SCHOOLS IN CHINA.

Students Boss the Teachers and Study as They Please.

Some years have elapsed since the Manchu Government announced a programme of educational reform for China, having for its object the introduction of a national system of education approximating as closely as possible to that adopted by the western nations. This programme has made some headway, but has not yet been carried out in its entirety, and its ultimate success must remain doubtful until a genuine attempt is made to introduce and enforce strict discipline in all state schools and colleges. The laxity of the present cannot be better described than in the words of a Chinese professor who, in the course of an address to the students of Foochow College, in October, 1910, said:—

"The lawless idea of liberty was encouraged under the management of directors who themselves have never had discipline. The students found the best place to experiment in regard to equality of which they had learned in Japanese books, was either with their parents at home or with their teachers at school. While in school the teachers are considered by the students to be their equals, if not inferiors; for, in fact, they have often been styled public servants. Cases of friction between the teachers and the students, ending in strikes on the part of the latter, are very often reported in the newspapers. With the unions formed in schools the students become absolutely lawless. The positions of the teachers as well as those of the directors lie in the hands of the students, who, in fact, form the moving spirit of the whole institution. With the presumptuous power acquired from the union which they have formed, the students, through the medium of the directors (the president of the college), instruct the teachers on the best methods of teaching and formulating examination questions."

Ambition very often dies for lack of courage.

A boy isn't necessarily good for nothing because his parents refuse to pay him for being good.

Words cannot express the contempt a small boy has for a girl, or the admiration he can generate for her after a few years.

Dainty Dishes.

Rice Croquettes.—Wash the rice, boil and strain it. Use one cup rice, one-half cup sweet milk, one tablespoon sugar, one teaspoon butter. Simmer gently in a saucepan over the fire, stirring until the rice has absorbed the milk. When slightly cooled flavor with one-half teaspoon of lemon or vanilla extract. Add the white of one egg (unbeaten); fry in hot grease, dropping in a spoonful at a time. Drain on cheesecloth and roll in pulverized sugar.

Tomato Bisque.—Make a tomato soup from two cups celery stock, two cups of cooked tomato, one teaspoon of sugar. Simmer an hour and run through a sieve. Cook together one tablespoon of butter, two tablespoons of flour. Add the strained tomato; simmer five minutes. Add one cup of sweet cream and a pinch of soda. Serve at once.

Lemon Jelly.—To one-third box gelatin add one cup cold water. Soak one hour. Add one cup hot water, one-half cup lemon juice, one teaspoon lemon extract, two cups sugar. Stir till dissolved. Set on ice till jellied and cold.

Scalloped Fish.—Cut fish in small pieces free from skin and bones. Use cold cooked fish. Chop cold boiled eggs and potatoes in alternate layers. Fill a buttered baking dish three-quarters full of this material, alternating fish, potato and egg. Cover with white sauce, sprinkle with breadcrumbs and bake twenty or twenty-five minutes in moderate oven.

White Sauce.—Cook together and mix well one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon flour. Add one cup sweet cream, simmer five minutes and season.

Salads.

Onion and Tomato Salad.—Take half a dozen firm ripe tomatoes of medium size, wipe them with a wet towel and cut them into slices a quarter of an inch thick. Peel a medium sized onion (Spanish or Bermuda) and slice very thin. Arrange the sliced onion and tomato in layers in the salad bowl and pour over them a plain salad dressing made by mixing together one teacupful of salad oil, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, a half teaspoonful of salt, and a half saltspoonful of pepper. Use this salad as soon as made. We should have said that young green onions may be used for this salad as well as the others.

Cold Meat and Potato Salad. — Cut a pound of cold cooked meat into thin slices and then into small squares, and mix with a pint of cold, chopped potatoes. Put a layer of this at the bottom of the salad bowl, cover with chopped parsley and salad dressing, put in another layer of the meat mixture and again the dressing, and continue till all the material is used. Place the bowl in the refrigerator for two hours or so, and the salad is ready for use.

Salad, Rouge et Blanc. — Take a close, firm red cabbage, trim off the outside leaves and cut into four pieces, wash in plenty of water, and drain. Break the leaves apart, remove the stalks and ribs and cut the rest into shreds. Now cut the heart and white sticks of two heads of celery into pieces and mix them with the cabbage in a salad bowl, garnish with young green tops of celery and serve with a dressing poured over all, prepared as follows: Beat one egg and fix in gradually a teaspoonful of salad oil, a tablespoonful of vinegar and a half teaspoonful each of sugar and dry mustard. Season with a little salt and serve.

Hints for the Home.

Potato balls which are salted in butter after being boiled are delicious. They should be served with a generous sprinkling of minced parsley.

To clean a frying pan after fish or onion, boil out the pan with soda water, washing clean, then put it on the fire and shake a little oatmeal in.

To stop a door hinge from creaking rub it with a lead pencil.

Tartaric acid removes almost any iron rust blemishes, and is an excellent article for removing yellow marks.

When gilt frames or molding of rooms have specks of dirt from flies and other causes upon them they may be cleaned with white of egg applied with a camel's hair brush.

Bran is much better to use for cleaning matting than soap and water. Tie the bran in a bag, dip the bag into clean warm water and rub the fatting briskly with this; then wash it off with a cloth wrung out of warm salt water. This method freshens it up wonderfully.

Should the knob come off a pan or kettle, a screw can be slipped through the hole with the head inside the lid. Screw a cork onto the protruding end. This knob will not get hot and can be replaced.

A little ammonia in a few spoonfuls of alcohol is excellent to sponge silk dresses that have grown "shiny" or rusty, as well as to take out spots. A silk, particularly a black, becomes almost like new when so sponged.

Silver spoons or forks may be cleaned and brightened by leaving for several hours in strong borax water; the water should be boiling hot when the silver is put in. Silverware which is frequently washed with ammonia water will need cleaning much less often and much work be saved.

Carpets if well sprinkled with salt and then wiped with cloth squeezed out of warm water containing a spoonful of spirits of turpentine to every quart will look bright and new and will not be troubled with moths and buffalo bugs.

Cranberries can be kept fresh for any length of time if placed in a jar of cold water changing the water often.

When washing any garment made of silk add a teaspoonful of methylated spirit to the water and iron while damp. The silk will look just like new.

Coddled eggs are so good the recipe will bear being repeated. Fill a pitcher with boiling water, drop the egg into it, and let it stand five minutes or more. The egg will be clear like jelly and extremely digestible.

Postage stamps carried in a purse or handbag will often be found stuck together. Never attempt to separate them by pulling them, but simply lay them flat and press with a hot iron. They will then separate quite easily.

To remove coffee stains from silk, satin, or any other material, soak in glycerine; then rub gently with a soft cloth. Rinse with warm water, cover with a dry cloth, and iron the wet portion until dry.

Dates stuffed with peanut butter and then rolled in sugar are a pleasing change from dates stuffed with nuts.

If a curtain pole or portiere is rubbed with hard soap before being put up the draperies will slip on easily.

Cheese may be kept soft and good for a long time if wrapped in a cloth wrung out in vinegar and then wrapped again in dry cloth.

FRIENDS HELP.

St. Paul Park Incident.

"After drinking coffee for breakfast I always felt languid and dull, having no ambition to get to my morning duties. Then in about an hour or so a weak, nervous derangement of the heart and stomach would come over me with such force I would frequently have to lie down."

Tea is just as harmful, because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.

"At other times I had severe headaches; stomach finally became affected and digestion so impaired that I had serious chronic dyspepsia and constipation. A lady, for many years State President of the W. C. T. U., told me she had been greatly benefited by quitting coffee and using Postum; she was troubled for years with asthma. She said it was no cross to quit coffee when she found she could have as delicious an article as Postum.

"Another lady, who had been troubled with chronic dyspepsia for years, found immediate relief on ceasing coffee and using Postum. Still another friend told me that Postum was a Godsend, her heart trouble having been relieved after leaving off coffee and taking on Postum.

"So many such cases came to my notice that I concluded coffee was the cause of my trouble and I quit and took up Postum. I am more than pleased to say that my days of trouble have disappeared. I am well and happy."

New Bridge for Lower Ganges.

A $6,000,000 railroad bridge will be built across the lower Ganges River, India, with 15 spans, each of which is 350 feet long. The spans weigh about 1,300 tons each, and will support two broad-gauge tracks and a footwalk. The foundations for the main spans are sunk 150 feet beneath the bed of the river.

PROFIT SHARING BONDS.

Attractive Form of Investment.

A folder which fully describes an attractive 7 per cent. investment, carrying a profit-sharing feature as well, may be obtained by writing to The National Securities Corporation, Limited, Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.

The investment described is in the form of profit-sharing bonds, which are amply secured. In this instance, the National Securities Corporation, Ltd., acts as a holding company for two manufacturing companies whose combined capitalization is $1,300,000. Both of these companies have been particularly successful ever since their formation, and for the last few years have operated under the handicap of only being able to take care of about 60 per cent. of the business available, although working at full capacity.

The present bond issue is for the purpose of enlarging these plants so that they may handle all orders, and to enable them to acquire timber limits now under option, and which will doubtless largely increase in value in the next few years.

To guard against alum in Baking Powder see that all ingredients are plainly printed on the label. The words "No Alum" without the ingredients is not sufficient. Magic Baking Powder costs no more than the ordinary kinds. Full weight one pound cans 25c.

CANNIBALS AND MURDERERS

EXPERIENCES AMONG THE HUDSON BAY ESKIMOS.

Missionary Tells of Lawless People Among Whom He Worked.

A great work is being done far up on the north-east shores of Hudson Bay in converting the wandering Indians and Eskimos who inhabit that desolate region to Christianity. A devoted little band of three or four Christian pioneers is stationed there, and a member of that "Arctic mission," who is in England for a short "leave," gave some of his experiences of the country and people.

"I am stationed at a tiny settlement on Great Whale River," said the Rev. W. G. Walton, "and the 'town' consists of two houses and a 'store.' I live at one of the houses with a Hudson Bay trader. We get two mails a year out there, but the newspapers only visit us once, so that you can imagine our expectation when newspaper day comes round. At the end of August every year a ship calls, and we have to be very careful to remember to order everything we want, because if we forgot anything we should have to wait another year. The Eskimos never wash themselves.

"Washing" Children.

"I have often seen an Eskimo woman washing her young children like a cat does a kitten—by licking them all over. Their only means of livelihood lies in catching seals. They are always on the lookout for seal holes in the ice. They eat the blubber, that is, the fat of the seal, and clothe themselves or at any rate make their trousers out of sealskin. It is very cold—45 degrees below zero as a rule—and we Europeans have to keep roaring fires going in every room of our house.

"The people don't live in villages, but separately in families, so as to have as wide a field for hunting as possible. They are a very revengeful people. A short while ago an Eskimo was out hunting and saw a black dot in the distance on the ice. On approaching he made certain that it was a seal just protruding from a seal hole.

Bloody Feud.

He fired and hit it, but when he got up to it he found that he had accidentally shot a man. He called on the widow, said how sorry he was, and, promising to help the woman, asked for forgiveness. The son of the dead man entered, and, when he heard, rushed off and killed all the unfortunate hunter's family in revenge. In retaliation the hunter killed all the dead man's family, and so the feud began. When we were informed of this and came to investigate we found that there was only one man surviving out of two families of about 17 persons. We could do nothing but lecture the survivor.

"They were terribly lawless until we came, and even now when in the grip of starvation commit the most awful deeds. Lately a mother, ravaged terribly by hunger, went to the length of eating her two children. Another killed his wife and lived on her, and when she had been eaten up tried to murder three other men's children. Luckily he was prevented. There are no native laws. They don't steal, but think nothing of murder. When they are 'put out,' as the saying goes, they must take a life. They don't mind whom they kill when they are angry as long as they kill some one. There is no sort of punishment for the crime. They are very fond of singing, and their favorite or only game is connected therewith. A piece of seal bone, with a little hole in it, is suspended from the 'roof.' They all sit round the 'room,' and each tries to throw an arrow into the hole. He who succeeds has to sing a song, but he who sings most songs wins the game. They get enormously enthusiastic over this pastime. They have large families, and the race would increase tremendously were it not for accidents and murders. They are, however, very impressed by the Christian creed, and we are gradually getting them to change their ways."

A GRACEFUL TRIBUTE?

Small Union Jack Worn on the Arm of the Berlin Police.

Despite the mutual suspicion which unfortunately exists between Great Britain and Germany, a tribute, which may, or may not, be a graceful one, has lately been paid to the British tourist in Germany by the authorities at Berlin. A certain number of the Berlin police force now go about with a beautiful miniature Union Jack embroidered on their sleeves, in token of the fact that they are linguistically qualified to answer any question which the inquisitive Britsh tourist may like to put to them. The miniature Union Jack, in other words, signifies: "Here is English spoken." There are plenty of Italians, Austrians, and people of other nationalities to be met with in Berlin, but no policeman wears the national flag of any of them embroidered on his coat-sleeve. Can it be that the Berliner loves the British above them all Alas, no! It merely means that, of all tourists, the British specimen alone can be relied on with confidence to be able to speak no language but his own.

LITTLE THINGS THAT COUNT.

A Small Duty Is On the Way to Larger Responsibilities.

All important things that make illustrious men are learnt in the mastery of tiny tasks. Darwin studied worms to get an idea how the world was brought to its present state, and found that worms are good gardeners, who keep on bringing fresh soil to the top and taking the top soil down below to be got ready for future use. It is the little things that are signposts to big places. A small milestone says how far it is to London. Every one that we pass shortens the distance. Every duty done correctly shortens the way to success in the big tasks. But it is not very wise to have too much on our mind at once, nor very good unless it happens to be necessary. Even at that, however, the best workers say take one thing at a time and get it done with. If you have to work your way through a crowd in the streets at some great occasion it is only done by getting past one person at a time, and it is astonishing how it is done by some when it seems impossible to others, and by some who can do it without rudeness. These are people to imitate in getting through crowded details. Whenever one has them to negotiate it is well to have a good plan.
