—Mr. Percy Rowan, Toronto Jct., fireman on the C.P.R., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Robt. Rowan, Cambray.

—$2.00 per doz. photographs for 9c.; will show a proof. No punch required. Fowler & Co., Lindsay —30-2

—The W. Victoria Women's Institute has formed branches at Woodville and Little Britain. The institute now has 65 members.

—Messrs. J. P. Leary, William Lancaster and J. H. Guy of Richmond, Va., went north yesterday on a fishing expedition.

—Mr. A. J. Graham, clothier, left Monday morning for a ten-days trip to Montreal and Quebec, and will secure snaps in clothing at spot cash.

—Miss M. C. Blaylock, of Toronto, is at present spending her vacation at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Blaylock, Fairview Farm, Ops.

—On Thursday the Peterboro golfers played the locals at the Sturgeon Point Links. The visitors won by 7 holes. Rev. J. W. Macmillan played with the locals.

—Mr. A. Proctor, the well-known Canadian driver, was fined $200 and suspended for one month for holding back the pacer, Darkey, at the Detroit circuit races.

—Mr. J. H. Fullerton left last night for Toronto where his wife is visiting. They will spend a couple of weeks holidaying in the Niagara peninsula and Buffalo.

—Miss M. C. Blaylock af Toronto, Mrs. W. B. Richardson of Winnipeg, and her brother Mr. Ely Dancey of Omemee, spent Sunday evening with their cousin, Mrs. Jas. Greer of Reaboro.

—The horseman who spent half an hour on Tuesday afternoon trying to drive his spirited animal up against the steam roller, and finally resorted to serve whipping, is no credit to the craft.

—On Saturday Mrs. Catherine Swaine, relict of the late James Swaine, died in Peterboro. Mrs. Swaine was a sister of Mr. Patrick Boey, formerly of Ops, but now of Peterboro.

—Whitby Chronicle: Chief Constable Bell is not only making it lively for the Oshawa toughs, but he is getting on to the beggar and lazy element.....Lindsay's former chief is doing well in Whitby.

—Mr. Geo. W. Curtis left on Monday for Peterboro, in order to give his pacer, Minnie Keswick, a final preparation for the 2.50 event at the race meeting in that town on Wednesday and Thursday of next week.

—Mr. G.W. Stokes of Little Britain lost a pocket book containing $30 and some small silver on Monday last between his residence and Port Hoover Hill. The finder will be rewarded by returning the same to its owner.

—Mr. J. D. Hunter, of Toronto, who some 23 years ago was station agent at Lindsay, but is now general freight agent for the Allan Steamship Company, for Canada and the United States, was in town for a few days this week.

—On Friday afternoon Mr. Jos. Meehan's frame house situated a couple of miles from town on the Bobcaygeon road was burned. The fire started in the summer kitchen. Most of the furniture was saved. Mr. Meehan had some insurance.

—On Tuesday forenoon, as Mr. Walter McWatters was delivering bread to the Esturion, his team of ponies took fright at a steamer whistle and dashed up Lindsay-st. The bread cart upset, but the runaways were stopped at Dr. Shier's corner.

—On Monday, when Mr. Jas. Gillogly, jr., was driving one of J. Gunigal's horses on William-st., the animal took fright, ran the rig onto the walk and upset it. Mr. Gillogly got a rather bad fall, but the horse was caught before much damage had been done to the rig.

—Mr. Alf. Parkin is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends on his marriage to Miss May Bluett, of Campbellford. The ceremony was performed in Toronto on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Parkin reached town the same evening and will reside on William-st.

—One of the Kawartha Lakes Navigation Company Scows sprung a leak on Saturday when in the bay on the way to town with a load of gravel. For a time it was in danger of sinking, and was only kept afloat by vigorous use of the pumps and throwing off part of its load.

—The regular quarterly meeting services will be conducted in the Cambridge-st Methodist church on Sabbath next by the pastor, Rev. Geo. W. Henderson. The general fellowship service will begin at 10 o'clock and reception of members will be held at the close of the evening service.

—The Parish Workers of St. Paul's church, Lindsay, will run an excursion to Chemong Park, on Friday, July 31st, per Steamer Kenosha. Boat leaves wharf at 8 a.m., calling at Sturgeon Point (lower wharf) both ways, and reaching the park about 12 o'clock. Tickets 40 and 20c.

—Mr. A. Bonnette G.N.W. lineman got a bad fall near Cambray on Wednesday of last week when the pole on which he was working broke off and allowed him to fall 15 feet to the ground. His right side was badly bruised and his right hand so cut as to be disabled for some time.

—On Friday Mr. Robt. Deyell, Mt. Horeb, began cutting a 12-acre field of 6-rowed barley. The grain was a capital crop, long and rank in the straw, and in heads that commonly were 16-kernels long, that is that contained 84 kernels on a head. The grains were perfect in plumpness and color.

—The representitives of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., who have been making special efforts here for a few days, report business as excellent. The display in Mr. Jos. Carroll's window attracted much attentionl Mr. Carroll will make regular trips to the town in future.

—Mr. Fred. Hopkins, son of Mrs. W. Hopkins, east ward, is such a prominent citizen of Oregon, Portland, that he was one of a citizens' committee of four to welcome Pres. Roosevelt on his recent visit to that city. Mr. Hopkins holds a capital position with the Union Pacific railway.

—As the train to carry the Sylvester band excursion, was being made up on Friday morning, Brakeman Hoover fell from the top of a freight car to the track. The car passed over him. He escaped the wheels, but his leg was broken by the fall. He is a patient at the hospital. Hoover's home is at Garden Hill.

—Rev. Mr. Kannawin, of Cannington, preached twice at St. Andrew's on Sunday. His text of both sermons was "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness." In the morning the preacher discussed righteousness as between man and man, and at night laid down the principles that should guide the righteous.

—One day last week Mr. Milton Fee was trying to get to the roof of of one of the Sylvester buildings, with the assistance of a fellow-workman, who had alreday gone up. To further aid himself he caught a dangling rope that gave way, and he fell 15 feet to the ground. His head struck a fish plate of the railway track and was badly cut.

—Fenelon Falls Gazette: A short time ago Mr. David West, of Fenelon, paid Mr. James Poulson of Verulam $100 for a handsome black colt, three years old, which was well worth the money. But he didn't have it long, for, about a month later it stepped on the covering of a well which collapsed beneath its weight, and fell in such a way that its neck was broken.

—Mr. Jas. Lennon has a picture of the town fire team and citizens' hand, taken at the time the convent was burned. Chief Bell was then a member of the brigade, and is the only member of the present brigade that was. Mr. Jos. Brown and Jas. Lennon, Geo. Thomas, Ben Cook, and R. Kylie were also members. Major Mac shows up with the band. Messrs. W. Pedlar and the late John Bate were members.

—In some townships, cattle, pigs and sheep are allowed to run at large on the highways, and the question is often asked, in case damage is done who is responsible? The provincial courts have already decided this point. The owners of all domestic animals running at large are responsible. The question of permission for animals to run at large by by-laws of the council does not change the damage of responsibilty so far as the law is concerned.—Exchange.

—An exchange says: The brown, hand-spanked, barefooted, hard-fisted country boy makes a much better fight in the battle of life than the pampered, high-collared and creased-troused youth of our cities, whose clothes have always been dusted with a whisk-broom instead of a shingle. Let the town man out of a job try a year on the farm. Plowing behind a mule will take the kink out of his topknot, the frog out of his throat, the weakness out of his legs, and will give him an appetite, an honest living, and a sight of heaven.

—On Tuesday Miss Wardrobe caught several bass at Rosedale. One of them weighed 5 pounds and another 5½. Because of the popular belief that there is necessarily an element of romance in the alleged weight of a fish it may be remarked that these weights are absolutely correct. That of the heavier fish will be properly verified and sent to the Toronto Star in competition for its prize of a fine rod for the heaviest black bass caught in Canadian waters. It is good betting that Miss Wardrobe will win that prize. These are likely the largest fish on record in this district.

—Mr. J. M. Chalmers has the contract for building the hog pen in the park, and is getting along well with the work.

—Mr. Robt. Pogue, of Glandine, delivered a quantity of fancy peas at the Mariposa elevator yesterday. They were Early New Yorkers.

—The House of Refuge committee of the county council held a meeting recently at which it was decided to advertise for a tract of land suitable for the proposed institution. The advertisement appears in this issue. Those who own land adjacent to town should consult County Clerk McNeillie.

—A large number patronized the excursion of the united Epworth Leagues of the two Methodist churches, last Thursday night. It was intended to go to Fenelon Falls, but logs in the river up there prevented the steamer from reaching the wharf. The proceeds, some $30, will be given to the Ross Hospital. .....No attempt was made to run the regular band excursion on Tuesday night, and it is likely it will be discontinued.

—Council seems beaten with Kent-st. For a couple of weeks the roller has been busy off and on. Most of the street has been picked up and rolled down twice with no perceptible difference in it. It is said there is a division as to whether the assistance of Commissioner Campbell shall be asked or not. A strip of pit gravel in which the boulders were broken by hand, has been put down the centre and seemingly makes a fair start of rebuilding the street.

—People who are not much accustomed to looking heavenward are doing so these nights. They are looking at or for the comet. This comet is located now in the vicinity of the big dipper. It is as yet very dim, and to the naked eye looks like a little patch of illuminated mist. It is expected to grow much brighter. This comet is said to have two tails. An individual observing it outside the Simpson House the other night declared he could see both of them. A bystander, who was not making a very good fist of viewing the erratic star, retorted that likely a man in the shape he was, could see two comets.

—A most thrilling phenomenon is the stubborn husband. He is not a bad man. He is contrary, and he has to be managed. He is usually married to a clever little woman, who is constantly devising schemes to accomplish the things which make their joint lives a success. He has no suspicion of this. If he had, he would be so mad he could undoubtedly eat her. So all through life she goes on swinging a turnip ahead of his nose to make him go the same as if he were a baulky mule. She is a cheery little body, and she grows plump with every year, and she does her smiling behind the door or she chuckels in her sleeve when he is not interesting as a bug.—London Standard.

—One day last week Mr. Eaton of Toronto, son-in-law of Mr. McCrae, Omemee, was automobiling between there and Lindsay. He was accompanied by some ladies. Mr. Dan Shannihan was drawing gravel and met the party on the road. The conveyance was an intimidating novelty to his steady-going team, and in spite of their driver's protests they lost no time in turning around on the road. The gravel was upset and Mr. Shannihan buried under it. The wagon tongue was broken. This greatly amused the ladies whose laughter conspired with the incident itself to loosen up Mr. Shannihan's rich Hibernian discourse. That discourse and the feelings that prompted it were greatly modified by the sum of $3 that Mr. Eaton handed to the irate teamster.

—Bobcaygeon Independent: A sitting of the division court was held last week, His Honor Judge Dean presiding. The only case of interest was one between Bert Weese, horse buyer, and George White, of South Verulam. Weese bought a horse of White and after keeping it a few days returned it, and demanded the money, as the horse had, so he asserted, heaves. It was impossible for His Honor to form an opinion, by the evidence, as to what condition of health the horse was in. It might have had heaves, chilblains, appendicitis, or floating kidneys, for anything shown by the evidence, so he adjourned the case till Monday next, so that each party could have a veterinary examine the horse and give an opinion on the state of its tumtum. Mr. Thomas Stewart, of Lindsay, acted for White, and Mr. Weldon for Weese.

—On Monday morning 2,176 boxes of cheese were sold on the local board, and all but 75 boxes brought 9 3-16 cents. The 75 sold for an eighth less. Buyer Fitzgerald got Star 140 boxes, Dunsford 160, Reaboro 156, and Mariposa 140. Cook bought Omemee 195, Maple Leaf 165 Pine Grove 55 and Red Rock 225. Flavelle took Cameron 140, Cambray 80, North Verulam 125, Bobcaygeon 300 and Palestine 112. He bought Janetville 75 boxes at an eighth less, and will be paid the livery hire to make inspection at the factory. The next sale will be held on the 10th of August. Buyer Fitzgerald said that there was a good deal of after-bargaining at the Peterboro board. He did not like it. When reminded that he would be called to task for that statement when he appeared in Peterboro, Mr. Fitzgerald replied that there was more truth than gossip in what he said.

—To "Wee Wiffie" in the Mail and Empire Correspondence column: You expect perfection and nag if the poor man throws things about and forgets to put soiled collars in the laundry basket! You will be asking him to mend his socks next. Bless you! the man must relax in his own house sometimes. Don't begin wrong little woman. Make home comfortable first and as tidy as you can afterwards. There is no standing the aggressively neat wife. If I were a man with such a helpmeet I'd live at the club. Let him hang his hat on the floor and read the newspaper at the breakfast table and sprinkle his beloagings broadcast if he is but loving and dear and kind and faithful to you, and proud of you. To the four winds with everything else sooner than lose the littlest particle of one of these things. As for appealing to your mother—if you value all your future comfort don't.

—On Thursday afternoon the Oshawa baseball team was defeated here by the locals by 5 : 3. Flaherty of Peterboro pitched for the locals and did good work. The fact that their main man was an outsider erased a good deal of the glory of success from the Lindsay team. Miller played short-stop, and in the 9th, when Flaherty's fingers were badly skinned, acceded to Manager Simpson's request that he pitch for the rest of the match. In so doing Miller in a manly way showed that he held no spite on account of the unpleasantness over the previous match. Some other members of the team were not so magnanimous, however, notably Workman, who rushed off the field declaring he would not work behind Miller. He went back, though, and it turned out that Flaherty got his fingers patched up and finished the match without assistance. The visitors were gentlemen, but they failed to give their capable battery the support necessary to hold the locals.

—On Friday Mr. Jas. Moffatt, formerly one of Lindsay's soldiers in Africa, and now teacher of the provincial Manual Training School, Vancouver, B.C., reached town from the west. Mr. Moffatt came east on rather a peculiar mission. A number of Chinamen, citizens of the United States, who had been home to China on a visit were being brought out again by the C. P. R., which makes a specialty of that transportation business. In order to escape the $500 tax imposed on Chinamen entering Canada, these Celestials had to be taken through in bond, but since it was hardly possible to put them into a car under lock and seal like dutiable merchandise, they were put under the care of a number of men. Mr. Moffatt was one of these, and had to keep a bunch of half-a-dozen Chinamen under his eye all the time. It was a holiday trip for him and gave him a chance to see his friends down east. He spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents at Valentia.

—The scows from which the corporation gravel was being unloaded, were, on Monday afternoon, the centre of quite an animated scene. A few fellows who had got too much liquid air, were watching the gravel being unloaded, when Frank Hutton accidentally backed his team over the edge of the scow into the river. While he and his assistants were getting the horses to land they were volunteered sundry directions by people who always appear for the purpose when anything happens. The liquid air chaps joined in, and in terms none too refined, in fact they were not refined enough, and straightway were resented by those to whom they were addressed. In a brief space of time there was a general set-to on the gravel and in the woodyard adjoining. Things were quite interesting when some one told Charlie Reeves and he went down to the scene of hostilities, which were spoiled by his arrival. One individual forsook the scrap for Cullon's shop where he roped himself to the lathes and anvils and declared he would drag them out of the shop. At Charlie's suggestion he changed his mind, and, hatless, negotiated the sidewalk between that shop and his home in the south ward.

Obituary

WILLIAM FINNEY

By the death of Mr. William Finney on July 22nd, Fenelon township lost one of her most aged and respected citizens. Mr. Finney was born in Monaghan, Ireland 85 years ago. When 26 years of age he came to Canada, and settled in Manvers where he lived for 25 years. He then moved to Ops where he lived for only two years, after which he went to Fenelon where he died.

Mr. Finney belonged to a long-lived family. Of the nine children of which he was one, none died under 60 years of age and the average age of the nine is about 70 years. Mr. Finney was a Presbyterian and a Conservative, and by his quiet, genial manner and integrity of character, made many friends and won the confidence and respect of a wide circle of acquaintances.

A widow, two sons and two daughters survive Mr. Finney. They are John James, Rettie's Station: William George on the homestead; Mrs. Jas. Pollard, and Mrs. Robt. Begg of Cameron.

Born

At Hanna, South Dakota, July 7th, 1903, to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. McCready, a son. Mrs. McCready was formerly Miss Janet Robinson, of Omemee.

HOLIDAYS BY CO-OPERATION.

How British Working People Can Have a Good Time by Joining Together.

"A holiday! How can workingmen and their wives get one? Why, look at the cost?" Many a workingman has said that in despair, writes a correspondent, and it undoubtedly is difficult—nay, well-nigh impossible—for a single workingman to manage it by himself, but if a number join together the case is entirely altered.

Co-operation has achieved some splendid feats in the way of managing stores, and it is high time it is adapted to holiday-making. As a matter of fact, it has been so adapted among the Midlanders and Northerners, with wonderful success, success that says plainly to Londoners, "Go thou and do likewise!" The Co-operative Holidays Association, the headquarters of which is at Hayfield, on the Cheshire borders, is only eleven years old, but last year 3,000 holiday-makers availed themselves of its privileges. One of the "guest houses," as they are called, has actually been bought by the members, and a lovely house it is, at Ardenconnel, on the Garelock, Scotland, accommodating 120 guests. Others are leased at Whitby, Hayfield, Upper Bangor, Portrush, North Ireland, Monmouth, and Galway, while the last born of the family is at Richmond. There is accommodation altogether for 500 members. There are also temporary centres, fixed according to convenience during the summer vacation.

How did the movement arise? Well, it began by Mr. Leonard, a Congregational minister at Colne, in Lancashire, taking out his Young Men's Guild for annual holidays. The scheme got wind, it was organized under Mr. Leonard's direction by a few public-spirited men, like Dr. Paton of Nottingham, and as it caught on the men themselves who came did the rest. Voluntary workers are found to spend a fortnight in charge. The hostesses at each centre are voluntary, even paying their own fares. The talks and lectures are given free, and the only paid staff are the manageresses and domestic helpers. A curious feature of the movement is that it has no servants. The helpers are all holiday-makers, and come on the distinct understanding that they are treated on an equally with the guests, and share in the excursions when there is time, besides receiving an honorarium of 8s. per week while there. This plan has simply annihilated the servant difficulty. The manageresses are chosen in the same way. It is amazing to see how completely workers and guests are at unison in one of these homes.

Nothing could be easier than for fifty or a hundred London workingmen to take a house for six weeks in the same way, forming a small guarantee fund as a preliminary, engage a manageress, get her to select helpers, and themselves undertake to become guests for a week. Why should not our great friendly societies or each of our clubs and every large firm organize its own holidays? It is not necessary that the employers should do this—self-help is the thing, and if the foremen of our large works would take the matter up it is not difficult to foresee the time when great numbers of our working class will find a holiday within their reach. Their sisters might act as the helpers, and the dignity of their labor be sustained by the courtesy of their treatment. This is no mere chimera.—London Chronicle.

River Question in Australia.

Notwithstanding all the tactless assaults on the Federation and the parochial attitude adopted toward national obligations at the recent Premiers' conference, writes our Melbourne correspondent, the Premiers have made a tremendous stride toward the settlement of the rivers question.

They have secured a five years' truce between the three States of New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia, which are vitally interested in the waters of the Murray, by means of an agreement which, if ratified by the three Parliaments, will enable the States to carry through important water conservation works.

Taking the second and clearer step first, it is a subject of intense satisfaction to Australians that conflict over riparian rights has been avoided. As the Nile is to Egypt, so is the Murray to great areas in New South Wales and Victoria. For prosperity to reach those areas irrigation and the conservation of flood waters are a sine qua non. South Australia has fought the schemes of her neighbor because she feared that the flow of water, when the Murray reached her territory, would be so low as to impede navigation. The agreement guarantees South Australia a flow of 337,000 cubic feet per minute, provides a commission to administer the schemes of the other States, and limits the diversions of water during the seven months, July to January inclusive, to 293,000 cubic feet per minute on the part of New South Wales, and 147,000 per minute on the part of Victoria, with lesser quantities during the rest of the year. The making of the agreement has been received with acclamation throughout the Commonwealth. Nothing short of a cataclysmic disturbance, or another drought can hinder the continuance of the agreement for a decade or more after 1908.—London Chronicle.
