A STORM ON GALILEE.

Squalls That Last for An Hour Do Great Havoc.

The Sea of Galilee is not always calm. The mountains immediately adjoining are 2,000 feet high, and through their deep gorges the storm winds are sucked into the hollow of the lake, so that sudden squalls come literally out of a blue sky.

One charming spring morning we started out to sail from Tiberias to Capernaum, says a writer in the Travel Magazine. There was not a ripple on the water or a cloud in the heavens. But when we were a quarter of a mile from shore our boatmen noticed a band of rough water rushing toward us from the other side of the lake. In spite of our remonstrances, they immediately gave up the plan for making Capernaum, took down sail with such frantic haste that they nearly upset the boat, and then rowed for the land with all their might and with such excited urgings to one another that we thought them a very cowardly crew.

But hardly had the boat been beached in a sheltering cove when the wind was blowing down on us from the mountains and the heavy breakers were foaming along the shore as far out into the lake as we could see. A quarter of an hour later later the Sea of Galilee was again as level as a mirror, and only a soft, warm breeze was blowing over the smiling waters.

THE KING AND MELANIE.

A Little Incident Which Shows the Kindness of The King.

King George is not destitute of the tact and graciousness which made his father beloved, even though he may not possess them in so remarkable a degree. The little incident which follows was printed in the New York Sun. It gives a pleasing glimpse of the new King, and implies his entire approbation of the entente cordiale with the nation across the Channel.

Melanie is a little French servant, who lives with an English family in London. She has not been there very long, and has not had time to learn the language. But she is generally pleased with her English life, except that she finds that it rains a great deal, and that the sky is often gloomy with the smoke of the great city.

The other day she was sent by her mistress to accompany Miss Jenny, the daughter of the house, in Hyde Park. When she arrived there, and was about to cross the Row, she was brought to a standstill by a large crowd. Knowing that the English are serious people, who do not waste their time merely for the pleasure of wasting it, she waited to see what would happen.

And presently the King and the Queen went by on horseback. Riding in front of them were two of the royal children, and three equerries were in attendance in the rear. The King and Queen bowed right and left, and the crowd took off their hats and applauded with their hands, and the little bonne, knowing no English, but apprehending from her young English companion that it was the sovereign of the English people, cried in her native tongue, "Vive le roi! Vive la reine!"

Now Melanie called so loudly, and in so strong a voice, that every one heard, including their majesties, who smiled very graciously, and reining in their horses, they came close by to where the young girl stood. She was fluttered with fear, until the King spoke, and said, in beautiful French:

"There is a person here who has greeted us in French; we want to thank her." Whereupon the young servant owned that it was she who had cried, "Vive le roi!"

Then his majesty said, "It is the first time that any one has called, 'Vive le roi!' in French since I came to the throne. My father often had the pleasure to being greeted in this way."

Then the Queen asked, in French, which she seemed to speak with less facility than the King, "Have you been long in London?" and Melanie answered, "About six months."

"I think the English bien-gentils et bien polis," she further answered the King, and made his majesty laugh by saying that she would like England very much if it did not rain so constantly.

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so serious that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off by the disease.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk worked a complete cure."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. NEW KIND OF FRUIT.

A new kind of fruit has been discovered in a garden at Dunstable, Bedfordshire, England. It is neither a gooseberry nor a black currant, and yet possesses the qualities of both. The wood is distinctly that of a gooseberry, but the berries, which are as large as a cherry, and maroon in color, are growing in bunches exactly like those of black currants, while the flavor is difficult to define. At the Dunstable Horticultural Show it was agreed that a new fruit for the table may be the outcome of the strange cross.

An Easy Pill to Take.—Some persons have repugnance to pills because of their nauseating taste. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so prepared as to make them agreeable to the most fastidious. The most delicate can take them without feeling the revulsion that follows the taking of ordinary pills. This is one reason for the popularity of these celebrated pills, but the main reason is their high tonical quality as a medicine for the stomach.

The Bowels Must Act Healthy.—In most ailments the first care of the medical man is to see that the bowels are open and fully performing their functions. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded that certain ingredients in them act on the bowels solely and they are the very best medicine available to produce healthy action of the bowels. Indeed, there is no other specific so serviceable in keeping the digestive organs in healthful action.

KISSING THE BRIDE.

At a certain church it is the pleasing custom at a marriage for the clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young lady who was about to be married in the church did not relish the prospect, and instructed her prospective husband when making arrangements to tell the clergyman that she did not wish him to kiss her. The bridegroom did as directed.

"Well, George," said the young lady when he appeared, "did you tell the clergyman that I did not wish him to kiss me?"

"Oh, yes."

"And what did he say?"

"He said that in that case he would charge only half the usual fee."

The laughter and tears of a woman are equally deceptive.

TOO MUCH GOLD THE CAUSE.

Scientist Assigns New Reason for High Cost of Living.

An interesting suggestion is made in regard to the increased cost of living, which, like an earth wave, has sent a tremor throughout Europe, causing food riots in France, an outcry against the butchers in Belgium, and protests against dearer meat and milk in Germany, while it is largely responsible for the labor unrest in England.

This suggestion is that the enormous output of gold in recent years has upset the balance of prices and that the world has not yet shaken itself down to a true adjustment.

Statistics show conclusively that in England, on the continent, and in North America nearly all the commoner and most necessary articles of food have been steadily rising in price since the century opened. Meat, especially bacon, in England the poor man's favorite food; milk, bread and sugar all cost more. It is calculated that there is a ten per cent. increase in the weekly budget of household expenses in England.

Prof. Chapman at the meeting of the British Association predicted that the next three years would be an era of strikes, due to the fact that, whereas up to 1896 the cost of living had been falling it had since then been rising.

Whether the corn be of old or new growth, it must yield to Holloway's Corn Cure, the simplest and best cure offered to the public.

It Testifies for Itself.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil needs no testimonial of its powers other than itself. Whoever tries it for coughs or colds, for cuts or contusions, for sprains or burns, for pains in the limbs or body, well know that the medicine proves itself and needs no guarantee. This shows why this Oil is in general use.

UNLUCKY.

"That was rough on Davis."

"What?"

"He stepped on a piece of orange peel, fell, and was arrested for giving a street performance without a license."

The destruction of the house fly is a public duty. Almost every American State Board of Health is carrying on a crusade against him. His filthy origin and habits, and the fact that his body is generally laden with disease-producing germs, makes him one of the greatest enemies of the human race. If the housekeepers of Canada will use Wilson's Fly Pads persistently, this peril would be tremendously reduced.

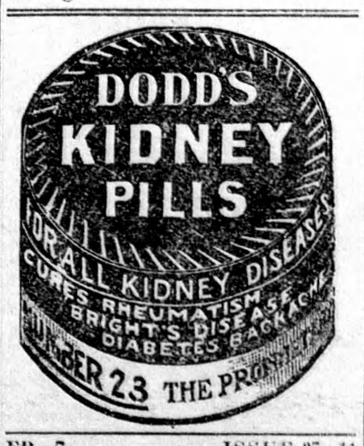
AFTER THE WEDDING.

"What's the matter here?" asked the caller, noticing the barren appearance of the house. "Sent your goods away to be stored?"

"No," replied the hostess. "Not at all. My daughter was married last week and she has merely taken away the things that she thought belonged to her."



COLLATERAL VALUE OF BONDS

¶ Bonds generally speaking are considered by bankers, financial men and corporations as the most desirable collateral—or security for loans—because of their salability.

¶ Financial men know by experience that good bonds will appreciate in value—because of the reasonable certainty of increase in the value of the security behind them.

¶ The investor in bonds has an absolute assurance that, should it ever become a necessity he could find ready sale for them and convert them into cash on the shortest notice without entailing more than a nominal cost in the way of commission for selling them.

¶ View it as one may, Bonds as an investment undoubtedly have all points in their favor, whether from appreciation in value security for the money invested, salability, or a good income.
