FLESHERTON:
THURSDAY, AUG. 12, 1886.

DISGRACEFUL !

A Condition of Affairs much to be Deplored.

The letter of "Ratepayer," in another column, is not half strong enough. Our sidewalks are in a disgraceful condition. While new sidewalks have been constructed, the repairing of the old ones has been shamefully neglected by our pathmasters. Broken and rotten planks are to be found everywhere, and the only reason Dr. Christoe does not have surgical operations to perform every day, to repair and set broken and sprained limbs caused by our sidewalks, can only safely be ascribed to some special and mysterious providence, who cares for the unwary if the pathmasters don't. As it is, mishaps are too numerous for individual mention. Not even an attempt has been made to patch what is bad and dangerous, although this should be the very first duty of the pathmasters; new sidewalks should only follow a thorough repair of the old ones, which, every year, require more or less attention. What satisfaction is there in walking some distance with safety on a new sidewalk, to find yourself suddenly and violently thrown down no sooner does your hardihood and love of "wild and thrilling adventures," and "narrow escapes," induce you to set foot on the rotten old planks just beyond? It is simply scandalous, that our money should be taken by the tax collector for work that is never done, and our most frequented foot paths allowed to go to destruction. Not long ago, Mrs. Wm. Clayton fell and got bruised and cut in the face, and a few days later Mrs. M. Richardson fell through the same cause. Private money has been expended in repairing and building new sidewalks—notably that dangerous chasm and railing at the Boyne bridge. Taxes were paid for sidewalks last year which were never built. The same may be said of sidewalks this year, which were never repaired, or which were repaired at private expense.

It is but natural to ask the question—in fact it suggests itself—what have the pathmasters been doing with the money placed in their hands for sidewalk improvements? When we asked for a sidewalk on the street past our residence—more travelled than any other in town except the business streets—we were told that there was no funds, and naturally supposed other more necessary improvements were in progress. But such was not the case, and it is but fair to ask the pathmasters to give a detailed statement of the manner in which the money has been expended. We fear, however, that, in too many cases, necessary public improvements have been made subservient to private ends. We shall see.

SLIPPERY SPENCER.

Events constantly transpiring, throw more and more light upon the brief career of Geo. H. Spencer in this locality. It seems there were a few mistakes in the article which appeared in last week's ADVANCE. We hasten to correct them, as we are one of those who believe in "giving the devil his due," if need be, every time. For instance, it is stated that neither Mr. J. W. Bates nor Mr. Wm. Strain were contributors to the "Spencerial sinking fund," both gentlemen having "dealt out" or "traded out" their respective accounts against Spencer before that gentleman's sudden and much lamented departure for Georgia. Thus showing, that the "darkest cloud may sometimes show a silver lining." We made another mistake, viz., in saying that Mr. Munshaw got back all his money from Spencer, and that Mr. M. usually "gets thar." The contrary is the case—Slippery Spencer was the man who "got thar" this time, leaving Mr. M. out in the cold to the tune of some $27 or so.

Geo. H. Spencer's father and two brothers were still in the neighborhood on Saturday last. They run a shingle mill at the Station, and seem to be made of different material from that which constitutes the divine form of the lamented George H. One individual told us to look out or they would "punch your head for you." We decline "punching" from principle, but if we are to be thus dealt with, we can assure the gentlemen that, although peaceably inclined, we can and will resent insult and defend ourself when opportunity presents itself.

EUGENIA B. B. CLUB.

The Eugenia Base Ball Club, not content with our very mild explanation last week, publish a letter in this issue of THE ADVANCE which only makes matters appear in a worse light for themselves—in short the "confusion grows worse confounded." What is the use of talking about Harry Bull. If he were a member of the Eugenia team ten times over, and had lived there all his life, Flesherton would still, and with reason, object. Our team is really a much stronger one than the Eugenias, in nearly every particular. Vokes is as good, if not a better, catcher than Bull, and Clark pitches a better game than Tweed; and with the exception of McAleer and Hogg, our boys are much superior basemen and fielders.

Drowning men may "catch at straws," but it happens that Bull is the "straw" the Eugenias have been catching at, so that the boot is on the wrong foot when applied to Flesherton. Would it not be as reasonable as the action of the Eugenias, if a professional player from Toronto or elsewhere became a member of the Flesherton club and played in the various matches. But would Eugenia consent to play with a team employing such tactics in a friendly game? Certainly not, and public opinion would sustain them in their course, and rightly too. But Harry Bull is objected to on other grounds than that of being an outsider in the true acceptation of the term. It is needless to state the grounds for the objection at present, as from the attitude of Eugenia B. B. C., we may be induced to state them later on.

The "amalgamated team," upon which so much stress is laid, is heard of by us for the first time, and although Sec.-Treas. of Flesherton team, we do not know of one member thereof who dreamt of proposing such a scheme: Eugenia seems to be quite competent to arrange all the "amalgamating" without any interference on the part of Flesherton, Harry Bull, of Thornbury—a town 20 miles distant from Eugenia—to wit.

In conclusion, we beg to ask the Eugenias the three following questions:—(1) When was the Eugenia team "twice victorious" over Flesherton? (2) Why did not the Eugenias play Harry Bull in the two contests which have already taken place between Flesherton and Eugenia? (3) Why did the catcher, Mr. Hogg, say that Eugenia would have played Flesherton without Harry Bull, had it not been that he (Mr. Hogg) was "used up?"

DR. LANDERKIN, M. P.

Defends His Position on the Riel Question.

To the Editor of The Advance.

Sir,—You have, on several occasions, in your paper, made allusions to the vote I gave on the Riel question, and in such a way as to leave the impression, that you desire to create prejudice against me for taking the view I did in the case of that demented and misguided man. I cannot get over the idea, that you wish your readers to forget all the wrongs done by the government, merely because they executed Louis Riel. Neither can I rid myself of the idea, that you are trying to make it appear, that the execution was done at the bidding of a section of the Protestant community, and that his blood was shed to appease their wrath and consolidate them in support of the government. I cannot bring myself to think so unkindly of any section of the Protestant body. I don't think any good Protestant thirsts for the blood of a Roman Catholic. And I do hope we have not again arrived at a period in our history, when it becomes necessary to shed human blood for the preservation of any political party in this country.

I thought Riel was insane. I still think so. Holding that view, what other course could I have pursued, in the name of humanity, than I did pursue. In this view I was sustained by my highly gifted and eminently endowed leader, Mr. Blake. This fact, though it did not fix my opinion, greatly tended to assure me that it was right. Mr. Blake's treatment of the Riel question, was, to my mind, most statesmanlike and just. Mr. Blake sought to remove the question out of the arena of party politics, and place the consideration of it upon a judicial basis entirely. He did not urge his followers to agree with him on the question, neither did he insist that they should vote as he did; but he left it to the judgement and to the conscience of each of his supporters in the House. Now, what higher stand could any fair man ask of a party leader. It was the very essence of liberty, which is the foundation of the Liberal party.

You seem to intimate, that many of my constituents do not take the same view of the case as I did. I cannot help that. I am not responsible for their opinions, neither are they responsible for mine, on abstract questions. If I hold views, I don't think that you would advise me to sink them in order to gain popular applause. A man of courage has the courage of his convictions—only a sycophant and a coward will forego them to catch "the passing breeze." My principles are my own. I cannot fashion them to suit every man. I do not desire to do so. I am prepared to go great lengths to serve my friends, but I cannot make so great a sacrifice as to stultify my convictions in order to please them. This may not be a policy suitable for a wily politician; however, it is mine, and I am prepared to stand or fall by it.

Do I understand you aright, when I get the idea, that you consider Sir John has acted right in the Riel matter. I hold the idea, that he has acted very far from right in his dealings with Louis Riel—both before and subsequent to the late rebellion, and I will tell you why I think so. You, no doubt, well remember the fate of poor Thomas Scott. You remember that he was executed by Riel's orders during the rebellion of 1870. This execution has been considered a most atrocious one. Now, what did Sir John do to avenge the blood of Scott. Let me tell you. He promised Riel a complete amnesty, and gave him money to leave the country until the affair would blow over. But probably you will say, "This cannot be true, that Sir John would never do anything so outrageous as this; what evidence have you that he did so." I answer you, the very best of evidence: Sir John's own letter, announcing the fact, and Sir John's sworn statement, confirming it. The sworn statement of Sir John will be found in the report of the committee on North-West difficulties in 1884, at page 111, and the letter I here give you, from page 54 of same report. Here it is:—

[No. 30.]

(Private and strictly confidential.)

Ottawa, Dec. 27th, 1871.

My dear Lord Archbishop:

I have been able to make the arrangement for the individual that we talked about (Riel). I now send you a sight draft on the Bank of Montreal for $1000. I need not press upon your Grace the importance of the money being paid to him periodically (say monthly or quarterly) and not in a lump, otherwise the money would be wasted, and our embarrassment begin again. The payment should spread over a year.

Believe me your Grace's
very obedient servant,
(signed) JOHN A. MACDONALD.

His Grace, the Archbishop of St. Boniface, Montreal.

After reading this letter, you will ask why I refused to vote against the Landry motion; why I refused to thus whitewash Sir John. Why, I refused to concur in Sir John's dealings with Louis Riel from first to last. If you do, I shall be much surprised, for from the tone of THE ADVANCE, I am led to believe that you are not a hide bound partizan, and that you are disposed to view questions on their merits, and treat them accordingly. Such being my view of your fairness I will, in conclusion, remind you, that it was Gabriel Dumont that induced Riel to leave Montana and enter the North-West before the rebellion. I don't have to tell you, for you know, that Dumont was the head and front of that rebellion, and was more responsible for the blood shed therein than was Louis Riel, yet you have no doubt heard, that Gabriel Dumont was granted a full amnesty by Sir John just before the Chambly election the other day, and yet I have failed to find in THE ADVANCE any condemnation of Sir John for this act. Probably it will soon appear: until it does, I am

Faithfully yours,
GEO. LANDERKIN.

Hanover, Aug. 7th, 1886.

$300.00 Reward!

Whereas some evil disposed person, or persons, did, early on the morning of Saturday last, the 6th instant, set fire to my new House, in course of completion, on Lot Number Seven, on the South side of Napoleon street, in the Town of Eugenia, whereby the said House was totally burned,

Notice is hereby given, that I will give a reward of One Hundred Dollars to any person who will give such information as shall lead to the conviction of the guilty party. This, together with the Two Hundred Dollars offered by the Township Council for the discovery of incendiarism in the Township, will make the above named Three Hundred Dollars. The informant's name will, if possible, be kept private.

THE LATE BASE BALL MATCH

That Didn't Come off.

To the Editor of the Advance.

DEAR SIR,—On looking over your report of the late base ball match, that didn't come off, between the Eugenia and Flesherton clubs, owing, as our boys put it, that the Flesherton boys felt sure of a sound drubbing, and resorted to the base subterfuge of all cowards—technicalities! The man of our club, whom they objected to, was the original organizer of our club, has been identified with it ever since, and to-day is a member of the Eugenia Club only.

"Drowning men catch at straws" is no less old than true, and the Flesherton Club must have been sorely pressed for an excuse to avoid a contest with their twice victorious opponents, by ruling against Mr. Bull, who was temporarily a non-resident of Eugenia. The Eugenia boys were determined to stand by their chief, and they receive the honorable consideration of our community in so doing. But, what may not be said of the quack morals of the virtuous Flehertonians, who proposed an amalgamated team of Flesherton and Eugenia, with Mr. Bull as part of the Eugenia contingent, to play either Owen Sound or Meaford Clubs? The professional cry is an empty bubble. Three years ago, when Eugenia Club was in its professional infancy, Flesherton courted the opportunity of playing our club against the self same Harry Bull, because they hoped to reap a cowardly share of cheap popularity.

On behalf of
EUGENIA BASE BALL CLUB.

Flesherton Station.

The removal of goods from one store to another here, during the "silent watches of the night," formed a rather interesting "panorama" for some of the Station people who had not retired until late, one night recently. What did it mean?
