LIVE WIRE CANINES.

Queer Little Watchdogs on the Canal-boats in Holland.

For many generations the breed of dog now known as the schipperke was nameless, but as they became familiar features along the banks of the canals in their native country, Holland, they won their present name, which means "little skipper." Tourists of the present day in Holland will see few canal boats that have not their two skippers, man and dog. His popularity is much more than national in extent. Travelers and dog breeders, attracted by the intelligence and nervous energy of this twelve pound mite, have carried him into other countries.

The schipperke is an excellent watch-dog. For generations he has been trained to guard his master's boat. His bark is peculiarly rapid and piercing, and his oval eyes see everything. He has the reputation of never sleeping except in "cat naps" of a few minutes' duration. The activity, alertness and endurance of the schipperke are really astonishing. He has been compared to a bundle of "live wires."

In appearance the schipperke is an odd little fellow. As a rule, his coat is entirely black, abundant, thick and harsh except on the head, erect ears and legs. It increases to a mane or frill round the neck. The head is foxy in type, the muzzle fine, but not weak; the neck strong and rather short and the chest broad. Many of the schipperkes are born without tails. Those that are not so born have their tails docked when very young since custom insists on a tailless schipperke.—London Standard.

OLD ENGLISH FORMALITY.

When a Wife Never Called Her Husband by His First Name.

There is a curious picture of the formality of a former generation in Sir Algernon West's "One City and Many Men," wherein he states that in his youth it was considered highly improper for a wife to address her husband by his Christian name or for a son to address his parents without saying "sir" or "ma'am."

"I never heard my mother call my father by his Christian name," he writes, "and I recollect distinctly that the fame of a very fashionable and brilliant woman was seriously imperiled because after some great man's death a letter from her to him was discovered beginning with his Christian name.

"The formal 'sir' was current everywhere. At Eton we never recognized any departure from this practice, and letters between boy friends began, 'My dear sir.'

"A friend of mine dining with Lady Jersey heard her say she never recollected her father, Lord Westmoreland, though specially attached to her sister, Lady Lonsdale, calling her anything but Lady Lonsdale. And Henry Greville, who was present at the same dinner, said that he remembered his mother, Lady Charlotte, and her brother, the Duke of Portland, meeting in the morning at Welbeck abbey, when the salutations were:

"'How is your ladyship this morning?'

"'I am quite well, I am obliged to your grace.'"

Railroad Fatalities.

A contemporary has estimated that since the average length of a railroad journey in this country is thirty-four miles, and a passenger may take 2,275,122 such journeys with only one chance of being killed, it would take him, at two trips a day, 3,792 years to run the full gamut of risk. That is to say, if the one fatal accident happened to him in the present year it would have been necessary for him to start his railroad traveling, at two trips a day, in the year 1879 B. C. It must be borne in mind, however, that he might be killed on his first trip.

Schoolboy Blunders.

These mistakes by British schoolboys are reported by the London Times:

"When the last French attack at Waterloo proved a failure Napoleon turned very pale and rode at full gallop to St. Helena."

"A problem is a figure which you do things with which are absurd, and then you prove it."

"When Chaucer describes the prioress as 'amiable of port' he means that she was fond of wine."

"The mineral wealth of a country is ginger beer and lemonade."

A Giant Redwood.

The largest tree in the United States is said to be the mother of the forest, a giant redwood in the Calaveras big tree grove in California. It is supposed to contain 140,049 board feet of lumber. There are, however, many claimants for the honor of being the "largest tree" and the "oldest tree," and these claims, according to foresters, cannot always be verified.—Indianapolis News.

Sizing Up a Tip.

"I'm afraid I gave that waiter too big a tip," said the frugal diner.

"He seems quite appreciative."

"That's it. I merely wanted him to say 'Thank you.' I didn't expect him to bow and say 'Good night, sir.'"—Washington Star.

Principles.

We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.

Friendship is the only thing in the world concerning the usefulness of which all mankind are agreed.—Cicero.

The other day Mr. Wm. Finlay received a pleasant surprise when he entered the stable. He was surprised to see a couple of small chicks upon the cement floor. Not seeing a hen about, he decided to investigate. He noticed there was a considerable crack in the ceiling, and thought perhaps by hunting in the hay mow something would come to light. After considerable hunting about he discovered a Plymouth Rock hen and 21 chickens. The hen had sat on 24 eggs and hatched 21. This is phenomenal results in hatching, and in view of the fact that Mr. Finlay knew nothing of the hen's efforts, was a lucky find.—Meaford Mirror.

Lennox Fachnie was hiking at a 40-mile an hour gait to Airlie on Wednesday afternoon to play baseball, and when making the turn at T. McMullen's corner, the brake on the motorcycle failed to operate, and he went bang into the wire fence. He was rendered unconscious for a time, and when brought to the doctor's it was found that a bone in the arch of his foot was broken and the ligaments badly strained. He is now doing nicely, and the Indian was not badly damaged, but it was fortunate for both it was not a rail fence.—Creemore Star.

According to a despatch from Ottawa in the new redistribution bill the House of Commons finally divided Grey County into two ridings, East Grey losing its seat and subdivided into North and South Grey. The north riding will be composed of the towns of Meaford and Owen Sound and the townships of Sydenham, Keppel, Derby, Sarawak, St. Vincent, Collingwood and Euphrasia. South Grey consists of the towns of Durham and Hanover, and the villages of Flesherton, Dundalk, Chatsworth and Markdale, and the townships of Holland, Sullivan, Glenelg, Proton, Artemesia, Bentinck and Normanby.

BROODING OVER MISTAKES.

It Does No Good and Is Merely Committing a Second Fault.

Mistakes are to be laughed at. If one were to take seriously every little mistake he made life would become a burden to him. Laugh at your own little mistakes and do not feel grieved if others laugh at them. Laughing will help you remember to avoid them another time quite as well as giving away to serious regrets.

Some people are forever taking themselves to task for some shortcoming They are the overconscientious ones. If we act foolishly on the impulse of a moment it is no more fair to punish ourselves than to punish a child for a little mistake. It is right to look for the error and acknowledge it. If one has wronged another he ought to confess it and be more careful, then put it out of mind.

To grow morose and solemn is to commit a second fault. No one is doing any good to himself or others by constantly eating the bread of penitence. The only time to remember a mistake is when one is tempted again to the same fault. Daily and hourly keeping up self reproach, one is worn out. This does not mean never to listen to the warnings of conscience, but to see the fault, start afresh and keep cheerful and hopeful.—Milwaukee Journal.

LINCOLN TOLD A STORY.

It Was So Good It Inflicted and Then Remitted a Fine.

Abraham Lincoln, during his early career as a lawyer, traveled a circuit in Illinois. Judge David Davis and Lincoln were close friends, says the author of "Lincoln's Own Stories," and the judge always showed a keen appreciation of Lincoln's stories.

"I was never fined but once for contempt of court," said a man who was a clerk of court in Lincoln's day. "Davis fined me $5. Mr. Lincoln had just come in, and, leaning over my desk, had told me a story so irresistibly funny that I broke out in a loud laugh. The judge called me to order, saying:

"'This must be stopped. Mr. Lincoln, you are constantly disturbing this court with your stories.'

"Then he said to me:

"'You may fine yourself $5.'

"I apologized to the court, but told the judge that the story was worth the money. Shortly afterward the judge called me to him.

"'What was that story that Lincoln told you?' he asked.

"I told him, and he laughed aloud in spite of himself.

"'Remit your fine!' he ordered."

Roland Marshall of the 7th con., Brant met with a painful accident that might easily have resulted fatally, when a large embankment caved in on him while working in a gravel pit on a neighboring farm on Tuesday afternoon. He was busy loading a wagon at the time of the mishap, when the large embankment which was towering in a threatening manner above him suddenly caved in and buried him underneath its massive weight. The speed with which his colleagues came to the rescue and dug him out alone prevented the mishap being transformed into a tragedy. As it was, his right leg was painfully bruised and injured, and his knee so badly sprained that he will be off duty for some time.

Fred Zarn, who has been fined here before for beating his wife, was arrested by Chief Ferguson for again pummeling the girl he swore to protect. Before punishment was meted out to the prisoner, Zarn was given a severe reprimand by the court in which an effort was made to impress upon him the despisable conduct of a man who will beat a woman. The magistrate then proceeded to fine the prisoner $5.00 and costs or a total assessment of about $12 00. Zarn was also bound over to keep the peace to the extent of $500 for a year, and, if within that time he is again convicted for a similar offence he will be given three months in the county jail.

Dr. Hall was hurriedly called to Carrick on Monday morning last owing to an accident which befell Mr. John Wilson of the 12th concession there. While seated on two large timbers going up a hill near Eidt's sawmill, one of the timbers slipped back and threw him off the load under the front wheel of the wagon, which passed over him. Still retaining his hold on the lines, Wilton drew the horses into the ditch and circled them right around onto himself, one of the animals stepping on his back near the shoulder and badly injuring him. He would probably have been trampled to death by the horses had men not rushed from Eidt's mill and pulled him from his perilous position. As it was, his back was injured in a manner that made his condition extremely alarming for a time but it is now thought that no serious complications will set in and that his recovery is assured. As a result of the mishap he will be laid off duty for many weeks.—Bruce Heral and Times.

An Endorsation.

At the annual Convention of South Grey Temperance Association on Friday last, the following resolution moved by Thompson Boyd and seconded by D. Knechtel, was passed unanimously:

"That having heard the report of the Committee representing the South Grey Temperance Association, appointed to interview the candidates nominated for the Legislative Assembly and receive their replies as to their attitude on the present temperance issues before the electorate of this Province this South Grey Temperance Association hereby declares that the position of Dr. Jamieson is entirely unsatisfactory to us, his record (upon which he stands and to which he appeals) having been that of repeatedly voting in the House against the provisions of the present platform of the Dominion Alliance when proposed to the House by Mr. N. W. Rowell, while Mr. C. Ramage has given a clear, explicit and positively affirmative answer pledging himself if elected to support in the House the full platform of the Dominion Alliance, viz., the abolition of the bar, the abolition of drinking in clubs, the treating system and of the 3-5ths majority requirement in local option voting, therefore,

Resolved that this South Grey Convention hereby endorses Mr. C. Ramage as the only candidate whose attitude on the present Temperance issues before the electorate is satisfactory to the Temperance people who demand legislation decidedly in advance of that now on the Statute book."—Advt.

Gilbert Bretz of Shelburne met with a shooting accident which will confine him to the house for some time and may permanently lame him. He was at Mr. Henry Marlatt's, Melancthon Station, in company with George Marlatt of Toronto. They were examining an old shotgun which was not supposed to be loaded. The hammer would not work, and Marlatt was trying to snap it while Bretz was washing his hands a few feet away. Suddenly the gun went off and the charge took Bretz in the side of the foot, making a very nasty hole in the arch of the foot, behind the big toe, and breaking the bones back of the second toe.—Shelburne Free Press.

Henry Batterman, an elderly resident of Sullivan township, had a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Armstrong on Monday on a serious charge. The magistrate had no other alternative than to commit him for trial at Owen Sound, and the case will be tried there at a later date. In the meantime he is released on $2000 bail.—Standard.
