Hiking Found Slow

stitution, serving a privileged class, namely those who could afford to attend college.

The beginning came in a village on the Atlantic Coast. The people who fished for a living, lobster chiefly, became deeply indebted to the local lobster factory, their boats, fishing tackle, homes, even their clothes were mortgaged at 12% interest. As a result they simply fished for the factory without wages, year in and year out. The fishermen began to study co-operatives and finally organized a co-operative lobster plant. In the first year they paid for the plant and distributed $10,000.00 to themselves.

But the main object, the vital aspect, is not in adding to one's income. It is the spiritual life that is released to a people who have caught a vision of a new freedom, a freedom primarily intellectual and spiritual, secondarily economic. I have witnessed here in Nova Scotia the beginning of a movement that will sweep Canada as it is sweeping the United States. It is the departure from relief and pauperism, a poison to this generation, to an order of self-help and intellectual growth, of spiritual integrity. The key to the movement is study, organization, and as one leader has put it, "on finding your lobster." It is spreading like wild-fire; it is spreading among the people that matter, the common people they are called; the workers, the farmers, the fishermen.

Odds and Ends

To-day I leave for the south of Nova Scotia. This part of the trip will include Halifax, the Annapolis Valley, and an Acadian community.

Northern Nova Scotia is characterized by its suitability for tourist trade. Much of the land is unsuited to industry or agriculture. This is the area of the greatest rural depopulation in Canada; about 60% in 50 years, although my own county of Grey is not far behind with 46% in the same period. Most of the families are dependent on more than one means of livelihood. They may have a farm, do some fishing, cut pulpwood in winter, while some of the boys may be in the mines.

There are better places to hitchhike than Cape Breton! The traffic is light at this time. In a month there will be more American cars on the road than Canadian.

Mrs. S. Turner Died At Advanced Age

(By our Eugenia Correspondent)

The death occurred very suddenly on Thursday evening, June 17, of Mrs. Solomon Turner, a well-konwn, highly esteemed, as well as one of the oldest residents of the village. She was seized by an attack of pneumonia on Wednesday evening and although doctor, nurse and loved ones had done all they could to restore her to health again, she peacefully passed away to the "Beautiful Land Beyond," the following evening. The deceased, who was in her 88th year was able as usual to do her daily routine of household work until taken ill. She was a woman of fine Christian character, a fond and unselfish mother, a kind neighbor and beloved by those who knew her. She was a member of the former Methodist church and of late years the United Church. She attended the services regularly until the past few months.

The late Mrs. Turner, whose maiden name was Miss Martha Jane Crew, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Crew. She was born in Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island and was the last survivor of a family of eight. While quite a small child, she moved with her parents to Scarboro where she spent her girlhood days. While there, she married Mr. Solomon Turner and two years later, the happy couple came to Artemesia township and resided on the 10th line, where they as pioneers made a home for themselves, and reared a family of three sons and five daughters. Eighteen years ago last fall they retired from the farm to the village here, and the following spring, Mr. Turner passed away.

Those left to mourn the death of a loving mother are: Mary, (Mrs. Beecroft), 11th Line, Artemesia; Isaac of Winnipeg; Oliver on the old home stead, 10th line; Rebecca (Mrs. W. Carruthers), Toronto; Isabel (Mrs. McGruther), Mont Clair, New Jersey; Eva (Mrs. McKenzie), Richmond Hill and Ada (Mrs. Thos. Genoe) of Ceylon. One son, Ed. passed away thirty-two years ago this June 17, (the day of his mother's death). All were present at the funeral but one son, Isaac.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, being conducted by Bennett & Richards of Flesherton. Rev. Mr. Bushell, pastor, officiated at the house, church and grave, after a short service at the house, the remains were taken to the church, where a large assemblage of friends and neighbors had gathered together to pay their last respects to the deceased. Two scripture passages, psalm 96 and that beautiful extract from the book of John, "In my Father's house are many Mansions," etc., were read by the minister. Two hymns, "Lead, kindly Light," and "Abide with me," were sung. The choir rendered a beautiful selection, "Face to Face." Rev. Mr. Bushell chose as his text, "Going unto the Father," from which he delivered a very comforting message assuring all that the soul of the deceased had passed from a land of turmoil into one of peace and glory and those who knew her best could feel assured that she is "Forever with the Lord." At the close of the service, all present fyled by the lovely oaken casket to view the remains, while th organ played a funeral dirge.

The floral tokens, silent messages of love for deceased and sympathy for the bereaved were as follows: a pillow from the family; a wreath from the grandchildren; a sheaf from Isaac and family; a spray from granddaughter, Hilda and husband and a spray from the Eugenia friends.

Interment was made in the family plot at Salem Cemetery.

Friends from a distance who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Job Turner of Paisley; Mrs. Crew of Toronto; Mrs. McCance and daughter, Marjory, of West Toronto. Several other relatives were present from Heathcote, Clarksburg, Markdale, Flesherton, Ceylon and Owen Sound.

The pallbearers were Eddie and Laurie Genoe, Joshua Dobson, Charlie Goddard, Harold Turner and Earl Fenwick.

We extend our profound sympathy to the family and relatives in their hours of sorrow.

How slender is life's silken cord,
How soon 'tis broken here.
Each moment brings a parting word
And many a fallen tear.
Her voice on earth is no more heard,
Her battles forgot, her race she's run
With just enough clouds o'er her head
To cause a glorious setting sun.

PROTON STATION

Just fancy how quietly the merry month of June is slipping by. Examination time, people planning for holidays, except perhaps the farmers, they are too busy, crops and all other vegetation looks just fine, though we trust there will be no very heavy June frosts, for the growth is remarkable. Believe it or not, barley seed sown a week ago Saturday had produced a blade five inches high by the following Saturday.

Mrs. McKaye and children are visiting in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Kirkwood and babe spent the week end at Mr. Charles Lyons'. Miss Gertrude Lyons and Miss Helen McNicol who had been there for a week returned to the city with them.

Rev. W. G. Prosser and Mrs. Prosser have returned to Proton Station for a while before taking up residence in the Corbetton manse where they are to be stationed next year.
