THE ADVANCE.

A. R. Fawcett, — Editor.

FLESHERTON:
THURSDAY, MARCH 5, 1885.

OUR FRIENDS.

The Editor of THE ADVANCE feels that he would be very ungrateful did he not express publicly, and with the deepest feelings of gratitude, his heartfelt thanks to the large circle of friends and acquaintances who, in the hour of his sore bereavement, manifested their sympathy by acts of kindness which will live in his memory and find a deep place in his heart while life shall last. Words fail to express the feelings by which he has been moved. In the hour of need, warm-hearted, sympathetic friends, gathered around and did everything in their power to console by word and deed. Friends in need are friends indeed.

A relative of deceased composed and put in type the following acrostics, which are published at the earnest solicitations of friends of the family:—

A way from every cankering care,
M eeting in Heaven with loved ones there
E ver with Christ, on high!
L oved 'Melia now is fully blest.
I n Christ she's found the long-sought rest
A nd wherefore should we sigh.

R obbed of his truest earthly friend
O n Christ he now relies
B eing full sure when life shall end
E ven through heart-break God will send
'R ound angels—of whom 'Melia one—
T o guide him to the skies.

It is a source of great consolation to the Editor to know that his dear wife passed away to the eternal world peacefully, and with that clearness of vision which showed full acceptance with the Divine Master. Her last words were full of peace and ecstatic joy, in which she prayed fervently for grace and Divine assistance for those dear ones whom she left on this side the eternal river, and expressed herself in glowing terms of her future home—a glimpse of which she seemed to catch while passing through the valley and shadow of death.

A friend of the family contributes an article in which he pays a fitting tribute to the memory of deceased in an original poem in blank verse as well as in prose. The sentiments contained therein are generous and truthful, and just what might be expected from the pen of one who has ever been a true ond warm-hearted friend of the Editor and his departed wife. In our dark hours, these tributes of esteem and respect, from true and tried friends, light up our pathway as the stars do the canopy of heaven. We shall ever remember the circumstances with deep and fervent gratitude. God bless all our friends and acquaintances who have so kindly remembered us in our great trouble.

LEFT OVER.

An editorial on the School question, in reply to the Beaver Valley Times, is left over for our next issue, owing to the great pressure on our columns this week of other, and perhaps more important matter. However, it will keep fresh for one week.

Our brethren of the press will kind- accept our warmest thanks for the hearty and sincere manner in which they have sympathized with us in the heavy loss recently substained by us in the death of the faithful and devoted "partner of our joys and sorrows."

We have received a letter from Mr. Wm Wilson denying the statement that he had any connection with Robins as against any one. He forbids any one using his name in connection with statements of a slanderous nature. As this is really the gist of his remarks, we refrain from publishing his letter, which would only lead to a long and most unsatisfactory newspaper controversy. In future, letters of a personal character will be submitted to the person attacked, when, if deemed advisable, the attack and reply will be published in the same issue.

The attention of our readers is directed to our Auction Sale Register in this week's issue. The list of sales is as large as ever.

We hope to see the Valley Road scheme pushed to a successful issue this season. The Euphrasia Council is in honor bound to complete its share of the work at an early date. The road is daily becoming a necessity.

We issue one day earlier this week owing to the fact that the ADVANCE was not published last week. The majority, if indeed not all, of our readers will readily excuse the non-appearance of THE ADVANCE last week, now that they are aware of the sad circumstances which necessitated such an unusual occurence.

A large number of copies of an Ottawa paper were circulated in this locality recently, containing an article reflecting considerable discredit upon the M. P. for East Grey, Dr. Sproule, in connection with an important document which, it was alleged, he (the Dr) had neglected to send in to the Government. Investigation showed that the statement was untrue—the Government having had the said document in its possession all the time. The O. S. Advertiser fell into the same blunder, although the Hansard made things as clear as noonday. The M. P. for East Grey is not in the habit of neglecting his business—or his constituents either.

The young men who are implicated in the breaking of the glass in our office window, and thereby causing the loss of a valuable collection of plants (all the more valuable under the present circumstances, as they were the especial care of the Editors wife) have, with one exception, failed to respond to the warning contained in an item in our issue of the 19th ult. It is, therefore, with great reluctance that we firmly carry out our intention of publishing their names, viz., Breen, Corbett, and Heard—all engaged in the one establishment in this village. The other young man having honorably discharged his share—or promised to do so—we refrain from publishing his name.

Daring Theft.

On Saturday evening last Mr. John McAleer of the City Hotel of this place had occasion to draw on his cash box, which he kept in his private room (this was shortly after dark) when to his surprise his money was gone, some $80. He at once made enquiry of his children who were at the time up stairs in an adjoining room, if they saw any person in his room, they said yes. James Tweed, a boarder, had been in. Tweed was got, not being far away, and brought before the children to see if they would recognize him when they all agreed that, that was the person they saw. He, (Tweed) then acknowledged that he took the money, and at once disgorged to the amount of $70, all he had. He had keys to fit McAleer's cash box which he also gave up. The same cash box had been opened and about $35 taken just two weeks previous. Tweed is a young man of about 22 years, and has been looked upon as a respectable and honest young man, and was never known to be guilty of any such crime, furthermore it is the general opinion that he was led into the deed by others. He however left before a warrant was issued so that no chance is left to implicate those who are strongly suspected of being his accomplices.—Markdale Standard.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

No other complaints are so insidious in their attack as those affecting the throat and lungs: none so trifled with by the majority of sufferers. The ordinary cough or cold, resulting perhaps from a trifling or unconscious exposure, is often but the beginning of a fatal sickness. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has well proven its efficacy in a forty years' fight with throat and lung diseases, and should be taken in all cases without delay.

A Terrible Cough Cured.

"In 1857 I took a severe cold, which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded me the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continued use of the PECTORAL a permanent cure was effected. I am now 62 years old, hale and hearty, and am satisfied your CHERRY PECTORAL saved me. HORACE FAIRBROTHER."
Rockingham, Vt., July 15, 1882.

Croup.—A Mother's Tribute.

"While in the country last winter my little boy, three years old, was taken ill with croup; it seemed as if he would die from strangulation. One of the family suggested the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, a bottle of which was always kept in the house. This was tried in small and frequent doses, and to our delight in less than half an hour the little patient was breathing easily. The doctor said that the CHERRY PECTORAL had saved my darling's life. Can you wonder at our gratitude? Sincerely yours, MRS. EMMA GEDNEY."
159 West 128th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL in my family for several years, and do not hesitate to pronounce it the most effectual remedy for coughs and colds we have ever tried. A. J. CRANE."
Lake Crystal, Minn., March 13, 1882.

"I suffered for eight years from Bronchitis, and after trying many remedies with no success, I was cured by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. JOSEPH WALDEN."
Byhalia, Miss., April 5, 1882.

"I cannot say enough in praise of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, believing as I do that but for its use I should long since have died from lung troubles. F. BRAGDON."
Palestine, Texas, April 22, 1882.

No case of an affection of the throat or lungs exists which cannot be greatly relieved by the use of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and it will always cure when the disease is not already beyond the control of medicine.
