HENS BUSY

The treasurer of the Ladies' Aid Society of a Greensburg church made a deposit for her organization in a Greensburg bank recently. At the deposit window she spoke to the teller, whom she knew.

The deposit was a considerable one for a church organization and as she passed in the money, she said, "Here's the aid money."

The teller understood her to say "Here's the egg money." Then came the break.

"Well, it looks as though the old hens have been laying pretty good lately," was his comment.—Indianapolis News.

Milestone Passed In History Of Lodge

Oldest Past Masters Opened New Lodge Quarters On Friday Night

Another milestone has been passed by Prince Arthur Lodge No. 333, A.F. & A.M. On Friday evening their new lodge quarters in Fraternity Hall were occupied for the first time and a large number of the members were present to celebrate the occasion. An interesting angle to the event was the filling of the principle chairs for the opening of the Lodge by the oldest Past Masters. Wor. Bro. W. J. Bellamy, the oldest Past Master now living, occupied the Masters chair, with Wor. Bro. Geo. Mitchell, Senior Warden and Wor. Bro. F. H. W. Hickling as Junior Warden. Mr. Bellamy was Master of Prince Arthur Lodge in the years 1889, 1890 and 1901. Mr. Mitchell was Master in 1895 and 1896, while Mr. Hickling occupied the chair in 1902 and 1903. These three men are constant attendants at the Masonic meetings and have taken a most active part in all the work of the Lodge. The past few years has seen a large growth in the membership of Prince Arthur Lodge and it is expected that with their new quarters there will be a continuance of growth, both in quantity and in knowledge of the Craft.

Sent Protest To Ottawa

At an executive meeting in Flesherton on Saturday of the South-East Grey U.F.O. Political Association the following resolution was sent to Premier Bennett in protest against his intention of frustrating the cattle-hide-oil deal with Russia:

"The Southeast Grey political association strongly protests the action of your government in refusing to give the necessary guarantee which would enable Canadian farmers to market $7,000,000 worth of cattle and hides at above present market prices. Other nations, particularly Great Britain, have given the necessary guarantees and have not suffered thereby. Why could not your government have taken action that would have brought relief to a stricken industry?"

Despite the depression and the necessity of counting every nickel to keep their heads above water financially, the farmers determined to wire the protest, rather than mail it, so it would arrive more quickly and have more chance of running the gauntlet of officialdom that might prevent a letter reaching the premier's personal perusal.

Alfalfa For Poultry

Alfalfa in the green state has long been recognized as an ideal poultry feed when used in conjunction with the usual grains and mashes. It is used extensively as range or as cut green feed for birds in confinement during the spring, summer and fall months in most alfalfa-growing areas, but the value of the hay as a winter feed is not so generally known. So much of the year's success depends on the number and quality of chicks hatched each spring, that it is important to all possible to increase the fertility and hatchability of the eggs and the livability of the chicks. Experiments have shown that 20 per cent. better fertility and 6.4 per cent. better hatchability of fertile eggs can be obtained from birds where alfalfa hay instead of straw is used as litter in the breeding pens. The alfalfa should be used as litter during the winter months preceding the breeding season and the same treatment given to males and females.

Mrs. J. Warling Dies

Esteemed Pioneer Passes In 82nd Year — Funeral Held Last Thursday

At an early hour on Wednesday, Jan. 4, Mrs. John Warling of Vandeleur passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Timmins, of Zion district.

Deceased, before her marriage was Margaret Jane Hemphill, and was in her 82nd year. She had been in failing health for some time. She was a native of Grey county, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hemphill, having lived on a farm at Mount Zion.

Three years later they returned, and afterwards made their home with their daughters, Mrs. Timmins and Mrs. Albert McNally of Glenelg. Thirteen months ago Mr. Warling passed away at the ripe age of 90 years. Theirs was an active life, and they did their part in building up the community in which they lived. Their marriage was blessed with a family of ten sons and daughters: R. G. Warling, Moose Jaw, Sask; (Jennie) Mrs. Webster, Port Henry, B.C.; James A., Toronto; (Lavina) Mrs. William Timmins, Zion; Edgar, Toronto; (May) Mrs. James McClocklin, deceased; (Letitia) Mrs. Jacob Neely, South River; (Ethel) Mrs. Gilbert, Wiarton; (Ella) Mrs. Albert McNally, Traverston; (Leila), Mrs Will. Walker, Eugenia. There are also 39 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

The late Mrs. Warling knew much of the hardship incident to pioneer life. She was an exemplary wife and mother, always cheerful in the face of difficulties, and anxious to look on the bright side of life.

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

Charles Jennings

Radio doesn't do the small fry any harm. They get a glimpse of the Big World Outside that the geography books fail to supply. If you are domesticated you know what I mean Junior bringing in The Gang from the back yard hockey rink every evening to hear Our Jimmy — or sprawled out on the rug for Fu Manchu, or as a special concession to juvenile susceptibilities, Ed Wynn. The youngsters all have their own heroes of the ether, and it gives them ideas—Junior thinks it would be a good idea to train to be a radio star—All right, my boy, let me suggest ten years on the vaudeville stage, a few more in the diplomatic service, and a season of writing. Even announcers, most of them, are fairly well seasoned before they can crash into the business. As for artists, out of two hundred who have the equipment, only one has what it takes to click over the air.

Toyingwith this idea of the seasoned artist being the successful artist, what about orchestra conductors?—For instance, what about Reginald Stewart, who conducts the C-I-L Opera House of the Air, favorite Sunday evening entertainment of many veteran dial-turners? Stewart, son of a Scottish musicial, was a wonder on the piano at the age of seven, played the church organ at ten and was leading chorister at twelve. Then he studied—Paris, London, Vienna—and then he began to be noticed. Two years he conducted the famous London Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall. This year he conducted England's greatest orchestra, the B. B. C., in the First Brahms Symphony. An old-time, you suggest? Sure thing—thirty-two years old—Incidentally we like the Opera House of the Air—looking forward to "Tom Jones" and "Monsieur Beaucaire."

We do not wish to shatter any illusions, but orators of the air do very little free-wheeling—we mean ad-libbing—the time element is too important Not wishing to come to the end of the broadcast without having said the very thing they want most to say, they read from timed manuscript. No matter what silver tongued speaker comes to the microphone, Mr. Charlesworth, in the interests of program efficiency should insist on a continuity. It also relieves the strain upon the speaker himself—Clara, Lu and Em, not so long ago, went into the studio for a quarter hour without having anything prepared. Not so difficult for them, since years before they had been doing impromptu sketches right along. But this time they panicked—At the end of fifteen minutes Clara, Lu and Em looked like jitters, stage fright and buck fever all rolled into one—Never again without a continuity, they say.

"To see ourselves as others see us"—how easy, with the help of radio. Have you never listened to people talking in some other country—about THIS country? Martha Ostenso, Canadian in the sense that she lived here for some time while writing the earliest of her novels, pleased us with the way she spoke of Canada during an interview of the Grub Street series—but if we ever had any idea that being an author was easy, this little talk undeceived us. Speaking of authors, we personally, could assimilate more than the prevailing number of book reviewers over the air—if they were authoritative.

It's all right to tune in your home station and leave 'er lay for hours, but there IS a thrill in the long distance stuff—The voice of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald from London, England—the Prince of Wales laying any old corner stone gets us listening every time—and we still remember the kick we got out of two unknown engineers chatting back and forth between Rome and New York. But of all trans-Atlantic broadcasts, the Christmas programs seem to appeal most—Christmas carols in chorus by children of London, Paris and Berlin—Mass from the Cathedral of Notre Dame—and the sounds of Toyland itself when the squeaks and whistles of the toys of picturesque Nuremberg, Germany, come over the air. No reason, that we can see, why broadcasting shouldn't lean a little in the baby's direction, just at this time of year.

A FAUX PAS

Arriving home from the party, Friend Wife whipped off her hat and slammed it on the floor. 'I'll never take you to another party as long as I live," she said.

"Why?" asked Hubby amazedly.

"You asked Mrs. Jones how her husband was standing the heat.'

"Well, what of that?"

"Why, her husband has been dead two months."

BUILT RAIL FENCE

Some unusual farm work was accomplished last week by Mr. Alfred Harrison and his son, Ward, that is unique for this time of the year. On Saturday morning they finished erecting 80 rods of rail fence on their farm, two miles south of town. This is rather a record in this district for January farm work.
