

Seaman Torpedoman Martin Whymark, of Oakwood, is the first sailor from the village and district to be reported as "missing at sea". Word to this effect was received from the young seaman's wife now residing at Halifax and was forwarded to his parents, Mr. and Ms Arthur Whymark residents of Oakwood.

No details are to hand. This is the second sailor in this district to be reported as among the "missing at sea" within the past week.

Seaman Whymark was born in Oakwood and received his early education in the Public School. He was well-known and quite a favorite with others. He enlisted in 1941 and his parents are of old country stock. His father is a veteran of the last Great War with four year's service in the infantry to his credit.
