SEA-GOING 'COVERED WAGON'

The odd-looking craft, above, is the newest thing in wooden life-rafts, made fire-resistant by a new process developed by American Lumber and Treating Co., engineers at Pasadena, Calif. Built of unsinkable balsa wood, encased in chemically-treated plywood, the boat is equipped with compass, oars, signaling devices and enough food and water to last 20 men a reasonable length of time.

Lost Children Find Refuge In Britain

Although in most countries in Europe, outside of Germany itself, it is no longer necessary to leave to escape the Gestapo, Britain is still receiving refugees.

Five hundred refugees have just arrived in Coventry. They are the first of some 20,000 lost children who will be given homes in England for the duration. This first 500 came from all parts of Holland and many were picked up from the hedges, cellars and bombed buildings; others were found in army camps scavenging among the refuse.

Red Cross camps in Holland and Belgium had to care for them for two months before they were strong enough to stand the short sea trip to England.

How India Meets Demand For Goats

A novel scheme of goat multiplication has been adopted by the Government of Bengal, in India, with a view to meeting the increased demand for goats. It is expected 50,000 goats will be produced in the first year of the scheme, says The Brandon Sun.

Nanny and billy goats will be loaned out by the Government to villagers on the condition that for every goat loaned the borrower must return, within 18 months, two goats at least six months old out of the progeny of the borrowed animals. When this is done, the mother goat taken on loan will become the village's property.

Argument Settled

So far as humans are concerned, the wolf is a coward, though he can, as many an Algoma farmer can testify, do a terrific lot of damage among a flock of sheep.

The Star stands by the dictum of Old Sam Martin, which it has so often quoted:

"Any man that says he's been et by a wolf is a liar."
