Beef Cattle Pastures

Three pasture experiments with cattle are now under way at the Animal Husbandry Division, Dominion Experimental Farms. The first seeks to determine the relative economy of applying different fertilizer formulae for renovation of permanent pasture. This project is now in its eighth year.

The second experiment which is of importance in Eastern Ontario and Wester Quebec deals with the necessity of providing good succulent grazing for beef cattle throughout the summer. Begun in 1936, this experiment aims to find out whether a rotation of crops for pasture purposes will provide a greater and more uniform production of herbage than continually grazed blue grass pasture. Based on an average of seven years, the experiment was compared with a permanent pasture of equal fertility, the pasture in crop rotation giving an increase of 11.3 per cent over the permanent pasture The net return per acre over the permanent pasture was $2.19. Cultural practices are included in the cost of the pasture in a crop rotation. Progress reports are issued jointly every year of the two experiments.

The third experiment started in 1945 and is designed to study comparative value of various seed mixtures for pasture purpose with special emphasis on combinations of alfalfa and brome grass compared with permanent pastures.

EVEN CONTENTED COWS WOULD SMILE AT THIS

An Aylmer bacelor walked into an Aylmer store the other day bent on buying several cans of Carnation milk. Later he walked into this office and reported the King Government has a funny way of trying to increase Canada's population. He said that the pretty little clerk informed him that before he could buy a little canned milk e would "have to get a doctor's order, and have a baby. — Aylmer Express.

Sandy MacPherson: "And you are to be a caddie, lad?"
Caddie: "Yes, sir."
Sandy: "Tell me, are you good at finding balls?"
Caddie: "Yes, I am."
Sandy: "Then look around a bit and find one so we can start the game."
