Buttermilk Lubrication

Motorists of to-day with automobiles very nearly trouble free, miss the grief and thrills which were part and parcel of driving during the earlier years of the industry. Thomas Tomlin, an Oldsmobile-Viking sales man at Birmingham, Alabama, comes forward with a first class reminisdence to illustrate the point. Back in 1912, he found himself in a perplexing predicament. He was driving in the deep ruts of a rough road, with the bottom of his crankcase scraping on the ground when the drain plug of the crankcase was knocked out and he lost all his lubricating oil. There were no service stations on the road and no telephones. Tomlin walked to the nearest farm house. The farmer had no oil, but just at the moment he happened to be churning. Tomlin bought six quarts of the buttermilk, plugged up the crankcase drain and successfully drove 30 miles to Birmingham with the churned milk functioning as a lubricant. This was probably the first and only time that an automobile engine has been oiled with the product of the dairy.

SLEEP FOR BABIES

During the first days of life, the baby sleeps practically all the time, excepting when he is being fed or bathed. The time spent in sleep gradually decreases and, at six months, the baby sleeps about sixteen hours. He sleeps from six p.m. to 6 a.m. without interruption, excepting for his feeding at 10 p.m.. He sleeps for two hours each morning and a little longer in the afternoon. At one year, he is sleeping for fourteen hours.

The afternoon rest should be continued until the child is five or six years of age.

The normal baby sleeps well. He must be properly fed and should sleep in fresh air if he is to rest quietly for long hours.

Restlessness and frequent wakings usually indicate improper feeding, or lack of fresh air, or bad training. The baby should not be played with before he is put to bed, nor should he be rocked, patted or sung to sleep.

The baby should always have his own bed: a lined clothes basket does very well for this. The mattress should be firm and even, and covered with a rubber sheet, then a quilted pad, and, over all a cotton sheet. This provides a comfortable bed which can be kept clean. The amount o coverings required depends upon the temperature.

The baby should sleep out of doors during the daytime when the weather permits. A window should always be open in the room where baby sleeps because only in this way can he obtain the amount of fresh air which he needs. His bed can be placed so that he is not exposed to having a draught strike one part of his body.

The bed or basket should be covered with netting in summer in order to keep insects from reaching the baby during his sleep.

Regular hours for sleep are necessary. The child should aways be put to bed at the same hour and left alone. If this is done he will settle down to sleep as soon as he is put to bed.

LABOR COST IMPORTANT

It is said that the cost of feed is the most important item in the cost of producing milk. It will amount to about one-half of the total costs Labor, however, is a strong second According to numerous surveys on this continent, the average cost of labor involved in the production of 100 pounds of milk will constitute about 25 per cent of the selling price. The same survey indicates that the labor per cow ranges from 150 to 170 hours. The larger the herd the less labor per cow is a very general rule.

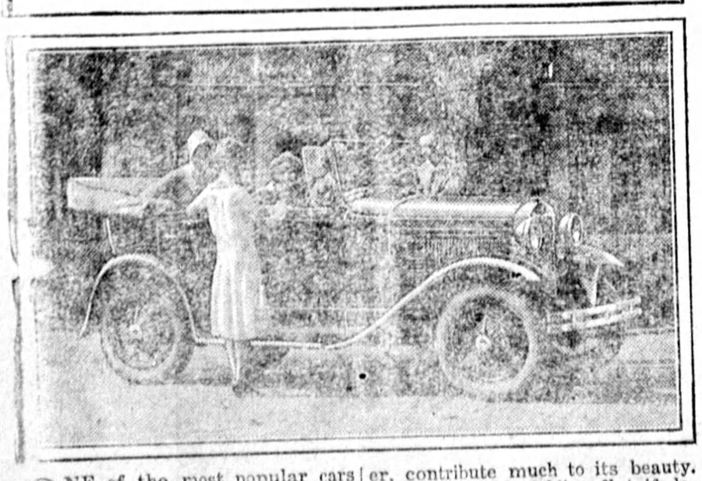
New Ford Phaeton



ONE of the most popular cars for summer motoring is the new Ford phaeton, if present demands are any criterion, according to officials of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

Ideal for an invigorating drive through the country, or for a run to the club or airport, the new Ford phaeton, in its gay colors, is growing more and more to be the choice of those who love the outdoors, the tang of cool air rushing past and the warmth of bright sunlight, these officials report. Its straight, unbroken sweep of line, from the headlamps to rear bumper, contribute much to its beauty. The windshield, folding flat if desired, adds to this effect. The top can be raised or lowered quickly and easily.

The wider seats which hold five passengers comfortably, are upholstered in silver gray artificial leather, with plain finish. Body finishes are offered in four attractive colors, classic blue, thorne brown, scaraba green and black. The windshield and windshield wings are of shatterless glass. A dust cover to enclose the top when folded is offered as optional equipment.

Price and Quality

Did you ever enter a store and say "Give me the cheapest suit of clothes you have in the house?"

You certainly did not because you realize that price is not the only consideration and that you must demand quality for what you buy, whether it is a house and lot or a paper of pins.

You want the best suit you can buy for the money, and the same theory applies to all other lines of merchandise. The mere fact that you have saved the money. Your home merchant could have given you a suit for $10.00 that would probably be better than the one you bought. He could probably have given you the same suit for less money.

This maens that your home merchant wants to satisfy you and give you your money's worth. He will not sell you anything that is not worth the money you pay for it, because he wants your trade when you come again. The merchant in the other town does not care. He doesn't expect to ever see you again and will try to get all he can out of you while the getting is good.

The next time you think of buying anything outside Flesherton, if you ever do think of such a thing, go first to your home merchant and ask to see the article or articles which you are thinking of buying. It is a courtesy you owe your community as well as your merchant and yourself, and it always pays.
