—On Monday forenoon while Miss Hannah Leader was engaged in making beds in her father's house, 9th Line St. Vincent she took suddenly ill, and in five minutes time, breathed her last. Her mother and aunt were present but her father (who was at work on the place), did not get to the house before death took place. Much sympathy is felt for the family in the sudden grief so unexpectedly fallen upon them, as the deceased had not complained of feeling at all indisposed. Dr. Clarke was called, who at once pronounced heart disease as the cause of death.—MEAFORD MONITOR.

Another Battle!

Hot Work—Three Days Fighting.

LATEST NEWS FROM THE FRONT

WINNIPEG, May 12.—Early on Sunday morning the attack on the rebel lines was resumed by the gallant 90th Winnipeg Battalion, who so nobly distinguished themselves at Fish Creek. They were supported by the Grenadiers and Midland battalion. The guns of A and the Winnipeg Field battery took up commanding positions on the right and the left centre of our line, while the Gatling gun under Capt. Howard held a position near the centre.

The rebels were under cover in the innumerable rifle pits and deep, narrow ravines intersecting the district below the village of Batoche. The infantry firing was at long range at first, and the artillery directed shell after shell at the houses on both sides of the river as well as at the rifle pits of the rebels. Whenever a shell would burst over the rebel lines numbers of them could be seen running to the rear. Then our men would gradually advance, crawling along the brink of a ravine, or through a gully or brushy slope. Every now and then a puff of smoke from the enemy's lines showed that some few of the halfbreeds and Indians, more daring than their fellows, still remained in the cover where they had first been encountered. The firing on both sides was very slow, nothing approaching a pitched battle being noticeable except once or twice during the forenoon and then only for a brief time.

Our line was necessarily very extended, the left resting near the river—in a bluff near which a few rebel sharpshooters were concealed, while our right extended far up the hill sides and along its crest. Across the river an occasional puff of smoke followed by the report of a rifle or the whistle of a bullet indicated very clearly that some of the enemy—and good shots too—were concealed in the rifle pits scooped out of the gently sloping bluffs on that side. However, our men gave little heed to them, expecting every moment to hear from the rear of the rebels on the other bank the clear ring not only of the mounted policemen's cheers but also of their Winchester rifles—they waited in vain, Col. Irvine did not show up. But as the steamer Northcote is supposed to have gone on to Prince Albert with supplies, the speedy assistance of Col. Irvine may be counted on as sure.

On the east side of the river the 90th stuck to their work like heroes and in answer the wild warhoop of the Indians sent cheer after cheer in rousing British style. After exhausting their ammunition the 90th were reinforced by the Grenadiers, the Midland battalion and the rifle men of A battery. Then began a rattling fusilade; but as the rebels lay low in the gullies and rifle pits our fire is not supposed to have been very effective. It is also pretty certain that most of the bullets flew high as the range was not over two hundred yardss at any place, and in some was less than one hundred. As a consequence our men did not aim low enough, the bullets as a rule causng the rebels to duck the head very suddenly. Still every now and again one of them could be seen crawling, disabled to the rear. So, too, here and there during the day, some unfortunate Grenadier, 90th or A battery man might be noticed leisurely making for the hospital quarter. One or two poor fellows had to be borne back by their comrades while two were killed outright. The Midland battalion seems to have lain very low, and yet did good work. Thus far no casualties have been reported from their ranks.

Private Kemp of the 90th battalion was brought in with a severe wound in the right eye and Private Crinkson of the same battalion with a flesh wound in the arm near the shoulder.

The total killed to noon on Sunday was two and fifteen wounded.

THE MEMBER FOR EAST GREY

The Ottawa CITIZEN—in its spicy column under the heading of "Obstruction Notes," has the following complimentary references to the talented M. P. for East Grey, Dr. Sproule:—It was refreshing after the dreary monotony of listening to the oft-repeated speeches of the Obstructionists, to hear some vigorously spoken words from Government supporters on Saturday night. Messrs. Sproule, Landry, (Kent) and Foster were very effective and poured in their oratorical shot in a manner which made the Obstructionists feel uncomfortable.

In the course of his spirited speech in the House of Commons on Saturday night, Mr. Sproule fearlessly vindicated the character of the House of Commons from the base aspersions of the Globe and other organs of the Opposition. If Mr. Sproule or any other member of the House imagines that the organs will withdraw their calumnies, they are much mistaken. When they start a falsehood in motion they take good care that it is allowed to proceed on its mission.

FEW people have any idea of the care with which tobacco has to be attended after it is grown. It will imbibe odors of almost any kind if placed near the source of them. A pig stye, for instance, near the place where the planter stores his crops will impart a disagreeable flavor, which no care afterwards will divest it of. Among the many precautions taken to obtain a faultless leaf for the "Myrtle Navy" brand, is to ascertain carefully the methods which every farmer adopts with his crops in the sections of Virginia where the "Myrtle Navy" is grown.

Catarrh—A New Treatment.

Perhaps the most extraordinary success that has been achieved in modern medicine has been attained by the Dixon treatment for Catarrh. Out of 2,000 patients treated during the past six months, fully ninety per cent. have been cured of this stubborn malady. This is none the less startling when it is remembered that not five per cent. of patients presenting themselves to the regular practitioner are benefited, while the patent medicines and other advertised cures never record a cure at all. Starting with the claim now generally believed by the most scientific men that the disease is due to the presence of living parasites in the tissue, Mr. Dixon at once adapted his cure to their extermination—this accomplished, he claims the Catarrh is practically cured, and the permanency is unquestioned, as cures effected by him four years ago are cures still. No one else has ever attempted to cure Catarrh in this manner, and no other treatment has ever cured Catarrh. The application of the remedy is simple, and can be done at home, and the present season of the year is the most favourable for a speedy and permanent cure, the majority of cases being cured at one treatment. Sufferers should correspond with Messrs. H. A. Dixon & Son, 305 King street west, Toronto, Canada, and enclose stamp for their treatise on Catarrh.—Montreal Star, Nov. 17, 1882.
