—We take pleasure in recommending Hall's Hair Renewer to our readers. It restores gray hair to its youthful color, prevents baldness, makes the hair soft and glossy, does not stain the skin, and is altogether the best known remedy for all hair and scalp diseases.

—Money is very scarce but not hard to get at a reasonable rate of interest. If you can give good security, you can get all the money you want from S. Damude at 7 per cent. interest payable yearly. He is loaning for "Bristol and West of England Co." The people are borrowing from him at present as they know business is strictly confidential with him and the Company obliging.—1w.

—Ayer's Sarsaparilla thor'ughly cleanses the blood, stimulates the functions, and restores the health and strength. No one whose blood is impure can feel well. There is a weary, languid feeling, and often a sense of discouragement and despondency. Persons having this feeling should take Ayer's Sarsaparilla to purify and vitalize the blood.

—Miss Page takes this opportunity of thanking her customers for the hearty patronage they have accorded her in the past, and to assure them that she will spare no pains to retain it in the future Trimming done and Feathers colored in every Fashionable shade. Ladies and gentlemen's Felt Hats made over equal to new, at prices to suit the hard times. Shop in the Flesherton photograph gallery building.

—Our young friend, Mr. D. G. Meldrum—who has been in Flesherton post-office during the past year—goes to Toronto next week to learn the drug business with a well-known Queen City druggist, Mr. Burgess. We wish Master Meldrum all manner of success and do not doubt for one instant but that he will do credit to his employer and himself. He has many warm friends here who, while they regret his removal to another place, hope that he will do well in the Provincial capital.

Fine Penmanship.

We have before us a magnificent engraving of penmanship just received from C. A. Fleming, Principal of the Northern Business College, Owen Sound. Enclosed in a wreath of flowers is a pen sketch of Inglis Falls, one of the pretty pieces of scenery near Owen Sound. The variety of flourished birds and quills, scrolling, lettering, &c. is more than we in our limited space can fully describe. Every one can possess a copy of it themselves by sending 2 three-cent stamps to Mr. Fleming to pay postage, &c. It is 18 x 24 inches and is a handsome picture for framing.

Anniversary Service and Tea-Meeting.

The Anniversary services in the Methodist church, Flesherton, were not conducted by Rev. Dr. Harper of Collingwood as announced by posters and through the columns of THE ADVANCE last week. However the pulpit was ably filled by Rev. Mr. McDowell in the morning and Rev. Mr. Cassin, of Markdale, in the evening. We might suggest that Dr. Harper may find it to his credit as a Christian minister to keep his appointments more faithfully, not to say honestly, in future. We don't think, however, his services are likely to be solicited again by the Methodists in Flesherton for some time to come. Perhaps it's just as well as it is anyway.

The tea-meeting was rather poorly attended on Monday evening, owing to the storm and partly, no doubt, to Dr. Harper's non-appearance at the services. Nevertheless the Pastor, Rev. Mr. McDowell, assisted by Mr. M. Richardson, succeeded in getting up a very fair impromptu programme, which was well carried out. The choir sang "House of Our God" and other anthems in excellent time. The other contributors were Miss Christoe, Messrs. C. Sproule, W. G. Pickell, J. Blackburne, and M. Richardson. A social will will be held in the same place on Friday evening (to-morrow.)

—We have to thank our friend, Mr. Peter Holman for a copy of The Morning News, a daily paper published in Paris, France. It is not as large a sheet as the Toronto World but is somewhat similar in get up to the latter. Condensed telegraphic news, short, racy editorials, and brief local news items, and a limited number of advertisements form the chief features.

Phoebe Boyles.

To the Editor of The Advance.

Falsehoods uttered by three-quarter idiots sometimes need correction. Such is the case with the indigent, Phoebe Boyles.

Some few years ago her father died and made a will, making myself and his son-in-law Trustees for the Estate—directing that all just debts be paid. The property consisted of a village lot and a small house, where she and Norman now reside, with no personal property with which to pay debts. The only debt was to Wm. Wright, amounting to $40 or thereabout, so that the Trustees were about selling the lot, or at least a part of it to pay it. In the meantime, however, a gentleman of the name of Hall, then of Glenelg, called at my office and informed me, that there was a legacy left the Boyles family by their uncle, amounting to $18 each; but Norman being non mentis compos, and Phoebe approximating to that state, the difficulty was to get it out of Chancery, for it was deposited in that Court. However, by Phoebe certifying for the whole, it was got—the Court retaining $2 for each certificate. This reduced the legacy to $16 each. Upon its reception one part was sent by P. O. to their sister Betsy, leaving $32 in my hands. Now this bill of Wright's had to be paid, and, inasmuch as the property aforesaid was, by the will, left to Norman, and then to the person who kept him till death, I felt it a duty to appropriate his portion, or $16, towards the said bill; and by a good deal of coaxing she also, not willing to be disturbed in the possession of all the property, permitted me to pay $8 more, which made the sum which—through the kindness of Wrigh's—liquidated the debt. The balance, or $8 within a fraction, was paid Mr. Large for rough-casting the house that the unfortunates might be kept warmer.

This, then, is the whole statement, as papers will testify. Now, it happens that this pauper has a very bad tongue, and she, being a cripple also, her tale is told that the Wrights are rogues and cheats, but that the Dr. is a great deal worse, having appropriated a fortune of hers with every other imaginable bad thing.

So bold has she got of late by a misplaced sympathy, that I cannot pass the sidewalk without being assailed with dirty vile epithets. Everything done was with the single object to retain the house over their heads and make them as comfortable as the circumstances admitted.

Her regular grant was kept from her for two weeks recently to let her feel, if possible, that she ought to feel grateful to myself and others for continued favors. I don't know how it has resulted, but people should be warned against her evil tongue.

Eugenia.

(From our own Correspondent.)

[The following was received too late for last week's paper.—ED.]

A revival broke out in Eugenia on last Sunday week in the Quarterly Communion service. Although the Rev. Dr. Strongman, who has been indisposed for some time, was not able to preach, the power of God was made manifest, souls were saved, and all last week evangelistic meetings were held, resulting in many turning to the Lord. And still the good work goes on, and many are turning to the Lord. We are glad the Rev. Dr. is regaining his wonted strength.

Why He Didn't Want to Get Off the Train.

The North-bound train on the T. G. & B. R. branch was delayed at Dundalk station one hour last Monday at noon, in consequence of a freight engine which had run off the track and which had to be righted before the express could proceed to its destination. When the train did start, a son of Erin—very much under the influence of fire-water—was observed cautiously making his way into the smoking car. After jostling against several passengers in a rather unpleasant manner, he finally accomplished the, to him, difficult task of assuming an upright position. As this juncture Conductor T. A. Thompson entered the car and proceeded to "punch" the tickets, when he was informed in somewhat emphatic not to say inelegant language by the aforesaid "son of Erin" that he had neither a ticket nor the wherewithal to purchase one. Mr. Thompson then politely informed him that he must evacuate the premises at the next station, which happened to be Proton.

"I havent a cint about me person," pleaded the s. o. E., embellishing the sentence with a choice streak of profanity.

"Can't help it; you must leave the car or hand over your fare," replied the conductor.

"Och, now, Sorr, don't sind me out in the cowld," and then turning to the passengers he appealed to their generosity with all his native eloquence and force, to "jist give me enough till raich Markdale!" The passengers looked sad but did not respond as feelingly to the appeal as circumstances seemed to warrant.

At length he made a last pathetic appeal to the Conductor:—

"Och, for the love of God, Sorr, don't put me off where they havint sorra a hotel in the place!"

Nevertheless the s. o. E. was turned out in the "cowld" at Proton Station where there "wasn't sorra a hotel." When last seen he was standing by the railway track shading his eyes with his hands and mournfully gazing in the direction of a swamp in the vain hope, mayhap, that there might be a hotel in the place after all.

Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern medicine has been attained by the Dixon treatment for Catarrh. Out of 2,000 patients treated during the past six months, fully ninety per cent. have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent. of patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissue, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination—this accomplished, he claims the Catarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago are cures still. No one else has ever attempted to cure Catarrh in this manner, and no other treatment has ever cured Catarrh. The application of the remedy is simple, and can be done at home, and the present season of the year is the most favourable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sufferers should correspond with Messrs. A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for their treatise on Catarrh.—Montreal Star, Nov. 17, 1882.
