Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor, and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular, and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night, and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system, and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again, and all my color, spirits, vigor, and health of former days have returned to stay."

Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone, Co., Kingston, Ont.

What We Can Teach The Americans

By ARTHUR HAWKES.

Can you teach your grandmother to suck eggs? Sometimes; for grandmothers aren't always clever.

"I'm very sorry, Mr. Bisfit," said an eminent judge to a lawyer who had argued with him instead of arguing before him, "but I can't teach you any law."

"That is so, my lord," dryly replied the lawyer, and sat down.

The Americans are more willing to be taught than we suppose. They have more to learn then they suppose. Not many of them think they can learn anything from Canada or Canadians. To them the idea of learning from us is about as sensible as the idea of an elephant teaching a gress-hopper to hop.

A while ago a party of United States editors was travelling to Winnipeg from Chicago. The talk turned to Canadian affairs and presently to elections. Said one from Kansas:

"But they don't have elections in Canada. Their public officials are appointed from England, aren't they?"

The Kansas editor's idea was a little too typical. His countrymen regarded us, I was going to say, as a poor relation, but we were scarcely in that class. The notion was pretty well expressed six months ago by the Washington Star, which said, "The native Canadian . . . is merely a dispised colonist, a species of political outcast, like the man without a country."

This kind of talk represents a traditional habit of despising the state of Canada, and of expecting that the country would come to the United States like a pile of filings to a magnet. Our neighbors could not understand how any white people could want to remain outside their political fence. At first when we declined to join them they were amused, then they were amazed. Then they were displeased, and they put up a tariff wall that was intended to starve us into a political marriage with them.

That was when Canada of the St. Lawrence valley had no winter access to Europe except through American ports; and when only a few then of the long vision saw a prosperous, populated Canada; the acknowledged leader of the younger commonwealths of the British Empire.

They thought we must come in. I have often been asked, in the United States, before the present revival of Reciprocity was put on the boards, whether I didn't think Canada was bound to come into the Union.

And now that Reciprocity has come to serve the very policy for which the United States denied it in the years ago—I mean the aggrandizement of the United States—it is taken for granted by our neighbors that union is bound to follow. The new phrase among the foreign diplomats at Washington is truthfully reported to be "From the Pole to Panama."

Now, what is the answer of our Neverlooks to this dominant temper in the United States? It is that if they want union, we don't. The fool that rocks the boat always forgets that there is a great deal more water than boat. The little fellow who is told that he must choose whether he will travel his own way, or with the big fellow who personally did all he could to thwart his business ambitions; and who chooses the big fellow in the belief that he is serving his own permanent interests—well; it doesn't seem much use telling him he is at the parting of the ways.

The American says, "Train with me. Come my way. Never mind the plans you have been making for yourself."

What will you reply? Can you teach him anything? You can. If you were Canada's spokesman this is about what you would say:

"Permit me to offer you the lesson you taught me. When I was a national infant I thought I needed your help, and that without it I could not attain the stature of a man. I wanted to sell my goods to you. You turned your back on me. You did it many times. You showed me how to rely on myself and my kinsmen across the seas. I did not know what I could do till I tried.

"The last time I sent my representative to you he came back with the story of your own hardness, and with the news of the sure foundation on which my prosperity could rest. His name was Laurier, and he informed you, he informed the rest of the world, that I had turned my back on the hopes that had centred in you; and had turned my face to British business, and was building railways to make secure and permanent that same business.

"The difference between what I thought I needed, a long time ago, and what I now know I can do without, is the difference between a poor, timid farmer looking for a loan and that same farmer turned bank director.

"I admire you. Your business ability is marvellous. You have a perfect genius for obtaining control.

"I have discovered that linked with the mere buying and selling across a counter, and with the hauling of wheat in a box-car, there are deep and strong tides of national life. You don't hesitate to tell me you want to control my trade. I don't intend to have it controlled. You had your chance when I was young and green. I've got a country that hasn't all the advantages of climate and variety of resources that yours has. But it is one of a world-wide cluster of countries that have the greatest possible part to play in the world's history. It reaches out to the Old World from its Eastern courts. It touches all the wealth of Asia and the Islands of the Sea, from its shores on the Pacific. I have an asset in the Old Land that you have forfeited. I have a stake in the Orient that you cannot hope to emulate. I have a destiny, which a course, unfettered by entanglements with you, will help to make glorious. You tell me that I am at the parting ways. So let it be. You go your way; I'll go mine."

And the American will learn a whole lot when you talk to him like that.

A woman hurt in a bargain counter rush at Minneapolis sued the proprietor. Not only was she badly bruised, but she missed the bargain. Erin Advocate.

The attendance at the Canadian National Exhibition is jumping up at the rate of 100,000 a year. In 1908 it was 600,000; In 1909 it was 752,000; in 1910 it was 837,000. This year it should hit the million mark.—Bolton Enterprise.

A tomato grower near Kingston sent away a hundred 11 quart baskets last week, and received a cheque back for a trifle over $200. Another grower has s way in the bank about a thousand dollars from his tomatoes already, and the season not half through yet.

Rev. J. A. Ayerst, Provincial Inspector in Local Option Districts, has resigned to take a position with the Alberta Moral and Social Reform League. He filled a position in a manner that was above suspicion, and it will be a difficult task to get another man of equal satisfaction.—Star and Vidette.

Misfortunes never come single handed, it is said, Malcom McLeod of Belfountain certainly had his share on Monday last. A sucking colt died in the forenoon and in the afternoon a two-year-old colt hung itself in the stable, and in the evening a valuable cow got stuck in the mire near Dufferin lake and was drowned.—Shelburne Free Press.

A very serious accident happened to Mr. Andy Mitchell in Williamsford on Friday afternoon. He was driving a tank of Mr. Jim Edmunds threshing outfit when the horses became frightened and bolted overthrowing the tank which pinned Mr. Mitchell to the ground. Eager hands raised it up and word was sent for Dr. Oldham, who found a compound fracture of both bones of the right leg and both arms broken just above the wrist. The Dr. had him removed to the Owen Sound hospital.—Markdale Standard.

Occasionally one will hear the remark, "I wish I was out of this town" and then one feels like saying, "I wish you were" for a man who stands on the street corners, chewing and spitting, telling obscence stories, cursing the town, finding fault with his grandmother because she was a woman, claiming that the merchants are a lot of theives, that the newspaper man would skin a man to a finish, and a whole lot more, is a nuisance and an abomination.

About two weeks ago a black dog scoured around a part of Garafraxa in a most suspicious manner, snapping and biting at stock and other things, and though several people noticed it, none took sufficient interest to have the dog destroyed. It was shot near Erin, and the head sent to Toronto for examination when the authorites pronounced it the worst case of rabies that had come before them. What danger may result from the dog's actions is not yet known, but a calf of Alex. Carroll's was destroyed on Tuesday because it was clean crazy, also some pigs or sheep of Joseph Turner's. The utmost caution should be exercised by farmers to prevent any affected animals doing more damage.—Star and Vidette.

The following item, taken from the Welland Telegraph, refers to the bravery of Stanley Stephenson, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. David Fortney of Mildmay:—John Parks, aged elven years, in swimming in the canal opposite the old Beatty plant on Sunday afternoon. He was using a pair of water wings, which slipped out from under him, leaving him in eight fett of water without any support. Another lad who swam to his rescue was grabbed by the neck and almost pulled under. Stanley Stephenson, aged fifteen years, son of Contractor Stephenson of Garner Avenue, who was just getting dressed, heard their cries for help. He plunged into the water and soon had both boys on shore, badly frightened, but not injured. Stephenson learned to swim againt the wishes of his parents. He can now appreciate the value of learning that manly art. He deserve great credit for his presence of mind and timely assistance.—Mildmay Gazette.

Meaford High School

WILL RE-OPEN ON

Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1911

When classes will be formed for Matriculation into all the professions, entrance into the Normal Schools and into the Faculties of Education in Commercial Specialist and Commercial Diploma.

The rapid growth of this school is a striking illustration of that true old adage that "nothing succeeds like success."

We would like all parents having children to educate to consider seriously the following points about this High School:

(1) Building, grounds and equipment unexcelled in the Province, four rooms and a gymnasium; healthy town, absolutely free from fevers; good board in private families—cheaper than in cities. Fees $10 a year.

(2) The splendid work of this school has attracted to it from far and near, large numbers of students, and has caused its attendance to increase rapidly. During 1910 our students came from thirty-seven different counties.

(3) The high stand taken by its students in the various universities and the large number of its university graduates holding fellowships in Canadian and American colleges.

(4) A new and up-to-date science room fully equipped, in which the student performs his own experiment under the supervision of the teacher.

(5) A fully organized Commercial Department in Book-keeping, Stenography, Business Law, Type-writing, English Branches, in the hands of a specialist who is a chartered accountant; special attention given to Writing and Spelling. This department is equipped with seven of the latest up-to-date Underwood typewriters. Each graduate receives a beautiful diploma. Our graduates easily obtain positions. No expensive fees to pay.

RECORD FOR 1911

(6) In 1911 this school passed 17 candidates for entrance into the Normal schools, 11 for Junior Matriculation, 4 for entrance into the Faculties of Education, 3 for Commercial Diplomas.

(7) Inspector Wetherall in his last report says: It is with unusual pleasure that I make my first report on the Meaford High School. No school in the Province is in a more flourishing condition. The trustees are alert and progressive and all the members of the staff are energetic and capable. The spirit of the school is excellent and impresses a stranger at once as quite out of the common,
