BRIDGE OVER RHINE CAPTURED BY FIRST ARMY

Lulendorf railroad bridge spanning the Rhine River at Remagen, Germany, was captured by the 9th Armored Division of the First Army before Nazis could destory it. This photo was taken from the eastern bank of the Rhine River, after the bridgehead was established.

JERRY GETS FUSHED

A German soldier crawls listlessly out of his hiding place, flushed out by an Allied lieutenant. Overlooked in initial mopping up operactions on the Western Front the Jerry was finally spotted.

SLEEPING WITH ONE EYE OPEN

While two of his buddies catch some shut-eye in close quarters of a foxhole, a soldier keeps a watchful eye on Germans across the Pruem River in Germany.

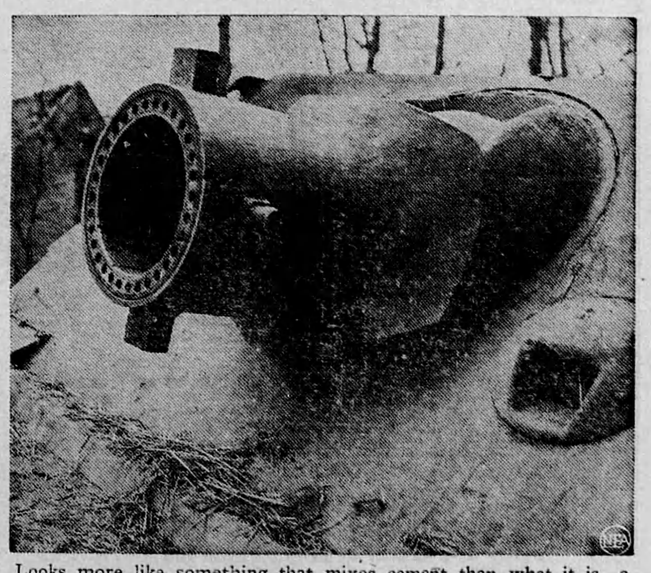
PRIVATE WEDDING

Pvt. Red Skelton, former radio and movie comedian, hitched his wagon to a star when he and Actress Georgie Davis were married in Los Angeles. Couple are shown as they obtained the license.

'DON'T CROSS YOUR BRIDGES—'

Map above shows rivers that cut through the north German plain in the path of Allied advance toward Berlin, and some of the many dams in those streams which Nazis may blast to impede Allied progress.

NAZI BIG MOUTH



Looks more like something that mixes cement than what it is—a 380-mm. mortar mounted on a modified Mark VI German tank, captured by the Allies in Oberembt, Germany. The mortar barrel is seven feet long, and fires a five-foot shell weighing 770 pounds. Five-man tank crew protected by 5-inch armor in front.

ARMY BADGE

RESERVE ARMY

This is the new arm badge that will identify the wearer as a member of Canada's Reserve Army. It is rectangular, red in color, and will be worn as the General Service badge of the Active Army, on the left forearm, 5½ inches above the end of the sleeve of the battle dress blouse, knaki drill tunic and greatcoat, or immediately above any badge of rank.

ARCTIC RESCUER

More than 100 stranded fliers and civilians lost in icy Arctic wastes owe their live to Lt.-Col. Norman D. Vaughan, above, of Hamilton, Mass., who heads the Arctic Search and Rescue section of the Air Transport Command's North Atlantic Division. He has received a special Congressional Medal and Legion of Merit citation for his work.
