STARVED NERVES

The Cause of Neuralgia—It Must be Treated Through the Blood

Neuralgia is a cry of the nerves for more and better blood. It literally means that the nerves are being starved. Like every other part of the body the nerves receive their nourishment through the blood. There is therefore no doubt that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure the worst cases of neuralgia. They actually make new, rich blood, carrying to the starved nerves the elements they need, thus driving away the sharp, torturing pains which nearly drives the sufferer wild. So many cases of neuralgia have yielded to treatment through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that every sufferer from this dreaded trouble should lose no time in giving the Pills a fair trial. Mrs. Sophia H. Johnson, Mozan, Sask., says: "For upwards of ten years I was a periodical sufferer from neuralgia. It located in the side of my face and in the jaw, which would actually click every time I opened or closed my mouth. At times the pains would be almost unendurable, and as time went on, my whole nervous system seemed to be affected. I was constantly doctoring, but the doctor did not seem to be able to give me permanent relief, and at last I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got a half dozen boxes, and before they were half gone I felt much better, and by the time I had used them all every symptom of the trouble had gone, and I was enjoying a comfort I had not known for years. I have since remained in the best of health, and can only say I owe the joy of living without pain to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MAGUEY PLANT.

The Mexican Planter's Wealth is Mainly in the Cactus.

When a Mexican owns field after field of maguey he is considered wealthy, for these plantations are quite valuable, says the Houston Post. After a slip of maguey is planted it does not require much care, because the climate of Mexico just suits it. When the century plant is seven years old it is said to be full grown and worth about $12. Then a large, fleshy cone with flowers in it grows amidst the heavy green leaves. This is just what the planter has been waiting for. Then he cuts the cone, leaving a bowl-like hollow in the heart of the plant. Two or three times a day this maguey bowl fills up with sap, so that it has to be drawn out by the gardener, who puts it in a pigskin vessel which he carries on his back. It is said that a healthy plant gives the Mexican over a gallon of this sap every day. Perhaps you would not like this juice, but when the children of the hot lands drink it fresh from the plant they call it "honey water." When the juice is put in large vats and fermented it is called "pulque," but then it is not good for the Mexicans, for those who drink it become sleepy and stupid.

No part of the maguey is wasted. The roots of the century plant make such good food that they are often boiled and eaten. Sometimes the leaves are used for fuel, but often they are dried and put on the outside of houses, just as we would use shingles.

When the Mexican wants some very cold water he makes a trough of fresh green maguey leaves and pours water into it. As the oil evaporates from the leaves the water in the trough becomes so cold that it almost freezes. Itn't that a queer water cooler The century plant leaves are so very stringy or fibrous that they furnish materials for making a kind of coarse thread which the Mexicans weave into cloth. Sometimes heavy twine or rope is made from the fibre, too. When this rope is twisted into coarse mats the Mexicans use them for chairs in the day and beds at night. Even the stickers or thorns are useful, for they serve as needles or nails.

When a large white caterpillar crawls over the maguey he had better beware that a Mexican does not see him, or else he will soon be cooking in a pot, for the poor man who works in the field thinks that such a dish is a luxury.

INDIA'S NATIVE PRINCES.

Wonderful Divergence in Appearance and Character.

India is governed by the British, but only part of it is governed directly by them. Of the 1,766,642 square miles of India 690,000 square miles are under the rule of the native princes, as are 66,000,000 out of the 300,000,000 inhabitants. There are some 6,000 native chiefs, big and little, from the Nazim, the ruler of Hyderabad, with its population of 11,000,000, its territory of 82,698 square miles and its revenues of $12,000,000, down to a petty chief, with a few square miles of territory, and a few thousands a year of revenue.

There is as much variety in their breeding and bearing, and ability as in their territories and revenues. Some of them trace their ancestry straight back to the first conquerors from the North; others are descended from Arab, Tartar, or Afghan invaders; others are the descendants of court favorites and their ancestral right to rank is as illegitimate as some of the proud names in England and France, while others are heirs of rough soldiers who grabbed what they could and held it when the Mughal empire went to pieces.

Some are highly educated, others ignorant; some are Anglicized, some Pariscized, devoting much time, those to cricket, racing, polo; and these to such European travel as they are permitted, and lazy licentiousness both at home and abroad. There are fine gentlemen among them, as chivalrous and as proud as any noble in Europe, and there are others who are mere naughty schoolboys. There are not a few who spend their money on schools and colleges and museums, on irrigation works and tramways, on roads and bridges and model prisons, and who pride themselves on the efficiency and smartness of their Imperial Service troops; and others who throw thousands about on motor cars, jewels, dancing girls, or favorite wives, and hideous Brummagem furniture and pictures. There are burly, heavy-shouldered, big-hipped, gross-featured princes who look like brown caricatures of Ruben's women, and there are lithe, muscular, fine-featured fellows, who look fit for a tussle with a tiger, and show their breeding even in their finger-tips.—Scribner's

THE EXPLOSIVE.

Giants That Man Has Succeeded in Conquering.

The fairy story of a large and powerful genie confined in a small jar is no more wonderful than is the true story of a bit of powder packed in a cartridge; when the powder is exploded it propels far and with terrific speed. A Chinaman first discovered the power of explosives when he invented gunpowder, and it has proved to be the greatest of all the forces that have changed the maps of nations, writes Raymond Perry in St. Nicholas.

Explosives so powerful have been discovered now that no gun can be made strong enough to be discharged more than a comparatively small number of times; and there are machine guns, submarine mines and torpedoes—engines of destruction so powerful that no battle either on land or sea could last more than a few hours. Indeed, it is predicted that soon no two nations will dare to go to war, so terrible would be the consequences to themselves and the rest of the world.

While explosives are needed less and less for war than formerly, they are used more and more in the victories of peace. When the genie was let out of the jar he built great palaces for his master and transported him great distances by land, by sea and in the air; and that is just what the giant explosive is doing to-day for man, his master. The power of dynamite is blasting rock for the foundation of skyscrapers and bridge piers, and boring tunnels through the solid mountains; while gasoline the new explosive, is used for transportation in automobiles on land, in motor boats in the water, and in aeroplanes in the air, thus finally accomplishing the dream that man has cherished for centuries—the marvel of human flight.

A REEL JOKE.

It was the elder's day at the plate, and he was shaving himself prior to church time, when he made a slight cut with the razor on the extreme end of his nose. Calling his wife, he asked her if she had any court plaster.

"You will find some in my sewing-basket," she said.

At church, in assisting with the collection, he noticed everyone smile as he passed the plate. Very much annoyed, he asked one of his assistants if there was anything wrong with his appearance.

"I should say there was," answered the assistant. "What is that upon your nose?"

"Court plaster," was the reply.

"No," said the friend; "it is the label from a spool of cotton. It says, 'Warranted 200 yards.'"

FOR TEETHING BABIES

There is only one medicine for teething babies—that is one that will make teething easy and at the same time can be given with absolute safety. That medicine is Baby's Own Tablets—every box of which is sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to be free from all those injurious opiates and narcotics which make "soothing" stuffs so harmful. Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. George Leblanc, St. Pamphile, Que., says: "I used Baby's Own Tablets for my baby when he was teething and constipated and found them an excellent remedy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUBLETTING A CONTRACT.

A benevolent old lady happened one day to be visiting a school where a young incorrigible was undergoing punishment for a series of misdemeanors.

The teacher cited him as "the worst boy in the school—one I can't do anything with. I've tried everything in the way of punishment."

"Have yo utried kindness?" was the gentle inquiry.

"I did at first, but I've got beyond that now."

At the close of the visit the lady asked the boy if he would call and see her on the following Saturday. A boy arrived promptly at the hour appointed. The old lady showed him her best pictures, played her liveliest music, and set before him a delicious lunch on her daintiest china. Then she thought it about time to begin her little sermon.

"My dear," she began, "were you not very unhappy to have to stand in the corner before all the class for punishment?"

"Please, ma'am," broke in the boy, with his mouth full of cake, "that wasn't me you saw. It was Pete. He gave me ten cents to come here and take your jawing."

The Pure Food Law stopped the sale of hundreds of fraudulant medicines. They could not stand investigation. Hamlins Wizard Oil has stood the test of investigation for nearly sixty years.

EXPERIENCED.

"How long have you been married?"

"So long that I've got so that I can hook a dress with one hand."

A stitch in time saves nine, and every house fly killed early saves a thousand at least later on. Wilson's Fly Pads will kill many times more flies than any other article.

Husband—"My dear, I thought we were going to practise economy for a time." Wife—"So we are, dear. I went down and countermanded the order you gave your tailor for a suit, and bought a bonnet that cost only half the amount."

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Cure is its strongest recommendation. It seldom fails.

SAILOR'S DEFINITION.

Teacher—Freddy, what is a dromedary?

Little Freddy—Please, teacher, a dromedary is a two-masted camel.

Housekeepers are strongly advised to commence the use of Wilson's Fly Pads early, because a few flies killed in June would otherwise become a host by August.

In order to rid ourselves of dry, lonesome monotony, it is necessary to have a personality and let it assert itself.

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the tissues and in the joints. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are known to have effected many remarkable cures, and their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will convince anyone of their value.

There are pleasures, and occupations, and duties for each day of our lives, and we must do things to-day which are of to-day.

ODDITIES OF ENGLISH WORDS

There are in the English language but two words in which the five vowels occur in their alphabetical order—abstemious and facetious. Abracadabra and dirigibility are examples of the very few words in which the same vowel occurs five times in succession as the base of as many distinct syllables. Unintelligibility has the greatest number of syllables in proportion to the number of letters. Straightforwardness and great-granddaughter have the greatest number of letters in proportion to the number of syllables.

CHILD BURNED WILL.

English Court Allowed the Claim of Widow.

At Christmas time, when everything was cheerful and one could divert oneself as one would, a little girl of eight drew open an unlocked drawer and came on a piece of blue paper, with no writing whatever on one side of it. When she produced doll's houses and trees, kite-flying episodes, and wonderful fashions to her heart's content, she tore up the paper and put it in the fire. It was her father's will.

This free and unfettered exercise of the artistic faculty produced some difficulty in the English Probate Court recently. Her mother, Mrs. Golden, the widow of a butler, moved to obtain probate of her husband's will. The eight-year-old limner was cited as defendant.

Counsel for the widow said that Mr. Golden made a will leaving his property to his wife, but it was not forthcoming at the time of his death. The question at issue was whether he revoked it or not. Judgment was eventually given for Mr. Golden's will of June, 1909, in favor of the wife, on the terms set out in the claim.

If attacked with cholera or summer complaint of any kind send at once for a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and use it according to directions. It acts with wonderful rapidity in subduing that dreadful disease that weakens the strongest man and that destroys the young and delicate. Those who have used this cholera medicine say it acts promptly, and never fails to effect a thorough cure.

She longed for a new hat. So she began to worry her husband for a new dress. He—"A new dress! Can't afford it. If you wanted gloves, or a new hat, I wouldn't mind. But a new dress!" She—"Well, don't get flurried, dearest! You know I always give in. So just buy me a new hat."

For Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has ranked as the most effective preparation manufactured, and it always maintains its reputation.

"Yes," said Mrs. Wordsworth; "the family are most interesting. John dances divinely, Tom sings like an angel, Susanne paints with great taste." "And Henry?" "Oh, Henry! Well, he's rather a dull sort of a fellow, you know. He only works and supports the others."

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

"What am oratory, Brudder Jackson?" "Brudder Simmins, I will elucidate. If you says black am white, dat am foolish. But if you says black AM white, an' bellers like a bull an' pounds on a table wif bofe fists, dat am oratory, an' some people will believe you."

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been used for over SIXTY YEARS by MILLIONS of MOTHERS for their CHILDREN WHILE TEETHING, with PERFECT SUCCESS. It SOOTHES the CHILD, SOFTENS the GUMS, ALLAYS all PAIN; CURES WIND COLIC, and is the best remedy for DIARRHŒA. It is absolutely harmless. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Harker—"Doesn't Cuttem, the tailor, remind you of a doctor?" Parker—"I should say not. He reminds me of that little bill I owe him every time we meet."

For Burns and Scalds.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will take the fire out of a burn or scald more rapidly than any other preparation. It should be at hand in every kitchen so that it may be available at any time. There is no preparation required. Just apply the oil to the burn or scald and the pain will abate and in a short time cease altogether.

"Oh, love," sighed the sentimental lover, "I would these were the knightly days of old, that I might go forth and perform some brave deed to prove my love." "But so you may, George," interrupted the girl. "Go forth and speak to father."

ANTICIPATION.

The new maid seemed eminently satisfactory, but the mistress of the house thought a few words of advice would be just as well.

"And remember," she concluded, "that I expect you to be very reticent about what you hear when you are waiting at table."

"Certainly, madam, certainly!" replied the treasure. But then her face lit up with an innocent curiosity. "May I ask, madam, if there will be much to be reticent about?"

A Pill that Proves Its Value.—Those of weak stomach will find strength in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they serve to maintain the healthful action of the stomach and the liver, irregularities in which are most distressing. Dyspeptics are well acquainted with them and value them at their proper worth. They have afforded relief when other preparations have failed, and have effected cures in ailments of long standing where other medicines were found unavailing.

The boy of the family, the smart little son of an editor, had just passed his ninth birthday, and delighted in stirring things up whenever he found a chance. On his way to school one day he popped into a confectioner's. "Say, mister,' he called out, "do you keep fondants?" "Oh, yes," replied the confectioner, "we've kept them for years." "Well," returned the boy, starting for the door, "just advertise in pa's paper, and then you won't keep them so long."

Don't ignore the few house flies you see in June. Unless you commence using Wilson's Fly Pads early your house will be overrun by them in midsummer.
