ONE LORD.

O Lord and Master of us all,
What 'er our name or sign,
We own thy sway, we hear thy call,
We test our lives by thine.

Apart from Thee all gain is loss,
And labour vainly done;
The solemn shadow of Thy cross,
Is better than the sun.

Alone, O Love ineffable!

To turn aside from Thee is hell
To walk with Thee is heaven.

A Chicago Drummer And How He "Swore Off."

"No I won't drink with you to-day boys," said a drummer to several companions, as they settled down in a smoking car and passed the bottle. "The fact is, boys, I have quit drinking—I've sworn off." He was greeted with shouts and laughter by the jolly croud arownd him; they put the bottle under his nose and indulged in many jokes at his expense, but he refused to drink and was rather serious about it. "Whats the matter with you, old boy?" sang out one. If you've quit drinking, something's up; tell us what it is." "Well boys, I will, though I know you'll laugh at me. But I'll tell you all the same. I have been a drinking man all my life, ever since I was married, as you all know I love whiskey—it's as sweet in my mouth as sugar—and God only knows how I'll quit it. For seven years not a day has passed over my head that didn't have at least one drink. But I am done. Yesterday I was in Chicago. Down on South Clark street a customer of mine keeps a pawn-shop in connection with his other business. I called on him, and while I was there a young man of not more than twenty-five, wearing threadbare clothes, and looking as hard as if he hadn't seen a sober day for a month, came in with a little package in his hand. Trembling he unwrapped it, and handed the article, to the pawnbroker, saying, 'Give me ten cents.' And, boys, what do you suppose it was? A pair of baby shoes, little things with buttons only a trifle soiled, as if they had been worn only once or twice. 'Where did you get these?' asked the pawnbroker. 'Got 'em at home,' replied the man, who had an intelligent face and the manner of a gentleman despite his sad condition. 'M—my wife bought them for our baby. Give me ten cents for 'em—I want a drink. 'You had better take the shoes back to your wife; the baby will need them," said the pawnbroker. 'No, s—she won't, because—because she's dead. She's lying at home now—died last night.' As he said this the poor fellow broke down, bowed his head on the show-case and cried like a child. Boys," said the drummer, "you can laugh if you please, but I—I have a baby at home, and I swear I'll never drink another drop." Then he got up and went into another car. His companions glanced at each other in silence; no one laughed; the bottle disappeared and soon each was sitting by himself read a newspaper.—Chicago Herald.

THE Montreal Herald on Saturday last administers a well deserved rebuke to the Grit journals and politicians who in the desperate attempt to make a little political capital are continually making attacks on the credit and standing of our great Canadian railway. It has taken the matter up on receiving English papers containing telegrams from Ottawa and extracts from the Globe and other Grit papers circulated to damage the Company, and published in England evidently for that purpose. This would be bad enough, even were the statements made trustworthy but as the Herald points out, they are very wide of the truth. After pointing out the practical way in which these statements have been shown to be false, the Herald goes on to say:—

"It is, we think, about time that the public and the press demanded fair play for this great enterprise and its managers, at the hands of professional politicians. The work is bound up with the future of the country. Its success means the success of the Dominion. Its failure will mean the collapse of the credit of the Dominion. Every Dominion and commercial interest calls for a halt in the policy of detraction which has been so persistently followed in connection with the Company charged to execute this great national undertaking. Even Mr. Blake must see that however necessary, just or reasonable his assault on the Government because of their relations with the Company may be, the time has come when only injury will result to the liberal party in Canada through being identified with attacks calculated to destroy the credit of the Company and the value of the property of thousands of innocent shareholders whose only crime is that they have expended their money in a purely Canadian enterprise. The Herald, as a journal that has rendered some service to the liberal party in its past and has the power and the desire to render possibly greater services in the future, would strongly urge upon all concerned the unwisdom of a course which, by injuring both public and private interests, is calculated to with draw from the party an amount of public sympathy which it should be careful not to lose."

Such a rebuke, coming from such a source, ought to carry weight with it but we doubt whether it will have much effect on the Globe, and some other Grit organs. This running down one's own country and detraction of its great public undertaking is a miserable business, but it appears we have those amongst us who will not scruple to indulge in it if they think it will make a point against the Government of Sir John Macdonald; and it is useless appealing to them on the ground that the failure of the railway would mean the collapse of the credit of the Dominion, for they would willingly see the whole country collapse if the government could only be buried in the ruins. However, the great mass of the people repudiate such unpatriotic journals and leaders, and are pleased to know that our great railway is rapidly being pushed to completion despite their efforts to bring about failure.

It is satisfactory to know, on the authority of Mr. Vanhorne, who has just returned from a tour of inspection with Mr. Schrieber, Chief Engineer of Government Railways, that work on the line north of Lake Superior is progressing satisfactorily. There are thirteen thousand men at work between Calendar and Port Arthur, and the line is expected to be completed between those points by 1st of May next, and opened for traffic from Montreal to the Rocky Mountains by 1st of July. The work through the Rockies is also being vigorously pushed, and it is expected this line will be opened from ocean to ocean in October, 1885. Mr. Vanhorne estimates that there will be a surplus of six and a half million bushels of grain in the Northwest this year, most of which will come out by the C. P. R., and probably from one to two million bushels of it this fall, so that our new elevator will be kept busy.
