PURE BLOOD MAKES HEALTH

Disorders of the Blood are Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

If people would realize the importance of keeping the blood rich and pure there would be less sickness. The blood is the medium through which the nourishment gained from the food reaches the different parts of the body. If the blood is impure the nourishment that reaches nerves, bone and muscle is tainted with poison and disease follows. The blood is also the medium by which the body fights off disease. If the blood is thin and watery this power of resistance to disease is weakened.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People build up the blood. They increase the ability of the body to resist disease. They strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite and cure every disease caused by thin and impure blood, and that embraces such diseases as anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, nerve exhaustion, rheumatism, and many others. Every claim made for this medicine is amply proved by the grateful testimony of those who have been cured. Here is one instance. Mr. Jas. Sauger, Peterboro, Ont., says: "I began to be troubled with dizzy spells. These were especially noticeable in the morning on rising and were accompanied by a feeling as if my body had taken on two or three times its weight during the night. When I went out of doors everything would suddenly seem to get topsy-turvy for a few moments, and I would apparently see specks floating in front of me, and for a while I could hardly drag myself along. This feeling at first only lasted for a few minutes, but as time went on the duration of the spells seemed to increase. Whilst during the day I would be suddenly attacked with dizziness compelling me to hold on to something until the feeling passed. I had in the meantime been taking various blood tonics, as I was convinced my condition was due to my blood being out of order. None of these, however, seemed to have any permanent effect. For a little while I would be fairly well, but as soon as I quit using them the attacks used to come back with renewed vigor. One day I came across an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. I soon noticed a more decided improvement than I had felt before. The dizzy spells were becoming less frequent and less violent, and by the time I had taken six boxes I was well again. From former experience I had some fears that the trouble might return, but now, four months after discontinuing the use of the pills, I have had no return of the trouble. In fact I never felt better than I do now, and I think nothing can equal the Pills as a blood medicine."

The Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AID FOR STRANGERS.

Machines in London Stations Will Deliver Their Messages.

It is not uncommon for a visitor to London, England, to get cut off from his companions. The usual instinct of a stranger who has become isolated in this way is to make his way back at once to the station at which he has arrived. All this has been provided for in one of the northern railroad termini, where a curious apparatus called the notograph has been put up.

A penny in the slot produces a small letter card. You write your message on this and address it and slip it into a rack behind a glass screen. This rack slowly sinks down on an endless chain, but your message will remain in sight for three hours. A supplementary rack is for telephone messages or telegrams, which can be obtained from the station officials. Thus if a stranger gets separated from his party all he has to do is to go back to the station, as he usually does, and leave a message stating his whereabouts, or wait until another member of his party gets through to him by telephone or telegram.

It is a most ingenious notion, but the difficulty would seem to be to acquaint the visiting stranger of its existence.

"Father, what is an empty title?" "Well, an empty title is your mother's way of calling me the head of the house."

ECHO IS LOUDER THAN SOUND

Experiments Were Made From a Balloon.

To most persons it would seem impossible for an echo to be louder than the sound that produced the echo, but under certain rather peculiar conditions this is really true.

When a revolver is fired from a balloon the report is sharp, but not so loud, explains a writer in Harper's Weekly, as it would be if the gun were fired on the surface of the earth. If the balloon is up something like 2,000 feet or higher there will be a few seconds' silence after the revolver shot and then a roar or deep rumble will rise up from the earth.

If an explosive is lowered from the basket of the balloon until it is discharged with an electric spark from a battery in the hands of one of the aeronauts, there will come to the ears of those above a report like a revolver shot and then a few seconds of silence, followed by a peal of the loudest thunder ever heard.

There is no solid background about or above the balloonists to produce a rebound of the atmospheric sound-wave and the air is more dense below. Thus, when the sound-waves penetrate the denser lower strata of air and then the solid earth the echo produced seems to the ears of the occupants of the balloon far louder than the original sound.

ESKIMO CHILD NOT WHIPPED.

Does as He Pleases, but is Generally Obedient.

The Eskimo child is the idol of the home and is allowed to do as he pleases. He is never punished, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine, and his whims and wishes are consulted with all the concern given an adult. In spite of this indulgence the children are remarkably obedient. Perhaps the patriarchal manner of living—father and mother, aunts and uncles and grandmother—tends to make them so.

The word of the elders is law and is never questioned. They have lived a long time, the Eskimos reason, and therefore speak with the authority of experience.

All of this is very nice in the ordinary walks of life, but rather embarrassing sometimes in school work. When a child of four or five plays truant from school, and the visiting teacher, complaining to the parents, is gravely told to ask the small despot if it is his royal pleasure to come to school or not, the situation becomes ludicrous. The only resource is to become a hatred truant officer, or, better, to make your work so interesting that the children cannot stay away.

The Surpriser Surprised.

A wealthy landowner in England, affected with the craze for Japanese gardening, invited the Japanese ambassador to luncheon, says the Bristol Times and Mirror, and afterward showed him round the gardens and greenhouses, keeping the Japanese garden till the last as a delightful surprise.

When, after admiring the beauty of all the other gardens, the ambassador was at last taken to the imitation of the gardens of his own flowery land, he held up his hands in enthusiastic delight. "Ah," he exclaimed "this is wonderful! We have nothing like this in Japan!"

From Great Lakes To the Rockies

WOMEN SING THE PRAISES OF DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Saskatchewan Lady Adds Her Testimony To What Has Already Been Said of the Great Work Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Doing.

Caesarville, Sask., June 2—(Special.—The scarcity of female help in a new country subjects the women of the prairies to unusual strain, and careful observation has established the fact that this strain first makes itself felt in the kidneys. For this reason Dodd's Kidney Pills are making an enviable reputation from the Great Lakes to the foothills of the Rockies.

Everywhere you will find women singing the praises of the great Canadian kidney remedy that has banished their pains and weariness, and brought them back to health. Among the many is Mrs. Edgar Cowen, an estimable lady of this place.

"I have found Dodd's Kidney Pills very beneficial," Mrs. Cowen states. "If anything I can say will help any sufferer I am glad to add my testimonial to what has already been said."

The kidneys strain all the refuse material out of the blood. If they are out of order this refuse remains in the blood, and becomes poison. That's why sound kidneys mean pure blood and good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills make sound kidneys.

A HUGE ICED CAKE.

When Honesty is Not Always the Best Policy.

A Warsaw, Poland, bookkeeper named Schneider was awaiting his trial, being charged with fraud. As his health was bad, his family sent him many little delicacies unknown to the prison fare, delicacies which, doubtless, his custodian shared. One day, amongst other things, a huge iced cake appeared. The warder's children were fond of cake, so was his wife. They therefore determined to annex half the cake for their own consumption. Their astonishment was great when upon applying a knife to the dainty, it stuck just below the icing and refused to budge.

"It must be baked to a cinder," said Mrs. Warder.

But her husband, suspecting that something worse than careless baking was responsible for the cake's hardness, cut round the sides, and was rewarded by finding a revolver and seven cartridges buried in the paste.

When arraigned before the authorities, Schneider confessed that he had intended to shoot his jailers and escape from limbo before his trial.

"After all," said the warder, pensively, when relating the episode, "honesty is not always the best policy. If my wife had not cut into that cake I should have been a dead man now, for I sleep hard."

Its Kind.

"Oh, dearie, I just thought about asking you to fix the stove pipes for me."

"Just thought about it? It's what I call a put-up job."

MEMORY IMPROVED.

Since Leaving Off Tea and Coffee.

Many persons suffer from poor memory who never suspect tea and coffee have anything to do with it.

The drug—caffeine—in tea and coffee, acts injuriously on the nerves and heart, causing imperfect circulation, too much blood in the brain at one time, too little in another part. This often causes a dullness which makes a good memory nearly impossible.

"I am nearly 70 years old and did not know that coffee was the cause of the stomach and heart trouble I suffered from for many years, until about four years ago," writes a Western woman.

"A kind neighbor induced me to quit coffee and try Postum. I had been suffering severely and was greatly reduced in flesh. After using Postum a little while I found myself improving. My heart beats became regular and now I seldom ever notice any symptoms of my old stomach trouble at all. My nerves are steady and my memory decidedly better than while I was using coffee.

"I like the taste of Postum fully as well as coffee."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Write for booklet, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in an ordinary cup of hot water, which makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

"There's a Reason" for Postum.

PIMPLES ON FACE ARMS AND LEGS

Scratched So Made Red Sore. Trouble Grew Worse All the Time. A Cake of Cuticura Soap and a Box of Cuticura Ointment Completely Cured.

Ville Joliette, Que.—"My little girl, aged four years, had so many pimples on her face, arms and legs that I did not know what to do. They lasted for a year. She commenced to scratch and this made pimples, clear, not red. She scratched so much that the blood ran and it made a red sore. The sores were worse on her arms and legs and on her face, and they were ugly looking with the blood. I was told what to do to stop her suffering, and I used the treatment but other pimples came out all the time. I tried all sorts of remedies but the trouble grew worse all the time. It was always the same story, until I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I began to apply the Cuticura Ointment on her, also hot water and Cuticura Soap. Immediately I began to see that they were curing her, and after having used a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment she was completely cured. She has just as fine a skin as before.

"My husband also used Cuticura Ointment for cracks in his hands. After three applications of the Cuticura Ointment he was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Alfred Corrier, Jan. 16, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a liberal free sample of each, with 32-p. book, send post card to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 33D, Boston, U. S. A.

ESKIMO'S BRAINS IN STOMACH

Say Dogs Can be Satisfied, But People Can Always Eat.

According to Knud Rasmussen, the explorer and authority on polar lands, the Eskimo does not think as other races do. He does not count the hours, days or years and keeps no record on time. All his thoughts are centred on hunting and beyond the need of sufficient food and clothing for himself and family, he has no care.

Mr. Rasmussen relates a number of interesting conversations which he has had with various Eskimos, all of which go toward pointing out conclusively their indifference and inability for any thoughtful reflection.

"Once," he is quoted in an exchange as saying, "I asked an Eskimo who seemed to be plunged in reflection, "What are you thinking about?"

"He laughed at my question and said: "Oh, it is only you white men who go in for thinking. Up here we think only of our flesh pits and whether we have enough for the long, dark winter. If we have meat enough why should be think?"

Eating seems to be the all important thing beyond the task of providing it. Once when Mr. Rasmussen excused himself, after paying a visit, with the plea that he had already eaten enough, he was laughed at and the answer he received was:

"Dogs can be stuffed till they are satisfied and can eat no more; but people—people can always eat."

A Hint.

Mr. Spiggins (gently)—My dear, a Boston man was shot at by a burglar, and his life was saved by a button which the bullet struck.

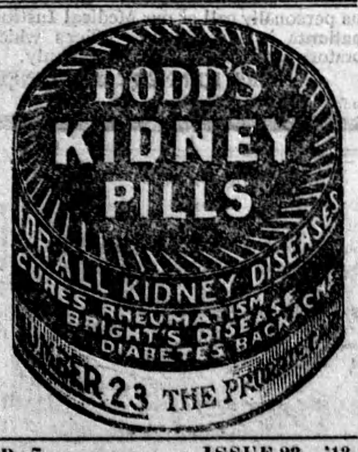
The Sensation.

Miss Gibson was very rich and Mr. Hanna was very poor. She liked him, but that was all, and he was well aware of the fact. One evening he grew somewhat tender and at last he said: "You are very rich, aren't you, Helen?" "Yes, Tom," replied the girl frankly; "I am worth about two million dollars." "Will you marry me, Helen?" "Oh, no, Tom, I couldn't." "I knew you wouldn't." "Then why did you ask me?" "Oh, I just wanted to see how a man feels when he loses two millions."

People never pay any attention to a cheerful liar.



FIRE IN STOVE 70 YEARS.

Primitive Cooking Apparatus in Cornwall, England.

Incredible as it may seem to us who have at our command every sort of labor saving machine and device that it is possible to conceive, there are some parts of the world—and not the most remote, either—where many of the ordinary tasks of life are accomplished in almost identically the same way that they were centuries ago, says a writer in Gas Logic. Travellers in foreign countries have frequently told of surprising instances of this kind which they have met with in their wanderings in out-of-the-way localities.

A striking illustration of the way in which people who come little into contact with modern methods oftentimes cling to ancient and cumbersome ways of doing things is afforded by the case of a farmer in Cornwall, England, whose primitive and picturesque cooking apparatus has attracted attention.

The fuel used in this "stove" is neither coal nor wood, but peat. No other fuel has ever been burned in it. The Cornish farmer declares that to his own knowledge the fire in it has not been out in seventy years.

When the farmer's family have any cooking to do, the embers are first raked flat, and an iron plate is placed over them. The dough is then put into a tin, which is placed upon the iron plate, the tin then being covered over with a big iron pot. The whole is covered with embers and in eighty minutes' time, it is said, the bread is perfectly baked.

Weary Tiredness Changed to Vigor

That Played-Out Feeling Was Quickly Remedied and Health Restored.

Story of a Merchant Who Almost Lost His Business and His Health Through Neglecting Early Symptoms of Disease.

"My life for years has been of sedentary character," writes T. B. Titchfield, head of a well known firm in Buckingham. Nine hours every day I spent at office work and took exercise only on Sunday. I disregarded the symptoms of ill-health, which were all too apparent to my family. I grew thin, then pale, and before long I was jaundiced—eyes and skin were yellow, my strength and nerve were lowered, and I was quite unfitted for business. In the morning a lightness in the head, particularly when I bent over, made me very worried about my health. Most of the laxative medicines I found weakening, and knowing that I had to be at business every day I neglected myself rather than risk further weakness. Of course I grew worse, but by a happy chance I began to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I was forcibly struck by the fact that they neither caused griping nor nausea, and it seemed incredible that pills could tone, cleanse and regulate the system without causing any unpleasant after effects. Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted with me just as gentle as nature—they gave new life to my liver, strengthened my stomach, and won me back to perfect good health. My skin is clear, dizziness has disappeared, and my appetite, strength, spirits are perfect."

Refuse anything offered you instead of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which are sure to cure. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Chinese Doctor's Ideas.

The Chinese doctor possesses many ideas peculiarly his own. There is much mystery and impressiveness in his manner of treatment. According to Mongolian medicine the Chinaman believes that the human heart is more likely to become inflamed at noon during the summer season than at any other time. Likewise they regard the human ear as suggesting the condition of the kidneys, while the mouth and lips indicate the condition of the spleen and the stomach.
