That jail birds have more white feathers concealed under their black wings than they are generally given credit for is evidenced by the commendable happenings that occur from time to time on the inside of the Walkerten jail. A short time ago we referred to the laudable performance of one of the prisoners here who nursed a consumptive convict through the last stages of the disease, and at the eminent risk contracting the plague himself voluntarily remained with the dying man until he passed into the care of a Greater Physician in another world. Such sacrifices are apparently not uncommon around the jail, as this week a similar performance is being repeated by another prisoner, who, we understand, is attending and nursing a diphtheria patient through a trying siege of that disease. It is altogether probable that many churches can't produce a worthier record in this respect than the local jail, for if one with a contagious disease should happen into the midst of many a congregation there would probably be such a scattering of the faithful that he would find himself, like the boy on the burning deck, alone whence all but he had fled.—Bruce Times.

Stock-raising appears to be a thriving industry in Pocupine. Ten "blind pigs" were found there the other day. Probably the officers whose duty it is to enforce the law suffer from blindness also. —Bruce Times.

SCIATICA
EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline," 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co, Kingston, Ont.

THE ONLY THROUGH TRAIN TO WESTERN CANADA

Is the Canadian Pacific "Vancouver Express," leaving Toronto Union Station daily at 10.20 p.m., for Vancouver. The trip to Winnipeg is practically a day shorter than by any other route. Through standard and tourist sleepers for Winnipeg and Vancouver are carried—Canadian Pacific standard—the service is the best, and all customs or transfer troubles en route, are eliminated.

A Bargain Indeed

Two cents a week is exactly what it costs to guarantee you the greatest treat you ever enjoyed. That small amount per week or one dollar a year will secure you the greatest amount of newspaper reading to be had on this Continent. We refer to The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, by long odds the best family and farm paper printed. In addition to the paper a most beautiful premium picture is included. It is entitled "Home Agian," and is well worth the dollar alone. No home in Canada, be it ever so rich or ever so poor, can afford to be without this bargain.

Two Yorkshire sows belonging to James Livingstone, of Hullet recently gave birth to 39 pigs. one had 22, the other 17.

One of the five Canadians to share in the bounty recently distributed by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission was a well known Keppel boy, G. James Shaw, now of Goderich. Mr. Shaw is 40 years of age and is a son of Mr. Gavin Shaw, of Keppel, and a nephew of Mr. James Shaw, principal of Strathcona School, Owen Sound. He was awarded a bronze medal and $1500 for the purpose of liquidating a mortgage on his property. He rescued Harry M. Videan aged 36 years a laborer, from a machine, at Goderich, September 14th, 1908. Shaw after having failed in one attempt, pulled off a belt, travelling at the rate of 4,000 feet a minute in response to a cry from Videan, who was entangled in a rope, and who was being crushed by the machine. The belt came off just as one of Shaw's arm came in contact with the pulley, but he was not injured. Videan was badly injured, but recovered."

KILL SHARKS FOR FUN.

Kanakas Can Whip the Man Eaters In a Fair Fight.

In the Pacific ocean lives a race of men who outswim fish and who can kill man eating sharks in a fair fight. They are Kanakas, the seamen who are natives of the Hawaiian Islands.

"A native can whip a shark because he can outswim him," states an American who has been living in the islands many years. "I never heard of a native being injured by a shark, and there is a superstitition among them that a shark is afraid of a Kanaka and will refuse to fight. This is not true, however, and grew out of the fact that a native always whips a shark. A Kanaka will spy a shark and, taking a knife between his teeth, dive in after him. It is a fair fight, because the shark has teeth that are as deadly as the knife. The shark will make for the swimmer, and when it is in range will flop suddenly on its side, which position is necessary before it can use its powerful jaws to crush an enemy. As the shark turns the native will sink rapidly and come up and rip the creature open with a quick slash of the knife. Sometimes they will avoid the shark time after time, cutting it on the nose and pricking it to arouse its anger.

"For excitement it outthrills a bull fight."—Detroit Free Press.

TUBES FOR LUNGS.

Complex System by Which Insects Are Enabled to Breathe.

While mammals have lungs and fishes gills, insects have neither one nor the other. Instead they present a complex system of tubes running throughout the length of their bodies, whereby the air is conveyed to every part of the system.

To guard insects against collapse from pressure of air, nature has furnished the little creatures with a fine thread running spirally within the walls of the tube, just as a garden hose is protected with wire.

Many flies live first in the water as larvae. Arranged along each side of their bodies is a series of exceedingly thin plates, into each of which runs a series of blood vessels. These plates are placed to absorb the oxygen contained in the water. The tail ends in three featherlike projections, and by means of these the larvae cause currents of water to flow over the gills, and thus their efficiency is increased.

Gnats also exist in the water as larvae. But they have no gills. Their breathing is accomplished by means of a tube situated at the tip of the tail. The larvae floats along head downward in the water, with this tube just above the surface, so that the creatures may breathe.—Harper's Weekly.

Prayer Halls In Russia.

In the villages of Russia the "prayer hall" is the common izba or cottage of a Stundist moujik, or a shed attached to a very primitive farmstead surrounded by prodigious quantities of mud, dust or snow, according to the season of the year. A separate building erected expressly for worship among the rural evangelicals of Russia is a luxury yet to be provided in the great majority of cases. The meeting place, whether izba or outhouse, has walls of earth. It is without ceiling. The floor is the bare earth, trodden hard by many feet through the lapse of long years and worn into lumps and hollows. The walls are lime washed and destitute of decoration or adornment. There are rough wooden benches around and across the room. The place is usually packed to suffocation with men, women and children crowded on the seats, thronging the doorways and huddling together on the top of the huge stove.—Sunday at Home.

Singing Wires.

Sometimes when a tempest is raging telegraph wires are silent, while in time of calm they are sonorous. Evidently the vibration of the wires is not due to atmospherical agitation alone. A scientist of Berlin who studied the cause of the singing of wires in time of calm concludes that the vibration of the wires always presages the approach of bad weather. When the sounds are deep the change of weather may be looked for within two days. When they are shrill or sharp the storm will come within a very few hours. It is difficult to determine the cause of the singing. An Italian scientist calls it "seismic agitation produced by barometric depression and transmitted to the wires by the telegraph poles."—Harper's Weekly.

Lots of Hunting.

The talk had turned upon hunting and by and by one of the adult visitors, noting Jamie's rapt and eager look, remarked cheerily:

"Well, sonny, I don't suppose you've had a chance to do much hunting yet?"

"Not many kinds, but lots of it," explained Jamie. "I've never hunted bears or lions, but I've hunted granny's spectacles most all over the world!"—Chicago Record Herald.

A Sticking Business.

"Well, Mrs. Smith, and how's your husband?"

"Oh, he's doing well, thank you, mum. He's got a job at the glue factory now."

"Ah, well, I hope he'll stick there!" —London Mail.

Hair Stealers.

It was unsafe for English children to walk out alone in 1595, lest they should be robbed of their hair for wigmakers.

Contentment is natural wealth. Luxury is artificial poverty.—Socrates.

A Simple Antidote to Poison.

It is a valuable thing to understand thoroughly what simple antidote to take if one is so unlucky as to swallow poison of any kind. Sweet oil is to be found in nearly every house, however humble, and half a pint of it taken immediately is an effectual antidote to almost all poisons. Any one with a strong constitution should take a larger quantity of this simple remedy.—London Family Herald.

Household Debate.

"English, French and German?"

"No Baseball, golf and aviation."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.
