HE KEPT THE TIP.

Connaught Brought the Wine and Pocketed the Perquisites.

Many good stories are told of the Duke of Connaught's democratic manner and sense of humor. Here is one that is well known in Ottawa about a Senator who is a colonel and hails from St. John, N.B.:

In 1897 the Senator, who was then lieutenant-colonel, was selected by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to go to London to attend the diamond jubilee of the late Queen Victoria, which the gallant officer did in a brand new uniform, carrying with him a thirst which is famous from the St. Lawrence to the Yukon river.

One of the royal functions to which the colonials were invited was a garden party at Buckingham Palace, which took place on a very hot afternoon at the beginning of July. The colonel strolled about the grounds and discovered gorgeous crimson tents, filled with small tables on which the most famous teas from China and Assam were brewing, and also lemonade cups and delicious strawberry ices, but there was no sign of the cup that cheers, and the brow of the officer grew sad and his tongue dry as he thought of the ice clinking against the glass in his far off home. His musings were interrupted by an official in scarlet and gold laced uniform, who came up and asked:

"Is there anything I can get for you, colonel?"

"You bet there is," replied the Canadian. "I am just dying for a good, honest drink of real liquor."

The official smiled and said that he would get a bottle of champagne and some cracked ice if that would do. Then he went away and shortly returned, followed by a crimson and gold-laced footman bringing the wine and a large goblet. This pleased the colonel so much that he gave the official who ordered the drink half a crown to drink his health with, which the former pocketed after thanking him.

Later on in the afternoon some officers of the Life Guards were talking to the Canadian and bewailed the fact that they had not been able to get a drink all afternoon. "Say boys, you stand by me, and I'll get you a cold bottle of the best fizz water you ever tasted," said the colonel.

Just then the same official passed by that had supplied the bottle of wine, and the colonel called: "Say, my friend, raise another bottle of the same stuff you gave me before, and there's be another half crown for you."

The official smiled and replied that he would only be too pleased to order another bottle of wine, or as many more as the colonel wished. When the official walked away the officers, who had stepped back during the brief conversation, turned to the colonel from St. John and asked if that was the man he had given the money to, and when the colonel replied that it was they said:

"Why, man, that's the Duke of Connaught, the Queen's son."

"Well, all I know," said the colonel, ruefully, "is that he kept my half crown."

A University Hoax.

Rather a good story is being told around Queen's University at the expense of arts '15. It seems that one day last autumn W. P. J. O'Meara, the august president of that brilliant year, received a letter from Montreal stating that a meeting was to be held there at an early date to discuss a style of student gown. The letter, in due course was read at one of the year meetings, and the president was deputed to represent his class.

On arriving in Montreal he took a cab to the address given, full of ideas about student gowns, and conning over the speech with which he hoped to win the plaudits of the gathering. His surprise and chagrin may well be imagined when he found himself dumped at a fourth-class hotel on the outskirts of the city with no sign of a committee. He suddenly awoke to the fact that he had been the victim of a well-planned hoax. Needless to say, his report before the year on his return was short and to the point. It was decided to hush the matter up, but some one could not stand the pressure, so blurted out the whole tale.

Accommodating Mosquito.

A resident of Dawson, Yukon Territory, declares that the mosquito is more numerous in the Arctic zone than in the tropics, though there is no land too cold or too hot for its habitation, and the only place where it is not found is in localities where there is little or no moisture. There is no country where the mosquitoes are so large and so numerous as they are in the Klondyke; and it is impossible to destroy them, as they propagate in the heavy moss that grows there, which contains mosture almost equal to swamp lands. If, therefore, a safe preparation were invented which would keep the mosquito away there would be an immense sale for it, not only in Alaska and the Canadian Klondyke, but in all parts of the world.

Apple Shipments to Britain.

The reports that a million barrels of apples have been received in the United Kingdom this season from Nova Scotia, says the Canadian High Commissioner in a recent report, appears to be substantially correct, and it is estimated that another 300,000 or 400,000 barrels remain to be shipped. The huge quantity, combined with the disappointing quality, has had an adverse effect on prices.

The early arrival of 6,000 cases of apples from Cape Colony will compete with Australian fruit.

An Active Body.

Fredericton's City Council did a big stroke of business the other night. It empowered five of its members to take a joy ride to Ottawa headed by the mayor and make some representations to the Ottawa Government for the improvement of the New Brunswick city. The council, backed up by the citizens, wants some dredging done in the St. John River, modern concrete wharves built behind the City Hall, and the St. John valley railroad car shops located in the city.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.
