You wash dishes about two hours every day. That's one hour wasted!

Dishes get dirty, greasy and sticky and soap will not clean them. Soapy dish water merely cleans the surface; it doesn't dig out the corners and drive out the decayed food particles. Moreover, soap leaves your dishes with a soapy, animal-fat smell, that is far from inviting.

GOLD DUST is the sanitary dish washer. It not only cleans the surface, but digs deep after hidden particles of dirt and kills the germs of decayed food which ordinary dish-water overlooks. GOLD DUST sterilizes as well as cleanses.

Besides doing the work better than soap or any other cleanser can, GOLD DUST will save just half the time you spend in washing dishes.

GOLD DUST is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Had Palpitation of the Heart

Weakness and Choking Spells.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly, palpitate and throb, beats fast for a time, then so slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm. When the heart does this many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, and become weak, worn and miserable.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. John J. Downey, New Glasgow, N.S., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I was troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart, would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies, but got none to answer my case like your Pills. I can recommend them highly to all having heart or nerve troubles."

Seven Years Without a Scandal

IMMIGRATION MATTERS.

Referring to the question of immigration, Sir James stated that as the result of provincial expenditure for immigration, the ordinary expenditures were increased. When the province spent money for immigration, the Dominion Government revenue was increased because the immigrants consumed additional goods and paid indirect tax to the dominion. "My own opinion," said the Premier, "is that the Dominion annually should give a lump sum to each province or distribute a sum among them, to be used for the purpose of immigration, and I have advocated that time and again.

"This question of immigration has been laid before the present Prime Minister of Canada, Hon. Mr. Borden. For the past several years the former Dominion Government had been piling up surpluses until last year the surplus amounted to something like $25,000,000. I am of opinion that no Government should pile up surpluses like that, and that the money should be spent in order to benefit the people. The people should get the money, instead of having it piled up as it had been piled up by the late Government. Where there is such a surplus, why should not at least part of it be devoted to immigration purposes? Financial aid should be given for immigration, practical instruction in agriculture and the improvement of the permanent roadways of the province."

Sir James referred to the fact that during the last election campaign Mr. Borden had promised to take action along the line indicated. It was the Ontario Government which induced Mr. Borden to do this. The speaker had discussed the matter with Mr. Borden, and to the Ontario Government was due the credit for having induced the present premier to make the statements he did. The good roads to be benefited and assisted will not be colonization roads in New Ontario, said Sir James, but will be the permanent roads all through the province so that each municipality will benefit. In two or three weeks, when the estimates were being considered in the House of Commons, he hoped to see passed under the auspices of the new Government substantial sums for road improvement and colonization.

"I think these are three great steps in advance," said Sir James. "Now that the hydro-electric commission has organized in a few months a new department will be created to attend to that work entirely."

RAILROAD SUBSIDIES.

Regarding the subsidizing of railroads the premier asked why the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been unwilling to give the usual subsidy to the provincial railway? Time after time that government had refused that subsidy to the people of Ontario, although nearly 50 per cent. of the subsidies granted to the other provinces came from the people of this province. "I am not sure that the present government will, either, but I am sure that we have already made demands upon them for it. We ask the people to say whether they approve of these things, the immigration, agriculture, the construction of public highways and putting the hydro-electric commission under the control of a cabinet minister. These are the additional reasons why we came to the people of Ontario at this time. We look forward with confidence to two things, renewal of the confidence of the people of the province and of West Victoria, too, and to greater prosperity for the province. We are mottal and possibly we have made mistakes, but they are few and I believe the people would get tired looking for them. During the seven years of the Government's administration not a breath of suspicion of a scandal has been attached to the Government of Ontario. Leaving aside our good record, the moral sense of the people of Ontario has not been outraged."

THE OPPOSITION.

The premier then turned his attention to the attitude of the Opposition. "I suppose I should say something in regard to the condition of the Opposition (and I say that in a sympathetic way.) I have been accused of saying that Mr. Rowell was a joke—I did not say so."

Sir James thereupon read a statement of Mr. Rowell's, which appeared in the Globe, in which Mr. Rowell said that the premier was taking him (Rowell) too seriously. "Well, why not?" asked the premier. "Why in the name of all that is good and in the name of all that is imaginable should I take him seriously? But if he resents me taking him seriously, then I will have to take him as a joke."

Mr. Rowell was not a stranger, for they had met him many times going up and down the country defending the mal-administration of the two Liberal governments. He had issued a most remarkable manifesto, three-fourths of which at least, was a repetition of matters that the government had dealt with, done and finished. "I am bound to say that I do not understand my honorable friend's attitude." Mr. Rowell's platform, said Sir James, was a remarkable statement, the like of which never had been seen in the heavens above, the earth below, or the waters under the earth.

He was in favor of the maintenance of the colonization character of the T. and N. O. railway. What else would be done with it? He also suggested that our railway should be taken out of the control of the province of Ontario, and given into the control of the Dominion Railway Commission. "Here, for years, a conflict has gone on, and will go on with regard to provincial rights, and this gentleman, the leader of the Opposition, says that he would abandon provincial rights and that their railway should be taken out of our hands and given to the Ottawa government to deal with it." Mr. Rowell said that he would bring about active immigration to the farms and that was what the government had been doing and would continue to do. He would give more to colonization roads and this year the government had given $532,000. He would establish suitable demonstration farms throughout the province and several had already been established by the government. In regard to these measures, Mr. Rowell said "Me too."

TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

In connection with the temperance question, Sir James stated there were two definite stands which might have been taken on the question, and yet Mr. Rowell refused to take either of them. What is he making all this fuss about now? He tells the people that after being known as a temperance man for years, he and his party will consider the temperance question for four years more, and at the end of that time he hopes to have arrived at a conclusion. Mr. Rowell was known as an advanced temperance man until three weeks ago, when he issued a manifesto in which he refused to take a stand on the temperance question. No wonder Mr. Rowell's candidacy is a joke.

Sir James referred at some length to temperance question and the undecided stand that Leader Rowell was taking, despite the fact that he posed as being a great worker in the cause of temperance. The premier also quoted at some length statements made at the gathering of Liberals at Toronto when the platform of the party was being prepared. Leader Bowell had no remedy for the temperance people.

EDUCATIONAL MATTERS.

Mr. Rowell's contention in regard to education were next criticized by Sir James. He advocated that training schools be established so that there should be a sufficient supply of teachers, and that every child should be given a thorough training in English. "I never heard of one who ever dreamed of anything else but that every child should be given a thorough education in English," said Sir James, "but I have heard a great deal about bi-lingual schools. On that question no human being ever picked his way with more care over a hot gridiron than Mr. Rowell does in this case." Mr. Rowell stands before the party the bond slave of the interests and opinions I have just read, and I say here that he dare not formulate a policy on the temperance question, and he dare not form a policy on the bi-lingual school question."

BI-LINGUAL SCHOOLS.

Continuing, the premier said he was sure of his own ground on the issue. After explaining the meaning of bi-lingual schools he said that the alleged trouble was in certain schools where two-thirds of the pupils could only speak French, and the teacher was compelled to teach the public school subjects in French. The idea was that the children should be able to learn these subjects in the French language. A resolution was passed unanimously in the House that the English language should be the language of instruction, and of communication with the pupils of the public and separate schools of the province except where in the opinions of the department of education it was impracticable and it was understood that the child could use the French language till a more thorough knowledge of the English language was gained.

"Mr. Rowell is slow at making statements in regard to this question. Let me tell you that the man who thinks he can hoodwink public questions is a man who should not succeed and a man who will not succeed. The law provides that where pupils cannot speak the English language they can be taught English lessons by means of the French language until they can speak English. We made enquiries about this question and we appointed Dr. Merchant to find out if certain reports were true and bring us in a report, and if we find abuses have crept in we will correct them, but we will not condemn anybody unheard."

HUDSON BAY PORT.

Mr. MacKenzie King, formerly one of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's colleagues, had asked the question why Sir James did not get an ocean port, "but let me ask you," said Sir James, "why Mr. King did not get the port when he was in the Dominion Government?"

Mr. Rowell asks that Ontario be given an ocean port, said Sir James, who went into details, explaining the efforts made by the province to get an ocean port. The former Dominion Government announced some time ago that the district known as Keewatin would be divided between Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, and effort was made at that time to get for Ontario a suitable port on Hudson Bay for ocean-going vessels. Surveyors had visited Hudson Bay, and had reported that Fort Churchill was the only sport on the bay which could be made into an ocean port. A little further down was Port Nelson, but owing to the fact that the land and water were almost level, it was reported that could not be made there.

Sir James himself went to Ottawa in connection with the matter, and the discussion was animated. The Dominion Government refused to give Ontario Fort Churchill, and when Sir James asked to have Port Nelson included in the province that request also was refused, so that we were absolutely shut out from anything like an ocean port on Hudson Bay, and Ontario received the treatment with malice aforthought by the Dominion Government, the friends of this man who wants to lead the people of Ontario. This is another of the things of which he was not aware.

A GOOD RECORD.

In conclusion, Sir James said that he had acquainted the people with the record of achievements of which they were not ashamed. "You are familiar with the results brought about by the several things we have done. For seven years you have had no public scandal. For seven years no member of the government has had a charge made against him. Mr. Rowell in his manifesto has made no charge, and there is no charge anywhere else. We are satisfied that the people will renew their confidence and that they are not anxious to change the government. We did not make the mistake when we came into office of thinking that we were heaven born statesmen, but just ordinary men who would and could do the honest thing and we believe that you want us to continue to do so."

Sir James concluded by stating that the Government considered it an honor to be in charge of the affairs of the province, and expressed confidence that the electors again would support the Government, and that West Victoria would send Dr. Vrooman to Toronto.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

cured Mrs. C. C. Gokey, of a stubborn case of heart disease, such as thousands are now suffering with. Read what she says:

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had grown so weak that it was impossible for me to do thirty minutes work in a whole day. I suffered intense pains in my left side and under the left shoulder blade, I could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath that I thought I should never be able to take a full breath again. The least excitement would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half-bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. I began to sleep well, had a good appetite, and improved so rapidly that when I had taken six bottles I was completely cured.
