YOUR LUNGS

ARE THEY WEAK OR PAINFUL?

Do you spit yellow and black matter?
Are you continually coughing and hawking?
Do you have night sweats?
Do your lungs ever bleed?
Have you pains in chest and sides?
Do you have pains under your shoulder blades?

THESE ARE RECARDED SYMPTOMS OF LUNG TROUBLE AND Consumption

You should take immediate steps to check the progress of these symptoms. The longer you allow them to advance and develop, the more deep-seated and serious your condition becomes.

We Stand to Prove to You nbs lutely, that Lung-Germine, the German Treatment, has cured completely and permanently case after case of advanced Consumption (Tuberculosis), Chronic Bronchitis, Catarrh of the Lungs, Catarrh of the Bronchial Tubes and other Lung Troubles.

Many sufferers who have lost all hope and who had been given up by physicians have been permanently cured by Lung-Germine.

It is not only a cure for Consumption but a preventative. If your lungs are merely weak and the disease has not yet manifested itself, you can prevent its development, you can build up your lungs and system to their normal strength and capacity.

Lung-Germine has cured advanced Consumption, in many cases over four years ago, and the patients remain strong and in splendid health to-day.

Here is evidence from one case

Under date of March 11, 1907, William Schmidt, 1904 Coleman street, St. Louis, Mo., writes:—"It is now nearly four years since my cure of Consumption was made complete by your Lung-Germine, and I am happy to say that I remain as well and strong to-day as the day I was cured. I am healthy and able to work every day."

We will gladly send you further proof of many other remarkable cures, also a FREE TRIAL of Lung-Germine, together with our new book on the treatment and care of Consumption and Lung Trouble.

KIDNAPPED IN DAYLIGHT

WHEN WANDERERS HAVE MYSTERIOUSLY "VANISHED."

It Is Said There Is Nothing Easier Than to Kidnap a Person in the Heart of London

Wild as the theory may seem, it is by no means improbable that individuals who have incurred the ban of foreign Governments or secret organizations who have sought shelter in the metropolis have been kidnapped practically in open daylight in London and "suitably dealt with," says London Answers.

Only a few years ago Dr. Sun-Yet-Sen, a prominent member of the now powerful "Young China" party, was seized in broad daylight in Portland Place by two of his compatriots and hustled into the Chinese Embassy. He had incurred the enmity of the Empress. He had been kidnapped according to her instructions and conveyed to the Embassy, with the ultimate intention of placing him on board a ship in the Thames and transporting him to China, where he would inevitably have been beheaded, had he not, after some day's incarceration, been successful in throwing a letter out of a window which caused the British authorities to DEMAND HIS RELEASE.

The numerous Russian refugees—many of whom are famous in science and literature—who have made London their home, live in constant dread of being drugged by emissaries of the Tsar and smuggled back to the solitudes of Siberia. To this day the compatriots of Sergius Stepniak, the Russian author, smile at the coroner's jury who returned a verdict of "Accidental death" when Stepniak's mangled body was found on a level crossing on the railway line. They argue that a Power like Russia can find emissaries who will do strange deeds for gold, even in the heart of London.

Take the case of the distinguished scientist Prince Peter Kropotkin, for instance. After his escape from the prison fortress of St. Peter and Paul, he settled in England, but frequently had to visit the Continent, where he was employed as correspondent for The Times. While in Geneva a highly-placed official warned Kropotkin—who, by the way is first cousin to the present Tsar—that he was shadowed, with a view to being surreptitiously seized and CONVEYED TO ST. PETERSBURG.

Kropotkin's promptness saved his liberty. He published particulars of the plot in The Times, and returned to this country, where, however, the enmity of his persecutors did not cease.

Soon afterwards he published a book, titled "In French and Russian Prisons," but every copy of the first edition was bought up by agents of the Russian Government.

A second edition was at once ordered, but before it could be printed a mysterious burglary occurred at Messrs. Ward & Downey's, the publishers.. Nothing was stolen but the stereo plates were destroyed, and the MS., which was kept in the office safe, was burnt. This book has since, however, been reprinted from an advance copy which had been sent to a library in Boston.

Just before the Turko-Græco War broke out a Greek subject of the Sublime Porte, named Michaelis, who had interested himself greatly in Turkish politics, disappeared in from the refreshment-room at Charing Cross Station, where he had entered to have a drink with a friend. From that day nothing has been heard of him, but both the police and the Custom House officials agree that, granted money, there is nothing easier than to kidnap a person in the heart of London.

All that is necessary to is to inveigle him to partake of a drink or a cup of coffee in the most crowded resort. The drink is dexterously drugged, and the waiter is coolly told to call a cab, as the gentleman is overcome with liquor, and his friends will see him home. He is driven to a house kept by some foreigner in the pay of the Government he has offended. His clothes are changed for those of a sailor, and another cab conveys him to the docks, whence he is smuggled out of the country.

GOT HIS OMELET.

"I've never tried to be funny with a waiter," the returned traveller was saying, "since the time when I had a little experience with one in California. It was several years ago, and I was rather 'fresh.' I stepped into a restaurant one morning and ordered an omelet.

"'What kind' asked the waiter.

"'Why, are there more kinds than one?' I said.

"'Oh, yes, sir,' he answered me, 'there are several.'

"'Well, bring me an ostrich-egg omelet.'

"'All right, sir,' he said, 'but you'll have to wait quite a while. It takes a long time to make an ostrich-egg omelet.'

"I told him I had plenty of time. He went away, and was gone fully an hour. Then he came back with a big covtred dish.

"'There you are, sir,' he said, placing it before me and uncovering it.

"Well, it was an omelet, all right, and big enough for half a dozen men. Whether there was an ostrich-farm in the neighborhood, and he got a real ostrich egg, or whether he made it from a couple of dozen hens' eggs, I don't know, but I distinctly remember it cost me two dollars—and I learned a valuable lesson."

"Oh, slip on any old thing," said the midnight caller. So the doctor slipped on the top step, but he did not lose any time, as he slipped on "The D & L" Menthol Plaster and all was right in a jiffy.

She: "Some people profit by the mistakes of others." He: "Yes, like the minister who got five dollars for marrying us."

Do Not Delay.—Do not let a cold or cough fasten upon you as it will if englected. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will break up a cold and cure a cough, and should be resorted to at once when the first symptoms appear. It can be disguised so that any unpleasant taste it may have will be imperceptible to the delicate. Try it and be convinced .

SAYINGS OF GREAT MEN.

Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty as we understand it.—Lincoln.

A worldly man makes of himself but a cock, sent for a while on the world's heap to scratch and peck.—George Macdonald.

Who is a true man? He who does the truth, and never holds a principle on which he is not prepared in any hour to act, and in any hour to risk the consequences of holding it.—Thomas Carlyle.

Half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting and in being served by others. It consists in giving and serving others.—Henry Drummond.

A man of eminence in any line is exposed to a thousand eyes which men not so celebrated are safe from; and, in consequence, right conduct is much more essential to his happiness than to those who are less watched.—Sir Walter Scott.

NECESSITY FOR ACTION.

Nan: "I was astonished to learn that Lil Billiwink had gone and married that Spriggins boy. Why, she's a good ten years older than he is."

Fan: "I know it, but it had narrowed down to a choice between him and his father, and she had to decide quick."

Are you a sufferer with corns? If you are, get a bottle of Holloway's Corn Cure. It has never been known to fail.

The following character was supplied to a housemaid by her mistress: "The barer is of grate respecktability, and is a most exlent dumystick in a confidant kapacity. She nose all sorts of cookary, and gets up plane linen. She has lived ate yeres in her last plase, and has a hunimpicable carekter. She is pirfetly sobar, and never drinks nothink but what does her good. The lady where she livs givs her this carekter, and never would have pearted with her, but she goes to osstrailya."

HOME-MADE COUGH MIXTURE

Procure from your druggist the following ingredients and mix at home:—

One-half ounce fluid extract licorice, one-half ounce fluid extract cascara, one ounce elixir tolene, six ounces best rye whiskey. Dose: One dessertspoonful every two or three hours. Children in proportion.

This mixture is said to be very effective in the treatment of coughs, whooping-cough, colds, and bronchitis.

Relief is certain after a few doses.

"But, sir," insisted the persistent agent, "I want to sell you the most wonderful cash register that was ever put on the market. It will keep account of what you take in, what you pay out, what you spend, how you spend it, and——" "My dear man," interrupted Mr. Meeker, with a wan smile, "I already have a cash register that does all that." "Indeed! And may I ask the name?" "Yes, my wife."

Just the Thing That's Wanted.—A pill that acts upon the stomach and yet is so compounded that certain ingredients of it preserve their power to act upon the intestinal canals, so as to clear them of excreta the retention of which cannot but be hurtful, was long looked for by the medical profession. It was found in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are the result of much expert study, and are scientifically prepared as a laxative and an alternative in one.

"You were always a fault-finder!" growled the wife. "Yes, dear," responded the husband, meekly; "I found you!"

Yes, indeed, "blood will tell," when blotches and incrustations mark the skin. Weaver's Cerate and Weaver's Syrup make short work of all blood and skin troubles.

She: "The mere thought of the furs which you have promised me makes me feel warm." He: "And the mere thought of their cost makes cold shivers run down my back!"

There is no medicine on the market that can compare with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in expelling from the system the irritating germs that colds engender in the air passages. It is suicide to neglect your cold. Try the cheap experiment of ridding yourself of it by using Bickle's Syrup, which is a simple remedy, easily taken, and once used it will always be prized as a sovereign medicine.

A number of persons were talking about telescopes, and each professed to have looked through the "largest one in the world." One after another told of the powerful effect of the respective telescopes. A last a quiet man said, mildly: "I once looked through a telescope. I don't know as it was the largest in the world. I hope it wasn't. But it brought the moon so near that we could see a man in it gesticulating wildly, and crying out, 'Don't shoot! don't shoot!' The old fool thought it was a big cannon that we were pointing at him." The quiet man subsided, and so did all the rest of them.

"Aren't you ashamed to beg?" "Sometimes, mum. When I find how stingy people are, I fairly blushes for them."

A Little Loss of flesh, a little obstinate cough and a little pain in the chest are signs that must not be neglected. Allen's Lung Balsam loosens the cough and effects a cure without a grain of opium.

"He seems to take life seriously for so young a man." "Yes; you see, he's in love, and he has to run the gauntlet of her little brother, her father and the bulldog every time he calls!"

A Cure for Fever and Ague.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are compounded for use in any climate, and they will be found to preserve their powers in any latitude. In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way into the blood. They correct the impurities which find entrance into the system through drinking water or food and if used as a preventive fevers are avoided.

WHAT LONDON'S LORD MAYOR COSTS.

The maintenance of the pride, pomp, and circumstance of civic state costs the Corporation of London a yearly sum of close upon $90,000. The Lord Mayor receives $50,000 and the income tax on that sum is paid for him, while he is allowed $500 for the supply of new furniture, and his robes cost close upon $1,000. Then the rates, taxes, and tithes payable on the Mansion House total upwards of $15,000, the lighting involves an outlay of upwards of 2,850, the water supply costs $900, and fire and boiler insurance absorbs $675. Next structural and other repairs represent an expenditure closely approaching $10,000, and periodically there is a heavy "call" for special redecoration—the amount spent last year, for instance on the Egyptian Hall being $2,800.
