writer of the best tale in each county, and a set of Parkman's works was the reward of the best in each province. The judges appointed to award these prizes were men of recognized ability, the judge for the province of Ontario having been Mr. Wm Houston, Parliamentry Librarian, Toronto. Finally a Dominion prize a splendid type-writer, was awarded by Lord Lorne. The Dominion prize has very curiously been taken by a young lady outside of the Dominion, the Witness having in view of its numerous readers in Newfoundland, counted that province, for the purpose of this competition, as though it had been a part of Canada. No one will be jealous that our little province has carried off this honor. The winner is Miss May Selby Holden of St. John's, whose portrait and autograph appear in the Witness with her tale. The second honor is awarded by Lord Lorne to Norman L. Cook of Gay's River, N.S. The other province prize winners are: Miss Ellie Ladner, Kamloops, Yale Co., British Columbia; Miss Lizzie McLaren, Woodnorth, Lennis Co., Manitoba; Miss Mary Ann McPherson, River Charlo, Restigouche, New Brunswick; Miss Abigail Smith, Harwich, Kent Co., Ontario; Benj. Howard, Summerside, Prince Co., Prince Edward Island; Victor Merrill Stanstead, Stanstead Co., Quebec.

Following are the names of the prize winners for Grey County:—Fred Colter, Miss Martha P. Williams, Miss Kate Mackie, Wm J. Clark, Meaford; Thos. Gadd, Varney; Martha Patterson, Wesley; R. L. Doan, Louise; Miss Bella Anderson, Elmwood; Miss Annie Hewis, Kemble; Herbert G. Goodere, Miss Alice Perves, Allen Park, David H. Mills, Bayview; Miss Goldie Hopkins, Blantyre; Archie Randall, Camperdown; Miss Ida Stone, Flesherton Station; William G. Nadigar, Lamlash; Miss Ella Cook, Traverston; George Dixon, Dromore; Herbert Boon, Thornbury; Miss Herron, Tara; Miss Mamie McRae, Wareham; Miss Sarah Garvie, Clement; M. Keys, Clarksburg.

Eugenia.

From an Occasional Correspondent.

This last week professor Howard, of Ithaca University, New York state, and one Mr. Linden, of Rochester, have been scouring the woods around Eugenia in search of a plant called Chinsing. It is one of the most valuable plants known to science. It is dried and sent to China, where it is worth its weight in gold. It grows quite plentiful in the woods around this part of the country. In searching for it professor Howard picked up pieces of rock which he thinks indicate very valuable silver mines around Eugenia. He says the ground and the rock and the plants that grow around all show very plain signs of valuable mines, both of gold and silver, also copper. The Professor has sent away some of the rock to the University to be analyzed. He is coming around again to see more about it. When Mr. J. W. Hoath sunk his well some time ago he raised up some rock that had rich veins of copper. Some of the pieces were sent to New York as specimens of the rocks in this part of Canada. The gentleman who got it was so impressed with the belief that it contained copper that he had it examined by an expert who said it was rich in copper, with some gold. That was only twenty-seven feet down where it was found. If the Americans take it in hand we may hope for something to turn up yet at Eugenia, but unless they do we may sleep on for another decade, as nothing short of an earthquake will waken up the people of Eugenia to their own interests.

Mr. James Purvis, of Toronto, has been trying to recruit his failing health at his father's, Mr. William Purvis of Eugenia. The pure air has benefitted him wonderfully in a short time.

GLENFIELD.

Several brigands were surrounded in a Servian village by gendarmes, who set fire to the house and burned up three of the outlaws.
