Improvement of Roads.

Mr. Andrew Pattullo, of Woodstock, has, both personally and through The Sentinel-Review, taken a very active part in the agitation for the improvement of the country roads. He now suggests that a convention be held early next year in Toronto, with a view to organizing a Good Roads Association for Ontario. Mr. Pattullo says that in the United States the crusade for reform carried on by the press, and in many parts systematically on the platform, has been followed by organization, both national and local; so that road reform may be said to be a live public question almost everywhere throughout the United States. In Ontario the question has been much discussed of late years, and, as Mr. Pattullo observes, the necessity for good roads is now recognized among the farming community as it never was before, and clearer ideas are prevalent, not only as to the loss and inconvenience of such roads as exist at present, but as to the lines on which reform and improvement can be brought about. Organization seems to be what is required to bring the movement in Ontario abreast with that in some of the States.

A general improvement in the condition of the common roads would be of far more benefit to the country than some more costly and ambitious projects. The roads are public property, and every bit of good work done upon them is work done for the public. To the farmers, as we have often pointed out, it means easier access to schools, churches and neighbors' dwellings, and therefore improved means of education and social intercourse, and a general betterment of the conditions of country life. It means also lessened wear and tear of horses and vehicles, and a saving of time and labor in carrying produce to markets and railways, all of which is so much money in the pocket of the producer. Mr. Pattullo's suggestion ought to result in a very interesting meeting, which would give a new impetus to the work of road reform.—Globe.

Dear Deer.

A few weeks ago a party of sportsmen from Bolton and Woodbridge made their headquarters at Mead's lake, 14 miles from Roseau, Muskoka. They are reported to have seen several moose and to have shot the largest one. About two weeks ago a person supposed to have been one of the party proceeded to Rosseau and laid information, when another one of them, named Elliott, of Bolton, was fined $20 and costs by a Bracebridge J. P., the informer getting half the fine. The other $10 and costs they divided. The majority of them then proceeded home, and Saturday morning, Christopher A. Strong, of Woodbridge, left Roseau per steamer Kenozha, having with him the balance of the luggage. At Beaurnaris, Game Warden Willmott inspected Strong's baggage. At the bottom of a trunk he found the foot of a moose and another hidden in an old boot. It is supposed that this is part of the same moose for which Elliott had been fined. Willmott arrested Strong, who was fined $50 and costs, in all $54.50, or three months in default. He is now in jail, waiting for his friends to get him out.
