Shaw Says Pidgin English Will Be Future Language

Letchworth, England—"Pidgin English will be the classic English of the future," George Bernard Shaw said in a speech at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Letchworth Library.

"An Englishman may say: 'I am sorry I cannot oblige you.' Shaw said, "but a Chinaman says: 'No can.'" and expresses himself perfectly."

Shaw took exception, ironically, to the Biblical reference to the "blessedness" of the poor. "Until this country becomes determined that it shall never again have a poor man, woman or child in it," he said, "it won't be a country worth living in."

Speaking of libraries and books, Shaw said that if it was the British Museum library that had made him a Communist. "And I'll live and die a Communist," he added.

"Books," he said, "had been valuable to him in the study of speech. 'If you made me king of England,' he said, 'I might fall well short of the ideal in many ways, but I'd not object to me on the ground that my speech was disgraceful. If you made me Archbishop of Canterbury I could get away with the talking part. If you made me Lord Chief Justice I could sentence you to death in a way that would do honor to the occasion. But the most fluent person in his own language is often helpless if he crosses a frontier. I'm a great man here. But when I get on the other side of the Channel I'm less than any porter."

When
are Upset

BABY ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready?

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria.

Three Mothers

Three mothers by your cradle stand:
One mother who has given birth,
And one of them is Motherland,
And one of them is Mother Earth;
price,
all,
And two are greatest and one is small.

Your Mother Earth is strong and dread;
Her shield yours our sure protection makes;
She spreads her law above your head,
But even while she gives she takes.

Her arm is strong, her word is true,
But she may ask of your life of you.

From Mother Earth by toil you wring
Or feast or crust at her caprice,
The shelter for your journeying.
Though brief at best will be the lease.

And at the end she gives you bed
But cares not where your soul has sped.

The Mother who has borne your flesh
Through good or ill will hold you fast,
Will guide you through the world's dark mesh,
And so will save your soul at last,
Three mothers shall you have in all,
And one is great and two are small.

—Mollie Melandburgh Wilson.

"You're not listening to what I'm saying," she complained to her husband, who had the newspaper. "Of course I am, dear," he said. "You're not! I asked if you could afford to buy me a $10 hat and you said, 'Certainly, darling.'"

To Search For Lost Aviator in Arctic

Prof. Alfred Wegener, German scientist, leading German expedition in gathering weather data, has been reported lost since last month in arctic wastes. Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish aviator, is reported to have expressed his intention of going in search of him. Capt. Ahrenberg recently located Courtauld, British flier reported missing in Greenland.

Radio Short-Waves Stop Food Decay
Dairyman's Invention Shows

Soest, Holland.—A discovery has been made, writes a special correspondent in The Christian Science Monitor, in the field of ultra short-wave radio research whereby decay in foodstuffs is obsolutely arrested, according to Robert Pape of Soest, Holland, who has been for many years active in the dairy industry.

The invention, put briefly, consists of an apparatus which generates ultra short waves in the region of 25 centimeters to 1 meter. The waves thus generated form, after about 10 days and within a radius of 20 meters from the machine, an electro-magnetic field, in which no organic product can decompose. The size of this electro-magnetic field is, practically speaking, a globe of about 30,000 cubic meters.

The preserving action of this field penetrates through everything: stone walls, iron, lead, wood, glass and so forth indoors and outdoors, in any atmosphere or temperature.

The cold storage field, which has developed to such a grade of perfection, is said to be highly interested in the new invention. For this new machine, which occupies a space of a few cubic meters and thereby forms a food preserving field of 30,000 cubic meters, uses up only as much electricity as an ordinary 200 candle power electric bulb and the results of this small device are declared to be far better than those of a modern equipped cold storage warehouse, with its expensive machinery, large special buildings and personnel.

The invention, which was received at first with incredulity, has lately caused a great deal of interest, natural scientists both from here and abroad pouring into Mr. Pape's bungalow here, where he is demonstrating the machine.

The correspondent of The Christian Science Monitor has seen food on plates in various parts of the house, in the garret and in the garden, perfectly odorless and undecayed, which had been there for months. There were new potatoes of June, 1930, a little bit discolored, but which could still easily be scraped. There were eggs, broken on a plate, several months ago, a little dried, but not a sign of decay. Eggs in the shell stored in the house on May 23, 1930, were opened and the yolk was beautifully yellow and without odor.

Reports of experiments by outsiders have been published, among them one of Dr. A. Van Raalte, chief of the Amsterdam Meat Inspection Service, on behalf of the Dutch Patent Council.

From these reports it appeared that the acid percentage of milk which had been kept for a fortnight in the electromagnetic field had not increased; that pears, after a number of months, had maintained all the qualities they possessed when placed in the field, and that shrimps, mixed with only 4 per cent. of salt, showed no ammonic development after a fortnight's exposure.

Autos Now Navigate Deepest Rivers

Floating automobiles that run on roads in the ordinary way, but are able when necessary to float across rivers, have been built and tested for use in a traveling exhibition of British industries proposed by Capt. Geoffrey Malins of London. Says Dr. E. E. Free in his Week's Science (New York):

"Attached to the side of each automobile are frames and brackets made of the new light metal called 'elektron,' an alloy of magnesium, less than one-half the weight of aluminum.

"Fastened to these brackets are eight air bags of rubberized fabric, four for each side of the car.

"When the expedition wishes to cross a bridgeless river, the elektron framework is put in place, the air bags are attached, and these are pumped up by a bellows arrangement operated by the engine. The car then may be driven into the water under its own power and float on the air bags, with its running-boards level with the water surface.

A TRINITY

From long years of observation and a widely varied experience I have learned much about one great trinity—Faith, Work and Patience. Faith we must have; Work we must do; and Patience we must exercise. Given these three a success fitting to our station is as certain to result as the sun to rise, because in them are all the elements from which the progress of mankind is fashioned.—R.E.H.

HER FAT IS MELTING FAST AWAY

All over the world Kruschen Salts is appealing to girls and women who strive for an attractive, free-from-fat figure that cannot fail to win admiration.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the daily dose that takes off the fat." Don't miss a morning.

Kruschen daily means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

At the same time the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are toned up and the pure, fresh blood containing Nature's six life-giving salts is carried to every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of the body, and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure.
