King Kennedy gave one of his entertainments here last Saturday evening to a slim audience. The weather was not favorable for a large gathering and the roads much less so. However, those who did attend, speak highly of Mr. Kennedy's powers as a ventriloquist, and prestigitateur.

The Durham Chronicle announces the death of Miss Minnie Ellerby—late of the Gospel Army—in its last issue. The event was currently reported here a couple of weeks ago, but was afterwards denied. If the present report is correct, we join with many others in this locality in expressing our profound regret at the early demise of this talented young lady.

Rev. Wesley Cassin of Markdale preached one of the grandest sermons we have ever listened to in the Methodist church, Flesherton, on Sunday evening last. His subject was John the Divine, his writings, life and character. Mr. Cassin's language was at once elegant, graceful and forcible. May we often hear this eloquent preacher!

Rev. Samuel G. Rorke delivered a very thoughtful and impressive sermon in Flesherton Methodist church last Sunday morning, to a large congregation. The sacramental services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Ayers in a most interesting manner. The services throughout partook of that solemnity and impressiveness we would naturally expect under the circumstances.

ORDINATION SERVICES.

The Pastor of the Baptist Church, Flesherton, Ordained.

Last Tuesday was quite an important day in the history of the Baptist church in this place, as well as in that of the Rev. Thos. Watson, the pastor. The morning session was devoted to a searching examination into the character and fitness for the important work entrusted to his care, of the candidate for ordination. The result was satisfactory and in the afternoon the solemn and impressive ceremony of ordination was proceeded with in the usual way.

The weather was very stormy, but notwithstanding this rather untoward event, quite a number of people from the village and neighborhood gathered into the Hall to witness the ceremony.

After opening the meeting by singing, Rev. Mr. Thom, of Meaford, read II Tim. 2c., after which came prayer by Rev. Mr. Barker, of the same place. The Rev. Mr. McEwen, of Owen Sound, then read a portion of Scripture, after which he delivered a most excellent and practical address on "What constitutes a regular Baptist minister," which was listened to with profound attention. The ordination prayer was perhaps the most solemn and impressive event in connection with the services. Rev. Mr. Watson knelt down; then each of the ministers present gathered around and placed their right hands on Mr. Watson's head; after which Rev. A. Grant, of London, delivered a powerful and affecting prayer—creating a most profound impression upon the audience. Rev. Mr. Dunlap, of Durham, next addressed a few eminently practical remarks to Rev. Mr. Watson, in reference to his duties to himself, his fellow-men, his flock, and his God. Rev. Mr. Grant followed in an eloquent address to the people in reference to their duties to their duties to their pastor It was easier to give advice than to take it; and unless there was mutual love between pastor and people, any advice that might be given would be useless. A spirit of Christian generosity and brotherly love should be cultivated, but God alone should be the arbitrar of a man's actions. But a speech like Mr. Grant's should be published in its entirety in order to be properly estimated. It was a masterly oration.

The ordination services were then brought to a close and the audience dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Watson.

THE TEA-MEETING

in the evening was well attended and a pleasant and profitable time was spent. Addresses were delivered by Revs. Grant, Thom, Barker, McEwen, Vansickle, Ayers, and Watson. Mr. M. Richardson occupied the chair with grace and dignity as he always does. The Glee Club and Methodist church choir, and Mrs. J. E. Moore and Rev. Mr. Vansickle furnished the vocal and instrumental music.

A social will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening next. A collection will be taken up.

A Unique Epistle.

The following—addressed to the publishers of the Winnipeg Free Press—explains itself:—"Dear Sirs,—Your card of 3rd instant duly received, stating award to me of a $25 shot-gun "free," it being one of the promiscuous valuable gifts scattered among the subscribers taking and paying in advance for your noble, large, interesting, valuable Manitoba Free Press newspaper. Yes, sirs,—a twenty-five dollar, "English" speaking, "double barrelled," "breech-loading" shot gun—

Which will always shoot forward,
And never shoot back,
Though the barrels are DOUBELLED,
Till both of them CRACK.

Please allow my brother, Dr. Alex. Purdy P.M. of East Selkirk P.O., to take charge of it for me: accept 25 rounds of thanks in advance from your subscribing subscriber, R. McLean Purdy—the first and now 24 years P.M. of Eugenia."

Don't Forget it.

To-morrow evening (Friday) our Band and Glee Club concert comes off in the Town Hall here, and we expect to see the place packed to its utmost capacity. The programme prepared for the occasion is a good one, but it is not merely a good programme which should draw the people together to-morrow evening: the Brass Band is an excellent institution in our thriving place, and one deserving the most hearty support of the public for its great liberality in furnishing us from time to time with an abundance of excellent music free of cost, besides lending a helping hand to every commendable project for the promotion of the public weal. The Glee Club has done good service for our various churches and societies during the past few months, and is always ready and willing to offer its services in any good cause. The people now have the opportunity for repaying the Band and Glee Club, in a measure at least, by a bumper house to-morrow evening. If you don't go you'll be sorry, for the programme is simply immense.

Later.—We are informed that the Markdale Brass Band will be present and assist at the Concert. This is an excellent and unexpected addition. Good for the Markdale boys!

A GRIST FROM EUGENIA!

An Interesting batch of News from our Special Contributors.

INSPECTOR SPRY'S INVESTIGATION.

As intimated last week, D. Spry, Esq., P. O. Inspector, came here last Thursday to investigate the supposed irregularities in connection with our Post-Office. The enquiry commenced about 2 o'clock. Quite a number felt interested in the charges made, and in a few minutes the largest room in Mr. McAlear's hotel was crowded.

Mr. Spry first read over the charges, and then called upon Mr. T. B. Gilliland the complainant to come forward and state his grievances.

The oath being administered, Mr. G. mentioned several instances of which he thought he had just cause to complain. These complaints extended over about a dozen years, and in nearly every case there was no evidence as to the facts, except Mr. G's own testimony. Mrs. Gilliland and Clara Gilliland, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. G., were called to corroborate part of Mr. G's evidence, and when the father, mother and daughter had signed to their depositions, Mr. Geo. Latimer requested to be sworn and examined.

Aster taking the oath, Mr. Latimer said repeatedly that the Gilliland's had sworn to a lie. His evidence was corroborated by Mr. R. Plantt.

Mr. Woodburn said that a letter from the States, informing him of his sister's death, had been detained some days in the office.

Mr. Samuel Pedlar, sr. said that a letter to him from Toronto, last July, had laid some days in the office, although he had called or sent to the office, asking for said letter; also that he had dropped a card into the office for Mr. John Williams, which, if it had been delivered, would have saved Williams some miles of a walk; but it just so happened that Mr. Williams did not call for his card and of course did not get it.

Robert and William Wilson gave evidence as to having got a package of papers open when received from P. O. and one paper missing. Their evidence caused some merriment but that was about all.

Mr. Robert Hawkins testified that a lady in Toronto had written to him on 3rd July last, that she would visit him on an early day, and asking him to meet her at the station. He did not get the letter until after the lady had come, although he had sent his 10 year old boy to the office, enquiring for letter in the meantime, in consequence of which the lady had hired a rig at a cost of $1.75, which he himself had refunded to her by paying $1.75.

Mr. John Hopps testified that his son had brought home to him a letter addressed to J. R. Hogg. Mr. Hogg explained this in his evidence, thus: his store is just opposite the Post-Office, and being busy in his store on the day in question, he asked young Hopps to go over to the office and see if there was any letters for him. Mr. Purdy gave him a letter, but the young scoundrel seems to have so much of the family instinct, that he took the letter home instead of carrying it over to Mr. Hogg, the rightful owner. When Mr. Hogg got disengaged in the store, he went over to the office himself, and finding that young Hopps had got a letter for him, immediately set out for Hopps' home. He met young Hopps a few rods from his father's house, returning with the letter. (If this youth does not take care, he may one day find himself inside high walls, with hard labor, scanty fare, and a narrow cell to sleep in.)

It was remarkable that nearly all those who had complaints, stated that they had mentioned these things to Mr. Gilliland, but never wished to make any complaint about the post-master; the only complaint made was that the post-master was "too slow." It was as remarkable, that the Post-Master never asked a question at any time, and in his replies seemed to confess to some short delays, more out of a desire not to throw any doubt on the evidence of some who had professed great friendship, than from any sense of wrong he had done.

Mr. Spry acted throughout with great candour, fully maintaining his reputation as a clear-headed, honest, good-hearted gentleman—a gentleman in every sense of the term. He seemed to see right through his witness and knew the extent of a question the moment it was asked.

Upon the whole, there was very little to complain of, and several said if the Post-Master had had a smart man to cross-examine several of the witnesses against him, some of them would have shuddered at their own evidence. What the result will be we cannot tell. Perhaps the Post-Master General will fine Mr. Purdy $1.75 and hand the amount to Mr. Hawkins to repay what he paid the lady, but we hardly think he will, seeing there was no corroborative evidence to this—unless, possibly, they may get this lady's address and write her to substantiate Mr. H's evidence. Mr. Gilliland has with much trouble "trumped" up every little thing against Mr. Purdy, for the last 10 or 12 years, with no credit to himself and very little damage to our Post-Master. His motives are apparent.

DEATH OF AN OLD RESIDENT.

George Roseborough, an old residenter in this neighborhood, died in Eugenia on Friday last and was buried in Salem burying ground on Sabbath. It is said that every man in Eugenia was at the funeral except Mr. Gilliland. He took possession of every nice plot of land which George owned and had possessed for several years. Some say Gilliland has no title to it except possession.

EUGENIA JOTTINGS.

The Methodist church people here held their tea-meeting, as per announcement, on the 11th inst. It was a fair success, weather considered. After the good things provided by the ladies had been partaken of, the people repaired to the church, and after a jolly time of social chat, a programme was drawn up and Mr. Joseph Blackburne called to the chair—the duties of which, it is needless to add, he conducted with a master hand. Addresses were delivered by F. T. Carr, Dr. Christoe, Rev. Thos. Grandy, Rev. Dr. Strongman, interspersed by remarks from the chairman and delicious music by the Flesherton Choir, who kindly lent their services for the occasion. Votes of thanks were tendered to the ladies, speakers, chairman and choir, when the national anthem was sung and the people dismiss'd. Proceeds $18.

On Monday evening a socsal was held in the same place, when a pleasan evening was spent. Contents of the till, $6.

School at the Station.

To the Editor of The Advance.

Sir,—I trust you will grant me a small portion of your valuable space to remind the School Trustees of the Petition presented to them some two months ago by the residents at the Station, respectfully asking them to appoint a teacher to that district. I hope that the said petition has not been lost sight of, as the establishment of a school there, especially at this season of the year, is a very great desideratum. There are quite a number of children living at the Station who are losing much valuable time through their inability to walk to and from the village school—a few certainly find their way there, but the great majority are quite unable to face boreas bitter blasts There is a sufficient number of children at the Station to occupy the attention of a Teacher.

I earnestly hope that the Trustees will see their way to take up the matter without further delay, as it is a matter fraught with the most important consequences to the children who are located at the Station, being debarred, as they are, by the long and severe winter from attending the village school. The Trustees by granting the request of the petitioners will not only confer a boon upon the children, but merit the best thanks of the parents. I am yours, &c.,

Nemesis.

Let Neighborly Love Continue.

Last Wednesday, the 10th inst., the farmers in the Tyrone neighborhood, to the number of twenty-two persons, turned out with their teams to give Mr. John Sanders assistance drawing timber to Proton Station. Each man wrought with a hearty good-will and finished drawing all the timber Mr. S. had out of the bush. Many other teams could have been procured had they known of the "bee," but propose giving a hand as soon as required. This is genuine Christianity, and possesses the ring of the true metal.

In the evening the young people of the neighborhood indulged in tripping the "light fantastic toe," one and all declaring it to be one of the most enjoyable evenings ever spent in this locality.—Com.

The Inquest.—The Coroner's inquest on body of Smoots, who was murdered by Roy, was concluded last night—William Johnston being principal witness, at whose house murder occurred. The jury, after an absence of about half an hour, returned the following verdict:—"That Smoots came to his death by being stabbed in the neck by Roy, who wilfully and maliciously stabbed him." Roy was brought before magistrate, who sent him up for trial at coming assizes.
