BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers, of Kalamazoo, Mich., relates his experience:

"I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in early youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, went to Mt. Clemens for baths, but received little benefit. While at Mt. Clemens I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and will continue to do so."

Creighton Will Have to Hang

Jas. Farish Creighton, who was accused of having, on the 26th of May last, murdered his wife and two step-daughters, unless he obtains a reprieve, will be executed on Thursday, Dec. 3. He was found guilty by the jury Thursday after two hours' deliberation and sentence was pronouuced upon him at 8.30 Thursday night.

Justice Riddell in passing sentence said that the accused had been guilty of one of the most atrocious crimes known to law. The prosecution had been fairly conducted and the defence brilliantly and skilfully conducted. No stone had been left unturned, no research had been too much, to bring forth anything which would assist the prisoner in his defence. But it was plain that no twelve honest men could have found a different verdict

The judge said that he did not wish to add to the poignancy of the prisoner's grief or add in the least to the pangs of anguish and the tortures which his poor soul must suffer from. It was in the hope that his words might reach others who were on the brink of taking the first awful step downwards, whose feet were about to take hold on hell, and that these might be saved from the prisoner's awful doom, he would say the little he intended to say.

A loved and petted son, a loved brother, the prisoner had early in life given himself up to the gratification of one or the other lust, and he was not the only one. God knows that there were many of our countrymen who were in the perilous condition that the prisoner had been in years ago, when he had begun that career which was terminating as it was.

A sorrow to his parents, a grief to his connections, the prisoner had broken one woman's heart, and, after reviving an old romance, had tried, and honestly tried, the judge believed, to be a better man.

But the time came when the greatest effort failed. It was too late. That was the inevitable course predicted by his early career, and it was one more warning that the Good Book was awfully right when it said "Be not deceived, God is not mocked. As a man soweth so shall he reap."

The prisoner's career in this world would probably be short. He could hold out no hopes of clemency. He would not, he ought not to, say that there was any hope for him in this world. In the short time that was left to the prisoner he could only adjure him to prepare for the next world. While there was no hope for mercy or pity here, there was no chance of being refused if he sought it at the proper place.

The prisoner ought to spend the few short weeks that were left to him in seeking mercy from that throne at which it was never refused the penitent. With mercy from that source he might meet those whom he had slain with a smile, knowing that all was forgiven. That was all he could do for him. That was all he could hope for him.

The judge then put on the black cap and sentenced the prisoner to be executed on Thursday, December 3.

The jury took two and a half hours to consider their verdict, but were unanimous.

The judge, in summing up, plainly indicated that he thought the prisoner was responsible for his actions, as he remarked in concluding that he did not think the jury would have any difficulty in arriving at a decision.

When the jury announced their verdict the judge said he would have been greatly disappointed if it had been different from what it was.

The prisoner on receiving sentence, broke down completely, and had to be carried out of the court by his guards.

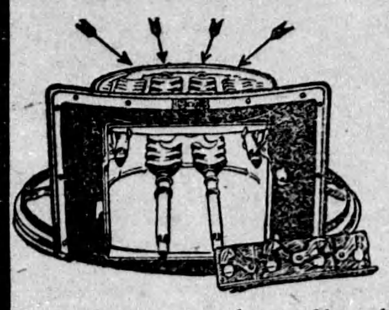
Let us show you how easy it is to shake the

"Hecla" Furnace



The "Hecla" has four grate bars. Each one can be shaken separately. This means that you can shake down just the part of the fire where the ashes are, without disturbing the rest of the coals.

With "Hecla" Triangular Grate Bars, you can get rid of all the ashes—save coal—keep the fire bright and clean—and do away with sifting ashes, because no fresh coal or half-burnt clinkers come down in the ashpan.

We would be pleased to talk over the furnace question with you and show you, part by part, just why the "Hecla" Furnace is the best for you to buy. Come in any time.
