ACUTE INDIGESTION

Cured Through the Timely Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There is no medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for stomach troubles. These Pills are not an artificial appetizer nor a stimulant. They act in nature's own way by making rich, red blood. This new blood gives vigor to all the organs. When it flows through the tiny veins in the stomach it stimulates them and creates that craving which people call "appetite." Then when the appetite is satisfied with food the blood gives the stomach strength to digest it. The nourishment is absorbed by the blood, and carried to every organ in the body. That is how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure stomach troubles and all blood diseases. That is how they give health and strength to weak, worn out people.

Mr. H. Thomas Curry, Port Maitland, N. S., says:—"About three years ago I was attacked with what the doctors termed acute indigestion. The first indication was a bad taste in my mouth in the morning, and a sallow complexion. Later as these symptoms developed my tongue was heavily coated, especially in the morning, and I felt particularly dull. My appetite began to dwindle, and even a light meal left me with a sense of having eaten too much. As I grew worse I ate barely enough to sustain my body, but still experienced the most acute pains. A wretched languor came over me which I could not throw off. It seemed as if I were always tired, with but little strength and frequent violent headaches. The remedies given me by my doctor, as well as many others, failed to restore me, or even to relieve me. I was in this very unhappy state for almost a year when I read in a newspaper one day of the cure in a case similar to mine through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This decided me to give these Pills a trial. It was not long before I felt some relief from the distress after meals, and as I continued the use of the Pills all languor and drowsiness and headaches left me and I began to enjoy increased energy and new strength. To-day I am a well man, enjoying the best of health, with never a twinge of the old trouble, and I attribute my cure entirely to the fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OFFICER MAULED BY A LION.

When Wounded, the Savage Beast Sprang Upon Him.

Among the passengers who arrived at Plymouth, England, the other day, by the P. and O. steamer Marmora was Lieut. G. S. Anderson, Eighteenth Hussars, of Dawlish. Lieut. Anderson, who has been attached to the Intelligence Department, is suffering from blood poisoning, the result of a mauling received from a lion a month or six weeks ago, on the borders of Somaliland and Abyssinia.

In company with a native servant, Lieut. Anderson went out for a day's shooting. Finding a lion at short distance, he fired, and the shot grazed the animal's skull, slightly wounding it. The infuriated beast leaped upon the officer, throwing him to the ground, and bit him through the knee just as he fired a charge from his double-barreled sporting rifle through its head. The animal continued to claw and bite him, while Lieut. Anderson, fighting for his life, clubbed the lion with the butt end of the rifle. All the while blood was streaming from the wounds of the lion, which was of unusual size.

The native servant, although practically unarmed, rushed to the aid of his injured master, and at length the animal, exhausted from the loss of blood, slunk away, leaving Lieut. Anderson almost overcome, and in a very precarious condition.

Subsequently the lion was found dead at a little distance from the scene of the encounter. The injured officer was conveyed to the coast, and at Aden embarked for London, where he will be treated in a hospital.

ALBERTA IN MIDWINTER

MR. W. E. THOMSON'S GRAPHIC SKETCH OF CLIMATE.

Land of Little Snow—Seldom a Foot Deep on Canadian Prairies.

The following graphic sketch of winter conditions in Alberta is by Mr. E. W. Thomson, the Canadian correspondent of The Boston Transcript:

There is very little snow on the prairies; not enough to cover wheat stubble. Its golden yellow tinges fields of white. Every slough that bore high grasses last fall is now visible in all its outlines by the dun color of that growth, which quite hides the snow. Generally the vast obvious expanse is a symphony of white and grey austerity, woodland and shrubland furnishing the darker coloring. For many miles in Alberta a singularly beautiful picture effect came of the curious way in which recently fallen snow slung to the very tips of poplar and willow twigs, which thus appeared as bearing white flowers, while the main branches were stark grey, since from them the snow had blown or fallen off. Everywhere horses were "feeding out," as per Canadian immigration literature, whose assurances on this matter I never quite believed before. These horses, which lie down to sleep wherever they chance to feed last, appeared uncommonly shaggy, for the exposure causes them to grow long winter coats. So it is with cattle. These must be more or less fed from hay or straw stacks, else they go very thin before spring.

ANIMALS AND ENVIRONMENT.

The quickness with which cattle and horses adapt themselves to change of climate is such as signified by the following facts, which I give on the authority of Mr. Carruthers, Winnipeg, an eminent dealer in furs and hides. Suppose, he says, a cow bore twin calves, the two indistinguishable. Take one to Mexico and the other to Peace River, some 700 miles north of Edmonton. The calf in Mexico will grow a very thick hide and little hair. The calf at Peace River will grow a very thin hide and long hair. Again, consider muskrats. A peace River rat has much fur, and a hide so thin that it will not long hang together when sewed, hide to hide, as lining for overcoats. Hence it is a low-priced pelt. The best muskrat peltries are those of New Jersey, where the hide is thick and the fur thin, because such peltries endure when sewed up as coat linings. Knowledge of these interesting facts in natural history once put a pretty penny into my informant's purse. Every year he goes to England. Once visiting the London hide exchange he saw a lot of hides put up for sale by number. He bid them in, because he observed them to be from Mexico, at the usual "by number" price. "Now," said he, "put them on the scales." They weighed so much more than the usual that they were immediately bid in at twice what he had bought at ten minutes earlier. Thus do the truly wise profit in this vale of much ignorance.

The only other important fact picked up during the journey is that there is an orange marmalade made at Paisley, Scotland, and entitled "Scotch marmalade," which is as superior to all other orange marmalades as Scots will modestly acknowledge themselves to be to other sorts of men. I tried the Paisley article, and profess to be a connoisseur in the preserve.

NOT IN GREAT SNOW BELT.

Down east, down south, in all aged parts of the continent people commonly imagine this dear north to be a region of much snow. That is wrong. The great snow belt includes Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec, etc. It does not include Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Edmonton. Between Sudbury, Ont., and Fort William the white blessing diminishes notably. It is seldom a foot deep on the Canadian prairies. In Edmonton the street cars are run without any expense for snow-shovelling, an item of great cost in Ottawa and Montreal. Here the streets are covered by a thin uniform white; no heaps from sidewalks and car tracks; sleighing excellent. Fancy a white expanse two hundred feet wide; a single row of uncommonly brilliant electric lamps down the middle as far as eye can reach; around every lamp a prismatic halo; more stars overhead than you ever dreamed of, and every one seeming to dilate as it sparkles; chimneys giving off a white smoke that disappears almost instantly; men and women furcoated and largely face-covered in fur, all striding fast; footsteps crisply grinding dry, hard snow; a sense of exhilaration with every breath exhaled as a little cloud; all this in streets remarkably citified as to the buildings. Well, that is a vision of Edmonton last night.

IN LOVE WITH THE NORTH.

Here the people are certainly in love with their north. What good fun they have all winter—skating, curling, ski-ing, dancing, using the season for enjoyment; quite pitying all those who have not such a winter to be cosy in, ye unfortunate deprived! It reminds of that grief which the sailor expressed during a storm at sea for the unfortunate folks ashore who were liable to have slates and chimney pots blown about their ears in bad weather.

CHEER UP.

Cheer up, chappie; don't you fret.
Smile, for that's the way to do.
Not a bit of use to get
Blue.
Care's an easy thing to whip
If you give it biff for biff.
Try to keep your upper lip
Stiff.

Nothing like a grin and grit
To repel a hard attack.
Laugh at measly luck and hit
Back.
Better than to lose your grip.
Nothing's apt to hurt you if
You can keep your upper lip
Stiff.

Worry never makes you score.
Hopelessness will never pay.
Always darkest just before
Day.
Your day's coming, take my tip.
Don't with fate get in a tiff.
Just you keep your upper lip
Stiff.

A Woman's Sympathy

Are you discouraged? Is your doctor's bill a heavy financial load? Is your pain a heavy physical burden? I know what these mean to delicate women—I have been discouraged, too; but learned how to cure myself. I want to relieve your burdens. Why not end the pain and stop the doctor's bill? I can do this for you and will if you will assist me.

All you need do is to write for a free box of the remedy which has been placed in my hands to be given away. Perhaps this one box will cure you—it has done so for others. If so, I shall be happy and you will be cured for 2c (the cost of a postage stamp). Your letters held confidentially. Write to-day for my free treatment. MRS. F. E CURRAH, Windsor, Ont.

A Recognized Regulator.—To bring the digestive organs into symmetrical working is the aim of physicians when they find a patient suffering from stomach irregularities, and for this purpose they can prescribe nothing better than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which will be found a pleasant medicine of surprising virtue in bringing the refractory organs into subjection and restoring them to normal action, in which condition only can they perform their duties properly.

ISSUE NO. 11—09.

It Is No Trouble To Work Now

So Says Miss Elsie J. Allen After Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Suffered from Weakness and Kidney Trouble, but the old Reliable Kidney Remedy Cured her Completely.

St. Croix, N. B., March 15 (Special).—That the pains and weakness which make life almost unbearable to so many women are easily and completely cured by using Dodd's Kidney Pills, is once more shown in the case of Miss Elsie J. Allen of this place:

"I suffered greatly from kidney trouble and weakness before I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills." Miss Allen says. "I was so weak I could hardly get around, and work was almost impossible. Life was a struggle till I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I began taking them and soon felt better. I took seven boxes in all and they cured me.

"I can now do my work the year round and do not feel it. My back which used to trouble me so much is well and strong and I don't feel any pains at all."

The root of women's troubles is in the kidneys. There is not a weak, suffering woman in Canada that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not help, and in nearly every case Dodd's Kidney Pills will work a complete cure.

ENOUGH.

Dashaway—"I want you to meet Mrs. Dasher's eldest daughter. She is the most intelligent of the three of them."

Cleverton — "No, thanks; I've learned more than I ought to know from the other two."

Repeat it;—"Shiloh's Cure will always cure my coughs and colds."

"Jane," began Mrs. Newlywed timidly, "I don't suppose—er—that you would—er—object to my getting an alarm-clock?" "Not at all, ma'am!" replied the sleepy maid. "Then things never disturb me at all!"

Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is an unparalleled remedy for colds, coughs, influenza and diseases of the throat and lungs. The fame of the medicine rests upon years of successful use in eradicating these affections, and in protecting mankind from the fatal ravages of consumption, and as a neglected cold leads to consumption, one cannot be too careful to fight it in its early stages. Bickle's Syrup is the weapon, use it.

"Mr. Bubkins," said the proud father, shaking the young man warmly by the hand, "let me tell you that you are a man after my own heart." "Oh, no, sir," protested the blushing suitor; "I'm after your daughter's!"

After a Cold Drive don't fail to take a teaspoonful of Painkiller mixed with a glass of hot water and sugar. It surely prevents chills. Avoid substitutes, there is but one "Painkiller"—Perry Davis'—25c. and 50c.

A physician upon opening the door of his consultation room asked: "Who has been waiting longest?" "I have," spoke up the tailor, "I delivered your clothes three months ago."

Repeat it:—"Shiloh's Cure will always cure my coughs and colds."

PROMPTING HIM.

"If my memory," slowly answered the reluctant witness, "serves me rightly——"

"One moment," interrupted the cross examining lawyer: "please remember, Mr. Slick, that your memory is under oath."

A negro was passing under a scaffolding where some repairs were going on, when a brick fell from above on his head, and was broken by the fall. Sambo very coolly raised his head and exclaimed:—"Halloa, you white man up dar! If you don't want your bricks broke, just keep 'em off my head!"

Time Has Tested It.—Time tests all things, that which is worthy lives; that which is inimical to to man's welfare perishes. Time has proved Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. From a few thousand bottles in the early days of its manufacture the demand has risen so that now the production is running into the hundreds of thousands of bottles. What is so eagerly sought for must be good.

PROOF.

Indignant—"Your boy threw a stone at me just now, and barely missed me."

Mr. Grogan—"Yez say he missed ye?"

"That's what I understood myself to remark."

"Well, it was not my b'y."

He—"Do you remember the night I proposed to you?" She—"Yes, dear." He—"We sat for one hour, and you never opened your mouth." She—"Yes, I remember, dear." He—"Ah, that was the happiest hour of my life."

SIXPENCE A WEEK.

All a Family of Five Had to Live on in London.

A remarkable story of poverty was told at the Coroner's Court in London, England, last week at an inquest of Jane Alice Noble, aged three, the daughter of an unemployed bookbinder of Sydney Grove, Goswell road, Clerkenwell.

The mother said that she went out to buy a little coal, and upon her return found her daughter in flames. The child was wearing flannelette underclothing, and she could not afford a fireguard. She, her husband and children came out of the workhouse a few weeks before Christmas, since when her husband had been doing a little hawking.

The Coroner—How much does he earn on an average? Witness—Last week we only had 2s. 6d., sir.

The Coroner—How can you live? I suppose you get outdoor relief? Witness—No, sir, we manage as best we can. We have a pennyworth of bread and a pennyworth of coal.

Continuing, the witness said that she, her husband and three children lived in one room at the rent of 2s. a week.

The Coroner—That only leaves you 6d. to live on? Witness—Yes, sir.

The witness told that on one occasion a lady gave her 1s. 6d.

The Coroner's officer said that he found the room very clean. There was, however, hardly a scrap of anything in the room, with the exception of a box, which was used as a cot and table. The latter was used by the man and woman as a bed, the covering being a blanket and a rug. He found not a scrap of food in the place.

There is nothing equal to Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator for destroying worms. No article of its kind has given such satisfaction.

"This is the seventeenth time I've seen you in the dock," said a magistrate, looking at a prisoner sternly. "Yes; for eight years now I've seen you sitting in the chair, but I've never thought of complaining about it!" replied the prisoner reproachfully.

Repeat it:—"Shiloh's Cure will always cure my coughs and colds."

"Is the shoe too small?" tenderly asked a fond swain of his sweetheart, who was moaning about cramped toes. "Oh, no! The shoe is just right, but my foot is too big—that's all."

"A Little Cold, You Know," will become a great danger if it be allowed to reach down the throat to the lungs. Nip the peril in the bud with Allen's Lung Balsam, a sure remedy containing no opiates.

When a woman meets a man after her own heart, the chances are that he isn't.

Suffer No More.—There are thousands who live miserable lives because dyspepsia dulls the faculties and shadows existence with the cloud of depression. One way to dispel the vapors that beset the victims of this disorder is to order them a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are among the best vegetable pills known, being easy to take and are most efficacious in their action. A trial of them will prove this.

And the old hen moves in a set of her own.

TORTURED BY RHEUMATISM!

Zam-Buk Will Give You Ease!

Just at this season when the cold dry winter is giving way to a milder yet more humid season, the germs of rheumatism, sciatica, and allied ailments come upon their victims with renewed force.

Mr. P. G. Wells, of 338, Ogden Street, Fort William, Ont., says:—"Following my duties in attending to passenger trains I often get wet through with rain and steam (the latter in winter). This with hours of duty in icehouses in summer was no doubt the cause of my contracting rheumatism in both knees, left arm, and shoulder. This got so bad that I could no longer work, and was laid off on three different occasions for several weeks, during which I was under the treatment of my doctor. I seemed to get little if any better, no matter what I tried, and this was my state when Zam-Buk was recommended to me. I laid in a supply, and to my great joy it began to cure me. I rubbed it well in every night, and when a few boxes had been used, found I was free again from the pain and stiffness of rheumatism. I have had no more trouble from the disease and unhesitatingly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from rheumatism, muscular stiffness, etc."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for eczema, ring-worm, ulcers, abscesses, piles, bag leg, suppurating wounds, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin injuries and diseases. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

There ought to be a plank in every political platform guaranteed to give the candidate a walk-over.
