ASSAULT WINS PREAKNESS

Assault, with Jockey Warren Mehrtens up, makes it two in a row as he streaks across the finish line to win the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico track, Baltimore, Md. Hard on his heels is Lord Boswell, ridden by Jockey Doug Dodson. On June 1, Assault will try to add the Belmont Stakes to his Kentucky Derby and Preakness crowns to make a Grand Slam in the Sport of Kings.

SPOTS OF SPORTS

By FRANK MANN HARRIS
("A Six Bit Critic")

There are certain matters in connection with sports—and more especially regarding sports pages—which never cease to puzzle us more than a little. And the fact that we, personally have occasionally been faintly suspected of being a sports writer doesn't make the puzzle any easier.

* * *

For example; down in the State of Maryland last Saturday a thoroughbred named ASSAULT ran a mile and three-sixteenths in comparatively slow time—almost six seconds behind the record. Yet pages of wordage and pictures regarding his feat were published in papers all over the map of the United States and Canada. But when, just one day later, a trotting-mare tagged KAOLA, clipped three full seconds off the world's mile-and-a-quarter—possibly one of of the greatest sports performances in fifty years—how much publicity did the lady get? About as much as would be given to a corner grocery stickup with loot amounting to a dollar and a quarter.

* * *

Asked the reason for such a vast discrepancy in coverage, any sports editor would promptly inform you that it's simply because ten times more people are interested in thoroughbred racing than in the harness-horse variety. But if you asked him to tell you, honestly, just why there should be such a difference of interest in the two sports, what then would the answer be? Boiled down to essentials, we think it would be something like this—merely because, over a stretch of years, sports editors have devoted ten times more space, ten times better writing talent, to the one than to the other. In other words the running horses have been blessed with more and better official and unofficial praise-agents and they—rather than the merits of the sports themselves—created the greater interest.

* * *

As an illustration of what pure ballyhoo will do, take the case of the PREAKNESS STAKE, already alluded to. Reading and listening to some of the junk put out regarding this event, one could easily get the idea that it's a real 'classic'—one to be compared with the English Derby, the Grand National, or even our own King's Plate. Just how much of a 'classic' it actually is can best be judged from this; since it was first run in 1873 it has been at five different distances—mile-and-a-half — mile-and-a-quarter — mile—mile-and-an eighth—and now a mile-and-three-sixteenths; and also, for a stretch of 10 years it wasn't run at all. Classic me eye!

* * *

Continuing along the same line, take the sport of lacrosse. For our money lacrosse, well played is just about the best and most exciting game there is. Yet a comparatively mild and tedious pastime called baseball has all but wiped it clean off the map. Why? Well, for several reasons. But principally because there isn't a day in the year when you can't read something—and generally something interesting—about baseball; while about the only time lacrosse manages to make most sports pages is when they carry a small story, tucked down in an obscure corner, regarding the annual meeting and election of officers.

* * *

Of course lacrosse has long carried the curse of being run by a bunch of men imbued with the sporting spirit of the small tad who cries, "If you won't play my way I'll pick up my marbles and go home"; by men who are far more interested in seeing their own names in print, and hanging on to office year after year, than they are in the good of the game. In Ontario lacrosse is practically controlled by men living within ten miles of the Toronto City Hall. And yet, if a lacrosse-loving citizen of that metropolis wanted to have a look at his favourite sport some Saturday afternoon, where — ah where—would he have to wend his way? Don't ask us. We just happen to live there, and wouldn't be likely to know. But we could tell you, right off the reel, what's going on at the baseball park.

* * *

And so, to Mr. Hugh Templin of Fergus, and to others intent on the revival of the best game on earth, our very best wishes—and a small word of advice. If you want to get anywhere, call for a brau-new deck and start a fresh deal. Toss the old deck into the discard—and get going with a bunch of men who are more interested in seeing lacrosse played than they are in how it is run behind the scenes, or who does the running.

Unusual Features In Fiberglas Car

A passenger automobile with body constructed of fiberglas plastic and incorporating probably a dozen other unorthodox features was announced at Detroit by William B. Stout, noted automotive and aviation engineer.

Except for the doors, the entire body, including floor, roof, sides and ends, is one piece of fiberglas. It takes a smooth finish indistinguishable from enamel on steel.

Other unorthodox features include: Engine in the rear, no chasis or axels, wheels individually sprung on air cushions, wheels at the end of car without conventional overhang of standard automobiles, 137-inch wheelbase, no standard front and rear seats, interior space six feet wide with the floor measuring 11 feet; driver's seat is fixed to the floor and adjustable; interior can accomodate two or more movable reclining chairs; at rear end of interior is a six-foot couch that can be made up into a double bed.

A bumper runs all around the car, the doors are opened with electric pushbuttons and a curved windshield provides wide unobstructed driver vision.

The body material has ten times the impact strength of steel and cannot be dented with a hammer.

British Soccer Internationals To Visit Canada

A million dollars' worth of soccer talent is about to hit Canada. It's the visit of the professional team from Liverpool, England, the second blitzed city in all of Britain during the war.

Undoubtedly the coming of Liverpool, in their red shirts asd white pants and a half century of tradition behind them, will be the great featue of the current season in Eastern Canada. The Liverpudlians play in Toronto, at Maple Leaf stadium. They'll meet probably the finest team in all of Canada, Ulster United, a club with a 30-year background that has won the highest honors the game can bestow in this country.

For this special game Maple Leaf stadium will be reserved practically in its entirety, and fans will come from as far south as Windsor, as far north as Fort William and Port Arthur, and as far east as Montreal; Toronto is the only place in Canada where Liverpool will play and the other cities in which they will appear include New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore and St. Louis.
