DR. LANDERKIN'S DEFENCE.

Dr. Landerkin's defence of his position on the Riel question, in last week's issue of THE ADVANCE, would have been replied to in the same issue by us, had it not been that our columns were overcrowded with live news matter. However, it is not too late to do so yet.

The first paragraph of the Dr's letter is calculated to convey the impression that we have been endeavoring to create prejudice against him in South Grey, which constituency he represents in the House of Commons. The facts say otherwise. THE ADVANCE is "not a hide bound partizan," as the member for South Grey very properly intimates. It has on two or three occasions given the gentleman full credit for faithful discharge of his duty to his constituents in the House. It also now gives him credit for his splendid speech relative to the subsidizing of local railways by the Government. But it does think, that the Dr. did not act in the interests of the majority of his constituents by voting with Mr. Blake against the legality or constitutionality of the execution of the double-dyed traitor, Louis Riel. The execution was not done "at the bidding of a section of the Protestant community," but in the best interests of the nation, nor have we ever said anything which would justify the implication. It was not "the preservation of any political party" that led to the execution of Riel, but it was done on the broad principles of justice and for the preservation of the nation's peace and honor. Had the Government of Sir John solely desired the "preservation of their political party," the traitor Riel might have escaped the gallows and lived to see another insurrection in the North-West, with himself at the head thereof.

Everybody knows, or ought to know, that French Canadian influence has exercised a most baneful and pernicious effect upon our Dominion politics. The Globe has never lost an occasion to refer to the alleged fact that Sir John was tied to French-Canadian apron strings, and that every time the strings were pulled Sir John was compelled to dance to the music to the national dishonor. Well, apparently Sir John cut those apron strings, when, in direct opposition to the will of three-fourths of the French-Canadian race, he sanctioned the execution of Riel. But does the Globe, Mr. Blake, Dr. Landerkin, and the small fry, give him credit for doing a noble action? Of course not. They at once tie themselves to the apron strings of the French-Canadians, and seek by fanning racial flames and denouncing the most righteous act the Conservative Government ever performed, to regain the reins of Government for themselves!

It is not the honesty of Mr. Blake or Dr. Landerkin we call into question, however. They might have been honest, and no doubt were, upon the stand they took, but in face of the evidence of the greatest judicial minds in this country, their course was, to the unprejudiced politician and patriot, manifestly unfair and unjust, however honest.

In face of the convincing evidence of the medical experts and others, we are astonished that Dr. Lankerkin should think Riel was insane. But if he were, he was a dangerous man all the same. From the time, when under the protecting wing of Archbishop Tasche, he attended school, until the rebellion of 1870, Riel was a sullen and morose, specimen of humanity. He established a "Provisional Government"—which was never recognized by constitutional authority—and showed his cruel and vicious disposition in the horrible murder of Thomas Scott. He was a traitor and murderer then, and doubly so when in the spring of last year he crossed over from Montana into the North-West, and again raised the standard of Rebellion. Were his plans of campaign, his letters to Indian chiefs inciting them to deeds of bloodshed and horror, evidence of an unsound mind? Admitting his insanity, his bloody deeds, his twice inciting to revolt and all the horrors of an Indian war, would be sufficient to warrant any Government under heaven removing him from the face of the earth. Guitteau was guilty of far less crime, and Guitteau paid the penalty upon the scaffold, although undoubtedly he was insane. So perish all murderers and traitors, say we!—sane or insane!

The Dr. refers also to the rebellion of 1870, and that famous letter of Sir John's to the Archbishop of St. Boniface, to show, he says, that Sir. John did not act right. The Dr. knows as well as we can tell him, that occasionally there are national exigencies. There have been such in the history of every nation: times when it becomes necessary to use money to accomplish certain ends, which would be in the best interests of the nation. Such was certainly the case when Sir John wrote that oft quoted letter. But the money paid to remove Riel from the country was not the work of Sir. John. A couple of prominent gentlemen in the North-West considered it necessary to do something of the sort, for the peace of the country, and they acted accordingly, but used private funds, which, however the Government, very properly made good; and the letter quoted by the Dr. contained one of the remittances.

We have a faint conception of seeing somewhere, that Louis Riel signed his name in the House of Commons register, as member for Provencher, during the regime of Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Blake, after passing a motion offering $5,000 reward for the apprehension of Riel, said motion being endorsed by Mr. Blake. If we are to condemn Sir John for his action in regard to the first rebellion of Riel, how can Mr. Edward Blake be held blameless? Precedent after precedent can be produced, in the history of all great nations, to show that Sir John's course was not uncommon amongst great statesmen, when national exigencies arose; but where, in all the annals of history, do we find a precedent in the case of those members of the Reform Government who did not protest against or strive to prevent an outlaw & murderer registering his name and taking his seat in the House of Commons?

But then the Doctor says that an amnesty was granted to Gabriel Dumont just before the recent Chambly election in Quebec province, and that Dumont was more responsible for the blood shed during the recent rebellion than Riel. Admitting that Dumont has been granted an amnesty, we emphatically take exception to the Dr's statement, that Dumont was the more responsible man of the two in the rebellion, and our exception is most clearly borne out by General Middleton's report, and well authenticated facts from other sources. Besides, while Riel twice raised the standard of rebellion, and was therefore doubly guilty,—and executive clemency was extended to him the first time—Dumont appears as a minor political offender (although a prominent one) and that only once. If he be guilty of a second treasonable offence, however, as was Riel, his fate will be similar to that of the latter.

THE STANDARD AND DR. CHRISTOE.

Bro. Farewell, of the Thornbury Standard, will no doubt excuse us for being greatly amused at some of his references to our popular citizen, Dr. Christoe, in last week's issue of the Standard. At the same time we feel annoyed when we consider the false position the Standard—unwittingly, no doubt—places the Dr. before his readers. We blame our contemporary for not exercising more care.

First, then, the Doctor is not a local preacher in any church, although he occasionally delivers very interesting addresses in the church of his adoption. He never speaks from the pulpit even, but from the platform inside the altar railing. Besides the ADVANCE did not say he preached, as the Standard intimates. So that the Standard is mistaken and not Dr. Christoe.

Then the Standard refers to Norman Boyles as a man of "courage, honor and consistency." Great Caesar's ghost! Again the Standard says: "Norman Boyles is no simpleton, but a plain, blunt honest man." Thunder and turf!! Poor Norman's heart will go pitty-pat if somebody reads that to him. Why, everybody around here knows that Norman is half-witted, if not indeed a lunatic. If you told him he possessed "courage, honor, and consistency," the chances are he would open his eyes to their fullest extent, and after staring at you for a few minutes, say you were a "gate big fool!" or some other equally polite term. Perhaps he might fling a brick bat or a stone at your head.

It is to be hoped the Standard will now be sufficiently enlightened, upon two points at least, to prevent further mistakes in this respect. As regards the Inspectorate discussion, we have nothing to say. Our County Councillors are quite competent, we think, to make a wise selection from the list of possible applicants.

The Atlantic Mail.

From The Montreal Daily Star.

The shipping community is just now giving considerable attention to the Atlantic mail service between Great Britain and Canada owing to the advertisement by the Government asking tenders for carrying the mails between Canada and England for five years from April next. It is a pretty sure thing that the competition which has usually taken place between the Allen and Dominion Lines over this contract will not be seen on this occasion, and that these lines will make a joint tender for the contract as they manage it at present, divided between the two lines. The Beaver Line will also probably tender this year, although it has not been decided to do so yet. This line has two steamers, the "Lake Superior" and "Lake Huron," which are more speedy than several of the vessels at present carrying the mails, and, with the new vessel now building, will be in a good position to tender but for one thing, which is that the Government specifies that no cattle shall be carried on mail steamers. As is well known the Beaver Line does a large cattle trade. Some excitement has been caused by the report that it is the intention of the Canadian Pacific Railway, or more correctly, some of the capitalists connected with the undertaking, to put in a tender on behalf of a projected line of steamers which are to possess very superior speed to the present mail vessels. It is reported that the visit of Sir. Donald A. Smith, Sir George Stephen and Mr. Angus to England, is in connection with this scheme, and it is well known that Mr. Van Horne is a warm advocate of a faster Atlantic service as he fears that the trade will be completely drawn away from Montreal by the swifter vessels of the American lines.

A leading shipping man informed a Star reporter to-day that he thought the establishment of a Canadian line of steamers to compete with the Ameican lines, so far as speed is concerned, would be impossible without very large Government subsidies. The experience of the American companies has been that money is lost by the fast steamers, which are expensive beyond general belief, and they have the advantage of an enormous passenger traffic, which is lacking in Canada. He thought that the fairest way would be to divide the mail among the lines and single out the fastest vessels of all the lines running to Montreal for the mail service.

Meaford Road.

From our own Correspondent,

The officials of the Wesley church are going to get it painted and fixed up generally. This is a much needed improvement and should have been done before this; but "better late than never."

Messrs. Ryder and McLauchlan, bricklayers, are busy putting up Mr. Carson's house.

Messrs. Warling and Brodie are putting up a new house for Mrs. Foley.

Messrs. Ross and Sparling are out on the war-path again with their steam threshing machine.

The farmers are busy now securing their crops, which, notwithstanding the very dry weathor that we have had, are good—some of them being extra. Mr. D. Walker says that he has two fields of peas that cannot be beaten.

Mr. Gilbert came very near having his house burned down last week. Had it not been that Mr. Gilbert saw it in time and had a supply of water on hand, it would not have been saved.

Mr. W. Badger, one of our old School Teachers, gave us a short visit last week. He is looking as young and fresh as ever. He is living in Manitoba at present.

$300.00 Reward!

Whereas some evil disposed person, or persons, did, early on the morning of Saturday last, the 6th instant, set fire to my new House, in course of completion, on Lot Number Seven, on the South side of Napoleon street, in the Town of Eugenia, whereby the said House was totally burned,

Notice is hereby given, that I will give a reward of One Hundred Dollars to any person who will give such information as shall lead to the conviction of the guilty party. This, together with the Two Hundred Dollars offered by the Township Council for the discovery of incendiarism in the Township, will make the above named Three Hundred Dollars. The informant's name will, if possible, be kept private.
