AN OVERDOSE OF INTEREST.

How a Traveller Was Shadowed by Children in Madeira.

"Enough is as good as a feast," and too much is a wearisome surfeit. To be an object of interest is pleasing to the vanity, but carried to excess, it becomes boredom to the flesh. An example of such a condition is given by A. E. W. Marsh in "Holiday Wanderings in Madeira."

Soon after our arrival at the inn of Boaventura, not a child within the radius of miles but heard of our advent, and ran, walked, crawled or rolled or howled until it was carried, to have a look at us. They came and literally sat down in front of the hostelry, and absolutely refused to leave us.

It was very embarrassing, for we found it impossible to move a step without being followed at a respectful distance by an army of juveniles. We went to church; so did the children. We went to the stables; so did the children. We went up the road and down the road; so did the children. When we walked, they walked; when we ran, they ran; when we stopped, they stopped.

It was my first experience of being shadowed, and I did not like it. It was impossible to get angry, for they were very quiet, maintaining almost absolute silence as they dogged our steps.

At last after a protracted ramble, we got back to the inn, but we did not lose the children. They calmly resumed their seats round the doorways, with an expression which seemed to say, "Strangers do not visit us often, and therefore we intend to have our fill now you are here."

We stood this for three or four hours, but at last the continued presence, and the thought that perhaps they would remain outside all night, wore on us so that we decided to take up a collection to buy up the lease the children were holding of the ground. We subscribed all our spare small change, and gave something to each child, on the condition that they would go home immediately. It worked admirably—for a time.

For an hour we were left to ourselves; then the news spread of our generosity, and from all sides children tropped to the inn. The place was alive with them, and they brought their parents besides. To have bought up the lot would have ruined every man of us. We had to grin and bear it. After the house was shut up we could still hear the visitors keeping vigil outside.

PILES CURED AT HOME

By New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 102 Windsor, Ont.

The optimist invests in a box of polish and gets busy with the dark side of life.

'Tis Well to Know a Good Thing, said Mrs. Surface to Mrs. Knowwell, when they met in the street. "Why, where have you been for a week back?" "Oh, just down to the store for a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil," and Mrs. Surface, who hates puns, walked on. But she remembered, and when she contracted a weak back there was another customer for Eclectric Oil.

If people would do half the things they are going to do to-morrow what a progressive old world this would be.

Yes, indeed, "blood will tell," when blotches and incrustations mark the skin. Weaver's Cerate and Weaver's Syrup make short work of all blood and skin troubles.

Only a girl who is willing to take in washing to support the family can afford to marry a man who wears a lot of rings on his fingers.

Pleasant as syrup; nothing equals it as a worm medicine; the name is Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator. The greatest worm destroyer of the age.

"You'll have to send for another doctor," said the one who had been called, after a glance at the patient. "Am I so ill as that?" gasped the sufferer. "I don't know just how ill you are," replied the man of medicine, "but I know you're the lawyer who cross-examined me when I appeared as an expert witness. My conscience won't let me kill you, and I'll be hanged if I want to cure you. Good day."

Pay what you will, and go where you like, you cannot get a better, purer or more delicious tea than "Salada."

Mother—"If you marry Robert, I swear that I'll never set foot in your house." Daughter—"Please put that down in writing. I'd like to give your promise to Robert for a wedding present."

"You haven't explained how you happened to have Mr. Wacker's chickens in your possession," said the magistrate, sternly. "I'se trying to think, your worship. Give me time," replied the prisoner. "I will. Fourteen days!"

"I contend," said the lawyer for the defence, "that a tomato, however well aimed, could not have caused a black eye." 'But it was in a tin, your honor."

If you want to spring a surprise on yourself sit down some evening and count the number of white lies you have told during the day.

CLOCK FEEDS HORSES.

English Merchant Invents Ingenious Contrivance.

A provision merchant in Oldham, England, has invented an ingenious contrivance by which he is able to feed his horses without personal attendance through the medium of an alarm clock. In a small office adjoining the stable the clock is placed on a shelf. Attached to the winding key is a piece of copper wire, and this is fastened to a small brass roller that runs over a wooden rod. At the end of the rod is a heavy weight. When the clock goes off the wheel is drawn over the rod and releases the weight, which falls to the floor. The corn box is filled over night, and when the weight is released a small door at the bottom of the box flies open and the corn falls into the manger. The horses never fail to rise at the sound of the alarm, knowing what is to follow and when the drivers turn up the animals are ready to be harnessed.

A CONTEST WORTH ENTERING.

A Life Annuity of FIFTY-TWO DOLLARS is offered by the ORANGE MEAT people to the one sending in the largest number of bottoms of ORANGE MEAT packages before May 31, 1909. This means that the winner will receive One Dollar EVERY WEEK, or FIFTY-TWO DOLLARS every year, as long as he or she lives, or they can exchange it for a CASH PRIZE of SEVEN HUNDRED DOLLARS. Besides the above there is a second Cash Prize of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS, also other Cash Prizes as follows:—

Ten Cash Prizes of TWENTY DOLLARS each.

Ten Cash Prizes of TEN DOLLARS each.

Twenty Cash Prizes of FIVE DOLLARS each, and ONE HUNDRED Cash Prizes of ONE DOLLAR each.

The only condition attached is that you cut out the bottoms of the ORANGE MEAT packages and send them in to ORANGE MEAT, Kingston. The bottom of a Jumbo package counts equal to Three of the smaller size. You should be able to win one of the above prizes if you start immediately and get your friends to help you. Send your name and address to ORANGE MEAT, Kingston, TODAY, and state that you are entering the contest. It is surely worth trying for.

"It looks very much like rain today," remarked a milkman, as he handed a housekeeper her supply of milk. "Yes," agreed the latter, as she peered into the jug, "it usually does!"

In the causes of infant mortality cholera morbus figures frequently, and it may be said that complaints of the bowels are great destroyers of child life. If all mothers would avail themselves of so effective a remedy as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial many a little one could be saved. This Cordial can be given with safety to the smallest child, as there is no injurious substance in it.

Jakey—"Fadder, a shentlemans half fallen troo de coal-hole!" Isaac—"Clap re cover ofer him, kervick, mein sohn, vile I runs for a policemans. Ve must arrest him for tryin' to steal te coals, or he'll sue us for tamages."

If You are Nervous and irritable, take "Ferrovim," the great nerve and blood tonic; you will be a new person by the time you have used a bottle. $1.00 bottles. All dealers.

Charitable Man (to former blind beggar)—"What! have you recovered your sight?" Beggar—"Well, you see, it's this way. I've lost my dog; and as I can no longer be blind, I have become a deaf-mute."

Give Holloway's Corn Cure a trial. It removed ten corns from one pair of feet without any pain. What it has done once it will do again.

GOLD IN SOAKED ENVELOPE.

A London firm recently received from a gold miner in Alaska the following curious letter: "Gentlemen,—Enclosed you will find an envelope which you will tear up in small pieces and place in a glass of water; let soak for an hour or so, then stir and drain, and you will find thirty grains of gold for which you will send me a stylographic pen wrapped up in a late newspaper." These instructions were duly carried out, and the gold, value 6s., obtained, in exchange for which the ingenious miner was sent a stylographic pen and two newspapers.

A POINT OF ADVANTAGE.

"Of course, the railways owe the public a great deal," said Mr. Dustin Stox; 'but you must also remember that the public is indebted to the railways."

"Yes," answered the critical citizen, "but the railways are in a position to collect."

Just the Thing That's Wanted.—A pill that acts upon the stomach and yet is so compounded that certain ingredients of it preserve their power to act upon the intestinal canals, so as to clear them of excreta the retention of which cannot but be hurtful, was long looked for by the medical profession. It was found in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are the result of much expert study, and are scientifically prepared as a laxative and an alternative in one.

"Captain, we are entirely out of ammunition," said an orderly sergeant to his commander on a field-day. "What? Entirely out of ammunition?" exclaimed the captain. "Yes, entirely out," was the reply. "Then cease firing," said the captain.

A Cure for Fever and Ague. — Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are compounded for use in any climate, and they will be found to preserve their powers in any latitude. In fever and ague they act upon the secretions and neutralize the poison which has found its way into the blood. They correct the impurities which find entrance into the system through drinking water or food and if used as a preventive fevers are avoided.

SHARED THE HONORS.

Jukes—"Who was the best man at the wedding?"

Jenkins—"Well, I'm not sure. The bride's father had all the bills to pay, the bridegroom had to buy diamond brooches for the bridesmaids, and the guests had to give handsome presents; upon my word, I think the best man was the clergyman—he was the only one who made anything out of it."
