Saw Mill & Timber Land For Sale or To Let.

In the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, 4 miles from Flesherton Station, the Canadian Pacific Railway. The Mill is situated at Little Falls, in a block of about 400 acres Timber Land, with other timber land surrounding. The building is substantiolly built on stone foundation. The machinery is all good and driven with great power by a 23 inch Leffel wheel, under 36 feet head of water. There are 1 Large Circular Saw for cutting logs; 2 Small Circulars for sawing Laths and Broom Handles; 1 Guage Lathe for turning Broom Handles, &c.; 1 Shingle Machine with Jointer and Packer complete. The Water-Power is excellent, the stream being very regular. There are several other good Mill Sites on the property. The land in this valley is considered the best in the country. The place would make an excellent Stock Farm when the timber is taken off

This offers a good opportunity for a practical, energetic man to go into this kind of business, as the place will be sold or let on FAVORABLE TERMS. The bush is so convenient to the Mill, logs can be trucked in summer time. Immediate possession given.

U. E. Loyalists.

From the Tara Leader.

The Semi-centennial celebration which is to be held in Toronto next week, calls many incidents connected with the early settlement of Ontario to mind. Mr. J. R. Vandusen, of this village, whose father was a Loyalist, and who was among the first settlers on the Bay of Quinte, has handed us the following sketch of his career, which the celebration renders very appropriate:

DEAR Leader,—Will you please give me a little space in your valuable paper for a brief sketch of the life of my father, Conrad Vandusen, sr., who was a U. E. Loyalist. I am not ashamed to own him as my progenitor. He was born in the town of Dover, Duchess county, State of New York. I am the youngest of seven sons in succession, and am now in my seventy-second year of my age. My father was about 30 years old, 6 ft. in height, well proportioned, and very active at the commencement of the Revolutionary War, and showed his attachment and loyality to the British Crown by joining the British army, leaving his comfortable home and his family, and having his property confiscated. A few months after he had joined the army, he ventured to return for his family, and in his journey he attempted to pass through the American lines in disguise, but was detected, and apprehended as a spy. He was tied and conveyed to a private house and there by a court matrial, received the sentence of death. Before he parted with his wife, not knowing whether they would ever meet again, they exchanged their wedding rings, on which her name was engraved and which he wore on his little finger. At the time of his trial he had a rag tied round it on his finger as if it was sore. Casting his eyes around the room, he saw he had the sympathy of the lady of the house, and as he was led out he managed to slip the ring from his finger and convey it to her without a word. Strange to say some years after the war he received a letter, containing the identical ring from the woman to whom he had gave it, after his trial, and as he passed out under guard. However, by some means he succeeded in making his escape; he concealed himself in a swamp by lying on his back under the water with his face out, so as to breathe, till the darkness gave him a chance to leave his uncomfortable position. He finally succeeded in getting his family and in returning to the British camp, and remained with them for seven years, till the close of the War. Sometimes he was employed on secret service, but was never captured. At the close of the war he was in New York, and joined Vanalstine's band and refugees for Canada, and settled on the shore of the beautiful Bay of Quinte, in the Township of Adolphstown, with many others who had been mercifully preserved by a kind providence in the midst of the roar of cannon and the clash of arms, during the ravages of the war. Having settled down, the next thing was to clear up his farm. He soon opened a store and a tavern. His place was a resort for all his old comrades who were settled around him, where they met to talk over the scenes of the war through which they had passed. During the lapse of 13 and 14 years, he with the rest of the U. E. L. remained without the means of grace, till in the Providence of God, in 1790, they were visited by the Rev. W. Losie, who was the first to preach to them in their new homes the thrilling story of the cross. One days journey brought Mr. Losie from Kingston to Vandusen's tavern, where he was kindly received and hospitably entertained. Notice was immediately circulated throughout the neighborhood, and many found their way through the bush to the tavern, where they had been in the habit of meeting for general amusement, but now to hear the gospel preached. A general revival ensued, the tavern keeper got converted and became a man of prayer, and with his axe in his hands deliberately cut down his sign post, closing his bar, and ever after his house was a house of prayer. He was a member of the first class formed by Mr. Losie in that vicinity, and long filled the office of class leader and circuit steward. He was the largest subscriber to the first church built in Adolphstown. He died in the faith in his 77th year, and lies buried in the U. E. L. old burying ground, near to the place where he first settled in Adolphstown.

HALL'S

was the first preparation perfectly adapted to cure diseases of the scalp, and the first successful restorer of faded or gray hair to its natural color, growth, and youthful beauty. It has had many imitators, but none have so fully met all the requirements needful for the proper treatment of the hair and scalp. HALL'S HAIR RENEWER has steadily grown in favor, and spread its fame and usefulness to every quarter of the globe. Its unparalleled success can be attributed to but one cause: the entire fulfilment of its promises.

The proprietors have often been surprised at the receipt of orders from remote countries, where they had never made an effort for its introduction.

The use for a short time of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER wonderfully improves the personal appearance. It cleanses the scalp from all impurities, cures all humors, fever, and dryness, and thus prevents baldness. It stimulates the weakened glands, and enables them to push forward a new and vigorous growth. The effects of this article are not transient, like those of alcoholic preparations, but remain a long time, which makes its use a matter of economy.
