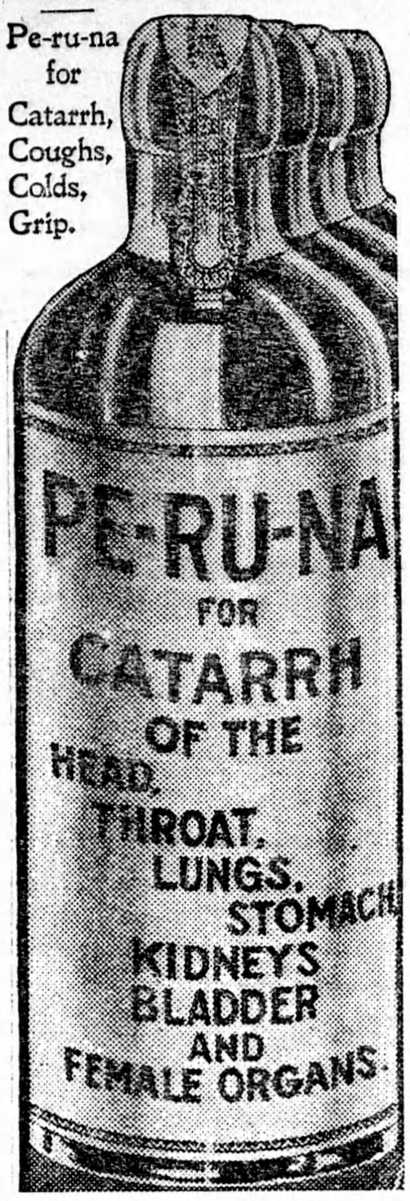
HOUSEHOLD FRIEND.

Pe-ru-na for Catarrh, Coughs, Colds, Grip.



Peruna is a household friend in more than a million homes. This number is increasing every day. Peruna has become a household word all over the English speaking world. It is an old tried remedy for all catarrhal diseases of the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, bladder and female organs.

NATURALLY.

"What do you think of Professor Knowall's latest vacuum theory?"

"Pooh! there's nothing in it."

No Reasonable Man expects to cure a neglected cold in a day. But time and Allen's Lung Balsam will overcome the cold and stave off consumption. Cough will cease and lungs be as sound as a new dollar.

AT THE LAUNDRY.

"What do you think the most pressing evil of the day?"

"A cold iron."

Something More than a Purgative—To purge is the only effect of many pills now on the market. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are more than a purgative. They strengthen the stomach, where other pills weaken it. They cleanse the blood by regulating the liver and kidneys, and they stimulate where other pill compounds depress. Nothing of an injurious nature, used for merely purgative powers, enters into their composition.

PROOF POSITIVE.

"Is she really so popular as a dressmaker with the swell set?"

"Well, she's just failed because she can't collect her bills."

Twitchy Muscles and Sleeplessness.—The hopeless heart sickness that settles upon a man or woman whose nerves are shattered by disease can best be pictured in contrast with a patient who has been in the "depths" and has been dragged from them by South American Nervine. George Webster, of Forest, Ont., says: "I owe my life to it. Everything else failed to cure me."—44

TRIED AND FOUND WANTING.

'I see, you have no faith in Mme. De Skynn's wrinkle and wart eradicator?"

"No; I tried it on a large pickle and it failed absolutely."

"ATKINS" CANNOT COOK.

"Tommies" in British Army Victims of Inferior Cooking.

There are very few men in the British army who are satisfied with the manner in which army cooking is done; and who can wonder?

The secret of indifferent army messing lies in the unpreparedness and unwillingness of soldier-cooks for their work. Men are selected at random from the ranks, totally regardless of their qualifications, and are thrust into a cook-house to prepare, perhaps on the very day of appointment, dinner for a company of men. It says much for the soldier's adaptability and the capacity for extraneous work of the one trained cook in a battalion—the sergeant-cook—that meals are cooked as well as they are. But this cooking is at its best primitive, and at its worst absolutely ruinous to any stomach but that of an ostrich.

Little opportunity is allowed the sergeant cook for training his charges; they come and go with the abrupt rapidity of all soldiers on billets that are uncongenial; and men have not infrequently to be detailed to act as cooks as for any ordinary fatigue. The work of the soldier-cook is as physically exacting as his very exacting art can well be, often lasting from 4 a. m. to 5 p. m. He has seven working days, and his only recompense comes from the circumstance that he is not required to pay the orthodox threepence per diem for his messing.

STORY OF BOGUS JEWELS.

Music Hall Singer's Attempt to Bamboozle Railway Ends in Flight.

A curious incident happened in Rome, Italy, some time ago, when a travelling trunk was lost. The owner a music hall singer, declared that it contained valuable effects and jewelry, and she was offered $25,000 in final settlement of all claims. But the music hall star refused.

It so happened that, pending negotiations, the trunk was discovered, and the order was at once given by the officials for a list of its contents. An expert jeweller was also requistioned, and his response was to the effect that the asserted precious diamonds were all false. The fact reached the ears of the owner, who disappeared, and has not been heard of since.

"Riches have wings." Don't believe it; if they had they'd fly our way occasionally, if only by accident.

If your children moan and are restless during sleep, coupled, when awake, with a loss of appetite, pale countenance, picking of the nose, etc., you may depend upon it that the primary cause of the trouble is worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator effectually removes these pests, at once relieving the little sufferers.

Even an optimist is liable to backslide when he has a boil on the back of his neck.

Manly Strength and Womanly Beauty depend on purity of the blood, and much of that purity depends on perfect kidney filtering. If these organs are diseased and will not perform their functions, man will seek in vain for strength and woman for beauty. South American Kidney Cure drives out all impurities through the body's "filterers"—repairs weak spots.—46

Just a Word of caution; Where the skin is destroyed by burns or scalds apply Weaver's Cerate immediately: the sooner the better.

HOTEL LIKE A BATTLESHIP.

A unique hotel, which owing to its slender shape is called the "Toothpick," is being erected in San Francisco. It was being put up at the time of the earthquake, and the steel skeleton was uninjured. Now, instead of finishing the walls with stone and brick, as was first intended, great plates of boiler iron will be riveted on just as the armor of a battleship is. The steel plates strengthen the structure of the building, it is said, cannot be shaken off, and present a smooth surface for painting.

HORSE'S ARTIFICIAL FOOT.

The veterinary profession is much interested in a surgical operation which has been accomplished by Professor Udriski, one of the staff of the veterinary school at Bucharest. Having amputated a horse's limb at the fetlock joint, after several failures he succeeded in fitting a leather boot or artificial limb that enabled the animal to walk about and take exercise.

A SIMPLE CURE FOR PILES.

Pile sufferers know that Ointments and other local treatments sometimes relieve but never cure. They don't remove the cause.

There is a little tablet that taken internally removes the cause of Piles and cures any case of any kind no matter how long standing.

ABSENT-MINDED PUBLIC.

57,820 Articles Left in Public Vehicles in World's Metropolis.

Is the public growing more absent-minded? An answer in the affirmative would appear to be the legitimate deduction from the figures supplied in the annual report of the Commissioner of Police, regarding articles found in cabs, omnibuses and tramway cars, and received at the lost property office.

Last year 57,820 articles were found, an increase of over 5,000 on the previous year. In 1901, 40,221 articles were found, and since then there has been a steady increase. There were received last year 44,825 written inquiries in regard to lost goods—an increase of 5,435 on the figures of 1904, and of 14,051 on those of 1903.

Owners of the lost articles were found in 26,770 cases. These were of the declared value of £27,215 19s., and awards amounting to £3,509 12s. were paid to drivers and conductors who found the lost articles. In 13 cases awards of £5 were paid, five of £6, one of £7, four of £8, three of £10, one of £25, one of £30, and in one case the lucky finder received £100.

Public forgetfulness was most marked in the case of umbrellas, no fewer than 25,337 being left in public vehicles. Bags numbered 4,607, articles of men's clothing 3,279, women's clothing 3,229, purses 3,707, operaglasses 703, jewellery 1,535, and watches 232.

PRICE OF GREATNESS.

Ambitious Village Resorts to Dodge and Suffers for Its Sin.

An amusing story is told by the Strasburg Post at the expense of the authorities of a small village in the Grand Duchy of Baden, Germany. These worthies, it seems, full of local patriotism, were anxious to show at the recent census a population of over 1,000; but the minutest preliminary count failed to raise the total over 993. As the village is situated in an out-of-the-way corner of the Grand Duchy, the chance of the desired total being made up in an odd visitor or two and a few tramps, was considered extremely remote, and the burgomaster was in despair. In the nick of time, however, a band of gipsies arrived, who brought up the total to 1,004. Never were gipsies made more welcome. Used as they were to harsh rebuffs, the swarthy wanderers were bewildered by the receipt of all sorts of pleasant attentions, and proudly the villagers saw their hamlet inscribed on the roll of "places of more than 1,000 inhabitants." But a sad awakening was in store for them. A new law was passed in Baden increasing the fiscal responsibilities of places with a population of 1,000 or more, and so the villagers found themselves saddled with taxes which, but for their unfortunate local vanity, they would have escaped. There was the inevitable revulsion of feeling, and the burgomaster's lot, we read, has not been a happy one since.

NO RETURN WAS POSSIBLE.

"I am going to see your father about you," said a teacher to a boy who had exhausted her patience.

"If you do you'll never come back."

"Why?" demanded the teacher.

"'Cause pa's dead."

So popular is Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup as a medicine in the treatment of colds and coughs or ailments of the throat, due to exposure to draughts, or sudden changes of temperature, that druggists and all dealers in patent medicines keep supplies on hand to meet the demand. It is pleasant to take, and the use of it guarantees freedom from throat and lung diseases.

DEEPEST MINERAL BORE.

What is believed to be the deepest and most successful coal bore in Great Britain, if not, indeed, in the world, is that which has been sunk and is nearing completion in the neighborhood of Cameron Bridge, Fife, Scotland. The bore has reached the enormous depth of 4,000ft. At that distance from the surface the Dunfermline splint coal, a seam of splendid mineral, has been probed. How far in the future it will be before it is commercially expedient to work coal at such a depth is a problem which only mining engineers can solve.

PAPER GAS PIPES.

Gas-pipes of paper are being made in France. Manila paper is cut in strips equal to the length of the pipes to be made. These are then placed in a receiver filled with melted asphalt and wrapped around a core of iron until the desired thickness is reached. After being submitted to strong pressure the paper is coated with sand, cooled, the core withdrawn, and the outer pipe surface covered with a waterproof preparation. It is claimed that these pipes are as good as, and more economical than, metal ones.

HANDICAPPED.

"Have the Eskimos adopted any of the ways of civilization yet?" asked the young man with the plastered hair.

"Exceedingly few," said the arctic explorer. "Think how costly it would be, for instance, to put on a full dress suit up there and wear it to tatters in one evening."

For the Overworked—What are the causes of despondency and melancholy? A disordered liver is one cause and a prime one. A disordered liver means a disordered stomach, a disordered stomach means disturbance of the nervous system. This brings the whole body into subjection and the victim feels sick all over. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are a recognized remedy in this state and relief will follow their use.

TIME FOR RECREATION.

"That's right," rejoined the demoralizer. "Most of the chaps who wear sweaters are in the never sweat class."

Never judge yourself by the faults of your neighbors.
