Same Couple Thrice Married and Divorced

WORCESTER, Mass.—There was quite a bit of "maybe" about Mrs. Mae M. Hall. She divorced and married the same man three times within 10 years.

Her first divorce was granted eight years ago. She remarried her former husband.

In 1931 she was divorced, and two years later Hall again "popped" the question.

Mrs. Hall says that the last time he married her for "spite" and she divorced him again.

HAVE YOU HEARD

No man is so ignorant that he doesn't know what he would do if he were in your place.

Friend—"See that fellow giving imitations over there? What does he always remind you of?"

Man—"The $10 I owe him."

A free country is one that doesn't let any political or social group have things entirely its own way.

Harris—"When the house-wreckers tore down Brown's house they found a collar button he had lost twelve years ago."

Kramer—"I'd think it would have been cheaper for him to have bought another collar button.

If you would know the value of health go try to buy yourself some.

A visitor at the insane asylum was watching one of the inmates pushing a wheelbarrow upside down.

Visitor—"That's not the way to push that thing. You've got it upside down."

Lunatic—"Oh, have I? I used to push it the other way, and they put bricks in it."

There are people in every community that would get a monopoly on air if they could.

Mrs. A.—"Jimmie has been in the third grade for two years. I wonder how he will ever get ahead?"

Mr. A.—"Don't know. If he wasn't born with one, he never will."

We'd rather listen to the story of a public hanging than hear the details of an unsuccessful speculation in real estate.

A Prayer!

"May every soul that touches mine,
Be it the slightest contact,
Get therefrom some good,
Some little grace, one kindly thought,
One aspiration yet unfelt, one bit of courage
For the darkening sky, one gleam of faith
To brace the thickening ills of life,
One glimpse of brighter sky beyond the gathering mist,
To make this life worth while,
And heaven a heritage."

Mrs. Robert Katz telephoned her husband that she would call for him at the office. Not finding him there, she looked in at the barber's shop on the floor beneath.

"Bob Katz here?" she asked.

"No, madam," replied the indignant barber. "We certainly do not bob cats here."

Read It Or Not—Absolutely pure gold is 24 carats fine.

It is because there are so many fools in the world that the wise man gets an occasional break.

Mr. Wise was evidently not feeling in the jolliest of moods. "Just look at that notice," he said, indicating the words "Post No Bills" on a blank wall, near the business section of his good city. "What is the use of sticking that up there?" he continued. "Why don't they put these things in the right place?"

"Where would you put it?" asked his friend.

"Over every letter box in the country," was the candid reply.

New Rail Route In Selkirk Range

Shortly to be Opened—Will Put An End to Loss of Lives on Dangerous Stretch of Track.

DOWNIE, B.C.—As an aim to greater safety two and a half miles of railway line near this station high in the Selkirk Range of the Rocky Mountains is going to be abandoned this fall.

Before the snow begins to fly trains will be travelling over a new route which is now nearing completion. This new route is expected to cost the Canadian Pacific Railway more than $250,000—but they think it will be well worth it.

For over that 2½ mile stretch at least 22 lives have been lost in recent years and thousands of dollars have been spent in clearing away rock and snow slides and in repairing trackage damaged by them.

The new track commences half a mile from Alberta Canyon Gorge, about 25 miles east of Revelstoke. At the gorge trains regularly stop to give passengers a chance to view the magnificent scenery and the 200-foot decline to the course of the small mountail stream.

Where 17 Were Killed

It was on the doomed stretch that 17 men were killed a year and a half ago while they were clearing a snow cut. The tender of a railway engine broke away, hurtled into the cut, and smashed them like flies against the towering banks of snow. Single and double accidents have added the others to the toll.

But now, the rumble of trucks — the first heard in these mountain fastnesses—is paving the way for the new route, moving material for a huge "fill" at the west end. It is a far cry from the equipment used when the original route was built.

Spurring the workmen to their tasks is Mervin "Red" Dutton, the famous hockey player who now manages New York Americans of the National League. Dutton is one of the partners in the Winnipeg contracting firm (Dutton and Company) which has charge of the work.

Problem Child

"Red," whose hockey club last year became the N.H.L.'s "problem child," has found plenty of difficulties to overcome—but he has proved a match for them. He has had to pitch his tenacity against the determination of the roaring Illecillewaet river, battle with the crumbling shale and tussle with the smaller mountain freshets that nibbled at his big fill.

The huge expenditure is the second taken by the railway in a diversion to eliminate slide conditions. The first was the construction of the lengthy Connaught tunnel, a step that allowed the railway to skip the hazardous Rogers Pass route. On that stretch 67 men lost their lives on March 4, 1910.

Primitive Diet Urged For Moderns

NEW YORK— Dr. Weston E. Price, Cleveland diet specialist, returning this week from two months' studying of Indians in Peru said modern civilization is slipping largely because people don't eat the right foods.

The specialist analyzed foods eaten by pure-blooded and half-breed Indians and said those who have retained their primitive manners of diet are splendid physical specimens while those who have gained the habits of Europeans have deteriorated physically and mentally.

Poem Warns Long Speakers

Used as Prank on Mayor of Wallaceburg Who Takes Hint

Maybe the following little four-line song, introduced last evening at Wallaceburg at the testimonial banquet tendered to Donald Lamont, Canada's oldest active employee of the glass industry, is appropriate at election time:

"Give us a speech, make it peach;
Let it be brief brother, let it be bright.
But be a sport, and cut it short;
Tomorrow we work, we must sleep tonight."

Set to the tune of "Here Comes the Bride," this little songlet was first used just prior to calling on Mayor E. U. Dickerson, who appreciated the joke on himself. The song is a composition of Song-Leader Harold Frost, and so well was it received that subsequent speakers of the evening will be greeted by it, and guided by it.—Windsor Daily Star.

Modern Bagpipe Music

The initiative is being taken by a well-known London Highlander and exponent of the bagpipes to interest enthusiasts for the pipes in the publication of modern bagpipe compositions. Many new piping tunes are composed by pipers in all parts of England as well as Scotland, but they are not published or collected and made available to exponents of the pipes generally. The Scottish Piping Society of London has many members who compose original tunes, and they exchange them among members of their own society. It has not yet reached the stage when it can afford the funds to print new pipe music, a list of the compositions set in the last few years in this country would make up many volumes. Many of the marches and other tunes are dedicated to individuals, and are only heard at the Scottish Society gatherings from the composer himself. It is felt that modern music ought to be given in competitions at Highland gatherings in preference to the older tunes. — Edinburgh Scotsman.

"No Matter How Thin You Slice It — It's Still Boloney"

What seems to be the crying need in sports circles at the moment would seem to be some sort of a school or educational course for boxfight judges and referees so that there could be a little more close harmony in their decisions.

* * *

When, in an important tangle like the Farr-Louis affair you find the referee scoring only two rounds for the Welshman, while other alleged experts gave him as many as six or seven, it would certainly seem as if they hadn't all learned out of the same book.

* * *

We don't think that Farr won the fight—his own manager's admission that Louis had been the better being pretty conclusive; but if Clem McCarthy's vision doesn't need plenty of sharpening, it certainly was a whole lot closer than any thirteen to two.

* * *

However, Mr. Farr did real well for himself—much better than was expected by anybody excepting, possibly, himself. He is in a similar position to the lucky gent who fell down the sewer and came up with a gold watch and chain; and if he only watches his step does not need to worry about ever having to go back to the mines or the tent shows either.

* * *

If Tommy only packed a wallop in keeping with his moxie and fighting spirit he would be champion of the world right now and they would probably be trying to prove that he was really an Irisher, as seems to be the custom when a new champion is crowned; although, as far as we know, nobody has yet tried to claim that Joe Louis has any Harp blood for some reason or other.

* * *

But Farr seems to lack that old lethal larrup wth either fist, which seems a pity, although it is perhaps too much to expect real perfection from any mortal.

* * *

Like the ancient one about the two street sweepers who were standing talking about one of their former confreres who had recently passed on to his reward.

* * *

"Poor Mike," sighed one. " 'Tis certainly a pity. He sure used to swing a mean broom."

* * *

"He did that," replied the other. "And yet, do you know, I sometimes thought that Mike's technique was just a bit faulty around he lamp-posts."

* * *

As far as the great election brawl is concerned—well, the general feeling seems to be to echo the one President Roosevelt borrowed from the Immortal William—"a plague on both your houses."

* * *

It's too hot and there are too many other things to worry about for most people to bother their heads over an election which nobody can see any real reason for holding; and the electors appear to be taking the atttude of strict impartiality shown by the dame who was watching her husband fighting a bead. "Go it husband—go it b'ar."

* * *

But from the financial statistics being published and broadcast by both sides it would seem as if there was still a lot of truth in the old saying, "Figures don't lie—but some liars certainly do figure."

Postcard Delivery Took 26 Years

BRANTFORD, Ont.— A postcard mailed here 26 years ago was delivered in Cleveland two weeks ago, according to Mrs. Charles Norris, of Brantford. There was no indication on the card why it was delayed so long.

The card was addressed to Mrs. W. C. Penfold, Cleveland, who died four years ago. An alert postman recalled the dead woman had a daughter residing in the city. The card finally was delivered to Mrs. Julius Eastman.

GANANOQUE, Ont.—The 55-year-old locomotive of the Thousand Islands Railway Company has been sold to a Kingston firm for scrap. Number 44—out of commission for several years—will be dismantled where she stands and carried ignominously to Kingston by truck.
