HAD RHEUMATIC PAINS FOR 25 YEARS

His Arms Were Becoming Useless

It was about 25 years ago that rheumatism first marked down this sufferer; and finally the day came when he could hardly lift his arms. But he found relief—here in this letter he tells the whole story:—

"About 25 years ago I first experienced slight muscular rheumatism in my arm and shoulder. A few years later lumbago also attacked me. They gradually got worse until the pain got acute in both arms and loins. I could not lift a jugful of water with my arm extended straight out. About 12 months ago I bought a bottle of Kruschen Salts and by the time it was finished I was agreeably surprised at a slight improvement. I bought another one, and when that was finished all the pain had disappeared, and has never appeared since."—T.R.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently caused by deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. The numerous salts in Kruschen assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to eliminate this excess uric acid.

FINANCIAL FLASHES

Underground work to test the vein system located on surface is proceeding at the Red Lake property of Margaret Red Lake Mines. The shaft has been put down to a depth of 226 feet, with a sub-level opened at 75 feet, and a level at 175 ft. depth. The ore body was entered on the sub-level where channel samples returned average values of $45 per ton across a width of 6 feet. On the 175-ft. level work has not advanced far enough to tap the vein. It is planned to commence diamond drilling soon for more thorough test of conditions at depth as well as to check a section of the vein that passes through a corner of the adjoining Richmac property. A recent new find showing widths from 15 to 20 ft. has been proven for 100 ft. to date, while another parallel vein has been located some 30 ft. away showing a width of 9 to 14 ft.

Wendigo Gold Mines has shipped the third August goldbrick to the Mint at Ottawa having a value of $9,552 according to H. D. Tudor, president. The production for the full month had an estimated value of $21,078, and compares with output in July of over $17,000. During August the mill handled a total of 1,489 tons of ore with millhead averaging 0.4184 ozs.

Laguna Gold Mines, in which Mining Corp. holds a large share interest, has poured its initial gold brick having a value of $31,500. J. H. C. Waite, president of the company reports that the first month's operation of the new mill was very gratifying, the mill going into operation without any difficulties whatsoever. In 31 days' operation, the mill handled 1,570 tons of ore taken from the upper levels and also from the surface dump. The mill is capable of handling 60 tons daily and tonnage wil lbe stepped up accordingly. In sinking the No. 2 shaft below the 750 ft. level to open up new levels at 875 and 1,000 ft., the main vein was cut below the 750, showing considerable free gold across 3 ft. widths.

M. Madsen, president of Advance Red Lake Gold Mines, who is now on the property in the Pipestone Bay section, Red Lake area, in a wire to local officials reports that a crew of 10 men are now engaged on the claims. Surface exploration of the ground is already underway and rock work is scheduled to commence in a couple of days.

Financing arrangements have been completed by Shepherd Red Lake Mines which will provide funds for extensive exploration work at the property located immediately south of and adjoining Faulkenham Lake Gold Mines, Red Lake area. Exploration work will be under the direction of E. B. Heisey, M.E., and will be carried out with a view to obtaining geological information preliminary to diamond drilling.

Announcement is made of the formation of Kingkirk Gold Mines, Ltd., to acquire the mining rights of King Kirkland Gold Mines, adjoining Lebel Oro on the south and west, Eastern Kirkland Lake area. King Kirkland will continue in existence as it owns the townsite and has some additional assets. Shareholders of the old company will receive one share of Kingkirk Gold Mines for each 4 old shares held. It is anticipated that an issue of Kingkirk shares will be announced at an early date.

Diamond drill operations are continuing on the Mayrand property of the Dunlop Consolidated Mines in the Cadillac section of Quebec. According to word received at the head office of the company. No. 3 drill hole has intersected the vein disclosed in the previous two holes. At a depth of 182 feet the drill passed through 9 feet of highly mineralized blue quartz. This is the best hole so far encountered in the present drilling operations. No. 4 hole is to be started immediately.

O'Leary Malartic Mines, Limited, are pleased to announce that arrangements are being proceeded with, whereby a company will be incorporated on the eastern half of their 16 claim group in Bousquet Township. Eight claims are being incorporated into this new Company, which is to have a capitalization of 3,500,000 shares, O'Leary Malartic retaining approximately 1,000,000 shares for their interest and for the work performed to date. The treasury of this proposed new Company, will have $25,000.00 firmly underwritten by a strong group, with options on the remaining shares to net the treasury slightly over a half million dollars, such options, if exercised providing sufficient funds to bring the property into production should results warrant. An energetic program of surface development is planned for this group, under the supervision of a well known consulting engineer, who has already made an examination of the group and largely on whose recommendations, the above incorporation was proceeded with.

O'Leary Malartic will retain and continue exploration on the western section of this bloc, comprising eight claims, and on which, an interesting picture is gradually taking shape. Development of the eastern half of this group under experienced and aggressive management will add considerably to the information already possessed and O'Leary Malartic will benefit to a large extent from the knowledge gained under the development program of their new neighbour.

Give It A Name

The farm with a name ceases to be a farm and becomes a home with a reputation to live up to. One takes pride in the farm with a name on the barn or on a neat sign over the gate, because no one with a bad-appearing farm wants to advertise who the owner is. This advertising value of the farm is evidently appreciated by some wide-awake firms that will pay real money in order to be allowed to advertise their wares in ugly signs painted all over a good-looking barn. If it is worth real money to business firms to decorate the barn or fence, it is worth more to a farmer to advertise himself and his business in that space. If you have a farm you are proud of, give it a name and put the name up where everyone can see it.

Most Novel Excuse Fails In Its Purpose

MILWAUKEE, — Taken to court n a speeding charge, Sam Strawitz offered this explanation:

"I have hay fever, judge, and every time I sneezed my foot would go down on the accelerator. I could not help myself."

"The most novel excuse I have ver heard," applauded Judge A. J. Hedding. "The fine," he added, "is $10.

Two Thousand Die In Highway Crash

BATTLEFORD, Sask. — Two thousand lives were lost when a transportation truck collided with a passenger car near here. The victims were minnows, destined for a livebait dealer.

HAVE YOU HEARD

The turn in the long lane that seemingly has none usually comes when least expected.

Sue — "Mary's train gets in at four thirty."

Joe — "Well, I'll be at the station at five-thirty."

Sue — "Five-thirty?"

Joe — "Yes, Helen is always an hour late, whatever she does."

"These companionate marriages are apt to prove vexing," said the man who lost his bride's phone number and forgot her address.

Howard — "Remember, young lady, your beauty is only skin deep."

Clarice — "You're crazy. It's a layer of face powder, two layers of rouge, a layer of vanishing cream and skin deep.

A man's character is known by what he laughs at.

Census Taker — "And are there any other children?"

Woman — 'S'all."

Census Taker — "And how old is Saul?"

When you make your job important it will almost invariably return the favour.

An old Negro preacher in Virginia was noted for his use of six-cylinder words, many of which he did not always understand himself. He startled his congregation one morning with this announcement.

"Brethren an' sistern, pay me strict mind oh I'm erbout to 'nounce that next Sunday — dat is one week from this day — dar will be a mos' importunate celebration in dis congregation. An' I wants all of you to be on hand to witness de Hold doin's, foh I's gwine ter baptize nine adults and sixteen adultresses."

Propped against a tree on the bank of an Alabama stream were two of the laziest colored boys in the world. They were fishing. They dozed there for hours, and nothing happened.

Finally one of the lads nudged his slumbering pal.

A young fellow who aspired to emulate Clyde Beatty the wild animal trainer, was excited by the news that lion taming was now taught by mail. He asked a circus acquaintance about it."

"Well, if you ever graduate from that course," advised the friend, "just be sure the lions recognize the diploma before you enter the cage."

Elsie — "Percy is such a prevaricating flatterer."

Cora — "Has he been telling you that you were pretty?"

Elsie — "No, he said you were."

A wealthy man engaged an English tutor for his son.

Wealthy Man (to cultured Englishman) — "Did you have a successful trip?"

Tutor — "You're dern tootin' we did."

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble are backache, moist palms, leg cramps, and puffy eyes. If you want real results, be sure to get GOLD MEDAL—the original and genuine—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic—right from Haarlem in Holland. Give your kidneys a good cleaning once in a while.

PROBLEMS OF EVERY DAY LIFE

By Dr. M. M. Lappin

The Wish To Escape

I am very humble today. I have just had a good "calling down." On my desk before me I have a letter in which I am taken severely to task on my recent article written under the caption "Seeking Escape." In that article, I dealt with the problem of a girl aged twelve who consistently developed pains of all sorts on certain days. The doctor has said there was nothing wrong with her. The pains disappeared after a certain hour and came back again on exactly the same days each week and, if she were kept from school, these pains disappeared about the same time each day. I gave it as my opinion that the pains were the outcome of fear and the wish to escape, and advised the mother accordingly.

Now for the letter calling me down. "I read your article "Seeking Escape" and it is all nonsense. — I have a boy who behaved in just the same way although he has not grown out of it and is working. — I do not believe that any child will complain unless there is a real pain. — If I were the girl's mother I would see another doctor or take her to the hospital."

Well, a re-reading of the article referred to will show that I wrote — 'It is not quite true to say that these pains are imaginary. They are very real, but they are produced by fear." I suppose it is that last clause to which my critic takes exception, but every doctor, every psychologist, and every observing parent, and every individual who really knows himself, knows how apt and true it is.

Aches and pains which appear when we want to gain our own ends, or when we do not want to do something, are common, not only in children, but in adults, and they are not the outcome of a conscious desire to deceive. Who has not known the individual who develops a headache when he, or she, has to go somewhere he does not want to go, or to do something that is distasteful to him? Or, who has not met the individual who can exaggerate his ailments so that he might become the centre of interest and win sympathy?

If only we knew ourselves and were honest with ourselves, we would know how real the wis hto escape is, and how possible it is for us to set up a "mental defence mechanisms." isn't it wonderful how that SEVERE headache is only slight, or is not there at all, when the task is to our liking, or when we are really interested? "Know thyself" is a wise dictum and a command to which we would all do well to give heed.

NOTE: The writer of this column is a trained psychologist and an author of several works. He is willing to deal with your problem and give you the benefit of his wide experienc Questions regarding PROBLEMS OF EVERY DAY LIFE should be addressed to: Dr. M.M. British Agriculture Is In Prosperous Position

Wheat Subsidy Will be $15,000,000 Less Owing to Better Prices—Food Production Up 20 Per Cent.—Purchasing Power of Workers Increases.

LONDON — Activity in workshop and factory is reflected on the farm.

As a result of better prices for home-grown wheat $15,000,000 less subsidy will be needed to meet the guaranteed prices than was the case two years ago.

Home production of food has increased 20 per cent. in the last five years. Bankruptcies on the land have fallen 60 per cent. in four years.

"In every minute of the last 12 months," calculates Walter Elliott, Minister of Agriculture, "one person got a job and went off to earn wages. Every minute of the year, day and night, that happened—and every one of those jobs still is in existence, still keeping the man.

"This, of course, led to an increase in the nation's purchasing power. It is shown in shop sales. Total sales during the last trade year increased 6 1-2 per cent. over the previous year. Sales of food for the year were eight per cent. greater. Taking month against month, July this year turnover in sales of food was nearly 10 per cent. more than in July, 1935."

And Great Britain faces the possibility of a shortage in home-grown bacon by Christmas. The number of young pigs which will be suitable for bacon in December has fallen by 105,900 compared with last year's supply.

The National Federation of Grocers and Provision Dealers' Associations sent a resolution to the Board of Trade and the Ministry of Agriculture expressing dissatisfaction with the operation of pig and bacon marketing schemes.

They repeated the opinion that the supplies of bacon were inadequate to meet the consumers' demand. Also they urged the government to bring a levy-subsidy plan into operation at the earliest possible moment.

Safe Speeds

Those motorists who 'crawl" along at twenty to twenty-five miles an hour hould come in for more attention from the law, in the opinion of the Hamilton Spectator. The crawler, it thinks, is more culpable than the speeder.

Twenty-five miles an hour is "crawling" in a relative sense only, and is unsafe only because the general habit is to travel faster. The man who drives carefully along the highway at this rate is not the menace that the man tearing along at fifty or sixty is. He has full control of his car. He has time to see any danger that may be approaching and avoid it. He can stop within a short distance if anything unexpected occurs. He is not following the car ahead so closely that there is no room for someone else to pass and turn back into the traffic lane.

Sees Better Fishing Days So Builds $25,000 Craft

Veteran Captain of Nova Scotia Port to Construct 85-ton Vessel Powered by Diesel Engine to Supplement Sails; Recalls Record Catch of Halibut

HALIFAX—Captain Dave Bachman doesn't care for the life a retired master mariner—so he is going back to the sea with his own spike-sparred auxiliary vessel to be built at a cost of $25,000.

"Brighter days are in store for Nova Scotia fresh fishermen," says the veteran of 44 years sailing who as a gangling boy of nine hoisted himself over by rail of a Lunenburg banker for the first time.

He is now 60 with the reputation of having been one of the biggest fish killers ever to sail from a Nova Scotia port.

"Prospects right now are better than for 10 years," he maintains and to back up his assertion by action he has given orders for the construction of an 85-ton vessel on which he will take the helm.

The weather-beaten fisherman recalled the highlights of his adventurous days aboard the Lunenburg schooners. His big record, however, was not chalked up when he was master of a sailing craft during those 35 years but when he skippered the Halifax beam trawler Loubourne.

One trip he brought the big trawler to port weighed down with 117,000 pounds of halibut and in two months he had stocked 265,000 pounds of halibut.

His new craft will be up-to-date in every detail. A 200 horsepower diesel engine will do away with dependency on the wind on her scheduled trips to the off-shore fisheries.

Slums To Vanish In Great Britain

Halifax.—Great Britain would be rid of slum districts within five years declared Sir Raymond Unwin, a member of the British Government's advisory committee on housing and planning, who with Lady Unwin arrived here on the steamship Newfoundland from Liverpool.

A program was at present being executed that would provide an additional 3,000,000 homes, said Sir Raymond, who will make a tour of the continent, lecturing at Massachussets Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Columbia University and Toronto.

Man With Scales

Recognizing that some foods tend to create energy and store up fat when fed heavily enough, and others furnish nutrients for milk making, the man with scales can, by varying the amount of feed day by day, adding to or taking from the ration at certain times, food of one kind or another, secure excellent results. No feeder can get the best out of a cow unless by the use of scales he knows every day how much grain has gone into the factory and how much milk has come out of it, so that the experience gained may be a useful guide for the future.
