Large congregations gathered last Sunday in the Methodist Church, Maxwell, to listen to their former pastor, Rev. Scott of Meaford, who delivered two excellent sermons.

The entertainment on Monday evening was a decided success. A number from Wareham and Feversham assisted in the singing which was much appreciated. Much credit is due Mrs. B. McCallum, organist, who trained a number of little girls in singing, each representing a flower. A tableaux given by a number of young ladies from Wareham was good. The proceeds amounted to $46.00.

Mr. and Mrs. Hudson from the West, also Mr. and Mrs. Hartley, are visiting friends in and around Maxwell. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson were old residents of Maxwell, and Mrs. Hartley is a daughter of the late Foster Heron.

Your correspondent wishes the Editor and the many readers of The Advance a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Edward Boyce, a man about 70 years of age, was rather seriously injured at the furniture factory, where he is engaged in yard work. He was on a wagon, which was being driven through the yard and in going down a steep incline, the wagon slewed and he either jumped or was thrown off, when his head was crushed between the wagon and a lumber pile. He was badly crushed about the head and face and his skull was slightly fractured. Recovery is hoped for.

Mrs. Wm. Hewitt has a valuable hen judging by her fruit, and that usually isn't a bad criterion to go by. On the 10th of December she laid an egg measuring eight inches by six and a half, on the 11th an ordinary sized one, on the 12th another large one seven and one-half by six inches. She then missed a day and laid another one on the 14th. The four weighed nearly 13 ounces, or about double the weight of common eggs. They were all given the editor of this great family journal, with a wish for A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. Thanks. Next!

Nothing has yet been heard of Donald L. McDonald, who wandered away mysteriously from his home on Friday, the 5th of December, nearly two weeks ago. The whole neighborhood has been searched for the missing man, and the utter lack of success leaves the mystery still unsolved. A good deal of talk and speculation is being indulged in in the neighborhood, but no one appears able to give a satisfactory solution to the problem. Unless he wandered off some place for reasons of his own and is purposely concealing his whereabouts, very few now expect to see him return alive. It seems to us that under such circumstances the government should be advised of the facts and make a thorough investigation at once. It must be a dozen or more years since the disappearance of John Jardine from his home in Glenelg, and up to the present we havn't a title of evidence to show what became of him. The last incident calls up the former, and many people are thinking.—Chronicle.

Is temperance a "charitable purpose?" This question is raised to the construction of the will of the late Michael Patrick Doyle of Puslinch township. While reserving judgment Mr. Justice Latchford is inclined to say yes. Doyle directed that $7,000 be set aside until a temperance hotel should be established in Guelph, in which event the interest on the then principal should go to the maintenance of that "temperance hotel." One of the three trustees of this fund is the Roman Catholic Bishop of Hamilton. In his will, Doyle says: "It has ever been one of the motives of my life to inculcate the principles and practices of abstinence from intoxicating liquors among the people with whom I have lived, and I have at all times endeavored to assist in the promotion of this cause." It is a very worthy cause and probably money could not be used better in its behalf than in the encouragement of the establishment of barless hotels.

DOES IT MATTER?

DOES IT MATTER to you that of all the men, women and children who die each year in Canada one in seven is a victim of Consumption?

DOES IT MATTER that one in every three of these is cut off in the full glow of life, with plans and hopes and loves that must be given up?

DOES IT MATTER that a few persons have joined hands and within a few short years have saved thousands of these unhappy ones and can save them all if only there is a little more help and a little more money?

Perhaps it doesn't matter. It is all very interesting but it is no immediate concern of yours.

BUT WOULD IT MATTER if instead of entering somebody else's home and carrying off their loved ones, Consumption came into your home and laid its hand on the one you love the best in all the world?

WOULD IT MATTER then if you saw your husband, wife, child or friend dying for lack of a little bit of the money some other fellow was throwing away?

WOULD IT MATTER when Christmas came if there were nothing for you to do but sit on the edge of the bed and stroke the white hand on the coverlet and realize that this was the last Christmas?

This is how much it matters in thousands of homes in Canada this year and will continue to matter until enough people like you test the burden and feel how crushing it is.

IT DOES matter—it is the most important thing in the life of some unfortunate sufferer—what you do with the attached form.

Pity the Editor.

"What's the matter?" inquired the foreman as he entered the sanctum for copy, and noted the editor's swollen forehead, puffed red eye, and tattered, dusty coat. "Did you fall downstairs?"

"No—only that," replied the editor, pointing with his finger to a paragraph in the paper before him. "It's in our account of the Crapley-Smith wedding. It ought to read: Miss Smith's dimpled, shining face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Crapley's strong, bold physiognomy.' But see how it was printed."

And the foreman read: "Miss Smith's pimpled, skinny face formed a pleasing contrast to Mr. Crapley's strange, bald physiognomy."

"Crapley was just in here," continued the editor, throwing one blood-streaked handkerchief into the waste-paper basket, and feeling in his pocket for a clean one, "and he—but just send that proofreader man here! There's fight left in me yet!"

Loss of Musical Memory.

One of the most notable cases of sudden loss of musical memory recorded is that of Emile Prudent. One day in a concert while playing his own concerto with orchestra he lost all consciousness of the connection between the notes, and from that time he had music only as confused sounds. Neither from his own playing nor from that of the orchestra could he gain a distinct idea and found that he had completely lost the ability to read the notes. From his attack, however, he soon recovered. The gravest symptoms disappeared the next day, but from that time he could play only from notes.

No Reason To Work.

A large, slouchy colored man went shuffling down the road whistling like a lark. His clothes were ragged, and his shoes were out at the toes and heels, and he appeared to be in the depths of poverty for all his mirth.

As he passed a prosperous looking house a man stepped from the doorway and hailed him.

"Hey, Jim! I got a job for you. Do you want to make a quarter?"

"No," said the ragged one. "I done got a quarter."

Grief and Remorse.

"No," said the stage manager, "you are the heroine. You are supposed to suffer more than anybody else in the play. You must put yourself into a frame of mind which represents grief and remorse."

"I know," replied the leading woman. "I'll try to make myself believe I'm one of the people who paid $2 to see this play."

Train Jacked a Moose.

An engine "running light," one dark night, was derailed by a big bull moose in New Brunswick. The driver explained that he had seen the animal standing on the track, staring intently at the approaching headlight, but until close up to it had not imagined that it would remain there to be killed. He had however whistled, and then reversed his engine as it drew near the moose. For this he was greatly blamed by the superintendent, who explained that having made the mistake of supposing that the moose would not, or could not divert its gaze from that glaring light, he should have crowded on al steam in the hope of throwing the huge carcass aside with the cowcatcher.—Montreal Standard.

Has Phenomenal Power.

Alex. Logan, father of Hugh J. Logan, aged nine years, of Clinton Township, a mile from Beamsville, Ont., maintains that his son is possessed of a phenomenal power by which articles that he touches are thrown with great force without any effort by the boy. Mr. Logan states that the phenomenon was first observed on the day following an electric storm, during which he noticed a circle of light about the head of a hammer with which the boy was driving nails. He further asserts that the influence now seems to be leaving the boy gradually, and that the lad suffers from frequent headaches.
